LETTER FROM TOLEDO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

TOLEDO, June 18, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO.—Once again with your permission I drop you a line, and enclose a few programmes of the different places of amusements offered the citizens of Toledo. Dan Rice with his Paris Pavilion Circus, opened here on the 14th and 15th, and as he is an old favorite, the attendance was very large; of late years he has traveled on his old reputation, but the entertainment is only mediocre. The best act was the blindfolding of the girl Zoe, with a handkerchief, and then covering of her from head to waist with a bag, only allowing her arms freedom, when she swings from one side of the tent to the other and catches a small rope suspended from the top of the tent. The blind horse Excelsior, and trick horse Stephen A. Douglas, both appear and are well trained. J. K. Emmet, (Fritz) puts in an appearance Monday and enough tickets have already been sold to guarantee him a full house. Fielding's Opera House still attracts those who like the style of entertainment offered. Wheeler's Opera House, as fine an edifice as can be found in any of our Western Cities, and supplied with all the modern improvements, will be opened soon, rumor says by Barney McCauly with Wood's Theatre Troupe of Cincinnati. More anon, STUFFY MCGULLIGAN.

Is the best laundry in San Francisco

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

Edwin Adams

Bright, full of spirit, and soul-inspiring as are the impersonations of this talented young tragedian, many who witness them find that between the acts it is very pleasant to have something as bright, inspiriting and genuine in the shape of a glass of delicious old rye. For this they go as a matter of course to the Figaro Saloon, where the red light shines on the opposite side of the street. Hermann keeps up the reputation of this saloon by keeping the best of everything.

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

LETTER FROM BOSTON.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

BOSTON, June, 19th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO.—Boston is very warm and theatricals dull. The company of the Boston Theatre disbanded after Johnny Thompsons engagement closed. This evening the company from the New York Theatre Comique, under the direction of Messrs. Butler and Gilmore, will open. It is a large and talented troupe of variety performers, consisting of fifty persons, each one of whom is a superior artist in his or her line. The airiness of the Boston Theatre renders it peculiarly agreeable for a place of summer entertainment, and the performances of this company will be light and amusing, and exactly suited to the season. Among the performers are Messrs. Hughey Dougherty, Ashcroft, Morton, Lew Ratler, Charles Howard, Miss Jennie Engle, M'lle Venturoli and other well-known and established favorites.

Mrs. Poole is engaged for next season as leading heavy lady and first old woman. There is talk of Budworth and variety show after Gilmore, so the Boston Theatre is likely to be open somehow, the whole year. The Globe has closed with Charles Mathews who came too late in the season to do a very good business. There will be almost a new company at this theatre next season, Mrs Barry leading lady, Mr Boniface leading gentleman, Robson low comedian and Mr Lloyd enjoying and deserving all he receives in commendation from the public and no doubt "good value." The engagement of Mlle Morlacchi at the Museum will continue a week longer at the Museum. Barnum's show has done all the business for a week past. I circulate my FIGARO freely and it is quite appreciated by the members of the profession.

TOUCHSTONE.

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

What Cheer Laundry.

321 Leidesdorff street, near Sacramento.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Save Your Money.

The Land Mortgage Union is the best place to invest your savings. 50 cents per fortnight amounts, in about eight years, to $250. Investers can withdraw their funds after twelve months with withdrawal rate of interest. Call at the office, 123 Post street, for information.

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent. office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

Those Who Leave the City

For a jaunt to the country or watering places without a supply of DR. GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL CREAM will regret it, for their skins will terribly Tan, Freckle and Redden, all of which the use of the Oriental Cream will prevent. Thousands of ladies will testify to the fact. Of the many irtues attributed to the various skin lotions daily advertised, scarcely one-tenth are ever realized; moreover, several are positively injurious to the health form their repellant properties, and in many instances absolutely peel off the skin. Dr. G. is constantly in receipt of notices setting forth these facts. Dr. Gouraud's Oriental Cream is not the creature of mere advertising notoriety—it is recommended from one customer to another. This has extended its sale until it has become a specialty by its own merits. Ladies who have not used this preparation should give it a trial. Prepared only by DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD, No. 48 Bond street; Laboratory, 55 Great Jones street, New York; and sold by leading druggists throughout the United States and Canadas. San Francisco Agents: REDINGTON, HOSTETTER & CO.; CRANE & BRIGHAM.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Reading Matter for All.

John G. Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Important to Strangers.

ABRAHAM'S, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. [ABRAHAMS, 33 and 35 Second street.

Fourth of July.

The Committee on Regalia for the Fourth of July, after examining six sets of regalia, made by different business firms, awarded the contract to the undersigned, as offering the best material at the lowest prices. Marshals of Divisions and Aids can be supplied by C. Desmond, No. 5 New Montgomery street, Grand Hotel

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, which afflictions he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, North-East corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

"Where are you Going,

Mr. Guyser?" "I'm going to buy a pair of boots for my sweetheart to go to the Springs with," "Where at?" "Where? why, what a question. Why, where every body gets them; at F. X. Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 822 and 824 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre."

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH!

HEADQUARTERS GRAND MARSHAL, Merchants' Exchange Building, Room No. 25, San Francisco, June 26, 1871.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

I.—All Societies, Civic and Military, having been cordially invited to participate in the due observance of our National Anniversary, it is requested that those intending to parade who have not already forwarded letters of acceptance, will do so without delay.

II.—Carrying out the excellent provision inaugurated by my distinguished predecessor, and which meets with universal approval, it is ordered that no individual advertising of craft or calling will be tolerated in the Procession. Organized bodies are held responsible to the public for any deviation from good taste displayed in their decorations and appointments.

III.—Marshals and Chief Aids of Divisions, and Aids to the Grand Marshal, are notified that their uniform will be black or dark blue suits, and that the contract for Regalia, as adopted by the Board convened for that purpose, was awarded to C. DESMOND, under the Grand Hotel.

IV.—District Collectors of the Finance Committee are reminded that their continual efforts are all-important, and that they are called by their Chairman to meet at this office, to report progress, on WEDNESDAY, June 28th, at 12, M.

V.—The route of the Procession will be as follows: From Second street, corner of Folsom, to Montgomery, to Jackson, to Kearny, to Market, to Valencia, where a countermarch will be effected to Kearny, Geary to Stockton, and to the Pavilion, where the several Divisions will be reviewed en passant and dismissed.

The Literary and Musical exercises of the day will take place within the Pavilion.

Citizens living on the line of march need no reminder to display their bunting and beautify their dwellings and streets with all the decorative devices their patriotism and means will admit of.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—A very large and brilliantly fashionable audience assembled last night on the occasion of the farewell benefit of the Mrs. John T. Raymond. The sensational drama of "Jennie Deans" was presented, and the beneficiary played the character of the heroine admirably. There never was a prettier or more interesting representative of Effie Deans than Miss Minnie Walton; she looked and played the part to perfection. John McCullough gained much applause for his speech in the part of Counsellor Fairbrother. W. H. Sedley Smith was excellent as David Deans, and the other parts were pretty well played. At the conclusion of the play, Mrs. Raymond was called before the curtain and made her appearance accompanied by her husband. She said, "It was no use trying to express her thanks, words could not do it, she saw so many friends present that she was sorry to part with even for a while, that it was impossible for her to express what she felt. so she could only say, good bye and God bless you all:' then she looked at the audience as if she really wished she could take them all in her arms at once and give them an affectionate hug, and retired behind the curtain. This exciting drama will be presented this afternoon and evening with the same cast.

THE ALHAMBRA.— act in the programme presented at this house is so good that it is hard to particularize, but just at present Vivian's local song, in which he satirizes everything and everyone, protesting that he knows "its no business of his," does as much to fill the house as anything. Billy Emerson's new set of Dutch songs; Hall's banjo solos and Purdy's Mississippi Fling, are all capital. There will be a matinee to-day for ladies and children when the same excellent bill which has delighted large audiences every night through the week will be played.

BELLA UNION.—Aline Le Favre, Johnny Manning, Marie Zoel, Blanche Sully, and the strong company of the Bella Union Theatre will all appear in a rich and diversified programme of songs, dances and amusing acts, and "Scenes in Paris," with its exciting can-can. On Monday, Ella Wesner, the protean actress, will appear in her delineations of character. In addition to other attractions the talented Reynolds Brothers will appear in songs and dances, and will receive a hearty welcome back to the Bella Union Theatre where they are great favorites.

OXFORD THEATRE.—Saturday nights' bill at the Oxford is always a "screamer." Amelia Dean, Clara Starr, and the whole troupe of pretty girls will appear in new acts; Cogill and Cooper will present the best songs and dances in their repertoire; Harris will sing more songs, and tell more funny stories, and there will be plenty of amusement.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—The popularity of this place of amusement is explained by the fact that there is always something new. To-night there is another change in the performance. Prof. Paul Boulon's performance on the violin is a popular feature. The full programme appears on our first page.

BENEFIT TO MAX ZORER.—To-morrow evening a capital entertainment will be given at the California Theatre for the benefit of Max Zorer well known in California as a musician, composer and manager. Of late years Max has suffered much from illness and his brother professionals, take this means of extending him a helping hand. The names of those volunteering appear on our first page. The performance will commance with. the play of "The Happy Honeymoon; or, who said t?" in which Mr. Niemeir, Miss Otilie Genee and Miss Emma Meier, will appear. After this an interlude will be given. Miss Helen Dingeon, the charming vocalist, will sing; Senorita Lopez and her four little pupils, whose graceful performances will delight the ladies, will appear; Professor H Lakes will perform a concertina solo; the ever-popoular little Sallie De Angelis will sing a comic song, and Professor Geschwandner will perform on the sweet-toned Zither. The farce of "Kurmarker and Picarole; or, Prussia and France," performed by Max Lube and Miss Josephine Wolff, will conclude the evening's entertainment. Those who attend will enjoy a very pleasant entertainment and help a worthy artist, who is in unfortunate circumstances through no fault of his own. If auld acquaintances are not forgot in California Max Zorer will have a bumper benefit.

PRESENTATIONS.—Last night after the third act of "Jennie Deans," Mrs. John T. Raymond was approached by R. J. Preston, the "Captain" of the noble band of supernumeraries, who have so often fought and died on the California stage, and requested her and her husband to proceed to the apartment occupied by his troops; when they reached there, Mr. Preston in a neat little speech begged Mrs Raymond's acceptance of a pair of silver napkin rings, with gold monogram and inscription. "Presented by the Supernumeraries of the California Theatre" as a token of the esteem in which they held her and her husband. A number of fine damask napkins accompanied the rings. Mrs. Raymond was much affected at this proof of the affection in which she was held by all ranks of artistes on the California stage, and in her speech before the curtain, made mention of it in a manner which showed how much gratification it afforded her. Besides this and a whole conservatory of bouquets, Mrs. Raymond was presented with a silver card case by Mr. and Mrs. Torrance, a tortoise-shell card case by Mrs. Saunders, and a pair of diamond sleeve buttons by J. A. Smith, all of which will be cherished by her remembrances of her California friends.

CLIFF HOUSE.—A drive to the Cliff House on a moonlight night is perfectly delightful and the enjoyment of spinning along the road is increased by the certainty of receiving a warm welcome on arriving, from mine host Foster, and having supper up in the winking of an eye. The new ball room, with its beautiful floor of colored woods, is much admired by all who see it, and many fashionable parties have been given there.

ELLA WESNER.—The name of this talented protean performer appears in the list of passengers which passed Ogden on its way to California yesterday; she will therefore arrive to-night.

JOE MURPHY.—The public will be glad to learn that arrangements have been perfected for the appearance of this very popular actor and minstrel performer at the Metropolitan Theatre. During the coming week the carpenters and scene painters will be busy making preparations for the production of "Help," which will be presented for the first time during the following week. How successful Joe has been in this play, the following from the Albany Register shows:

"Mr. Joe Murphy made his debut last night to a large and delighted audience. To say that this vast throng was pleased is not expressive enough. Mr. M carried the house by storm by his sparkling and origieal style of acting, equalling if not surpassing any class of Irish and Dutch comedy acting and singing ever given in this city. The stage Irishman in Murphy's hands becomes a natural creation, instead of the hitherto artificial semblance, and he seems fully to have caught the true spirit of Hibernia's sons, and possessing, as he does, the most marked ability to delineate and the richest kind of a brogue, we must unhesitatingly pronounce him one of the best of Irish comedians. His Dutch sketches also fairly carried the house; and indeed he seems as much at home in the Teutonic as the Irish dialect. The Tyro can song and Dutch clog dance have never been equalled in this city. Mr. M.'s success on the dramatic stage is unquestionable, and Mr. Maeder's "Help" is a splendid vehicle to illustrate his talent."

THE LINGARDS.—On Monday evening Miss Alice Dunning, (Lingard) Miss Dickey Lingard, W H. Lingard and Ben. Dunning, will make their first appearance. We all know how charming Miss Alice Lingard is, and appreciate the talent of W. H. Lingard, but are yet to be bewitched by the charms of the sprightly Dickey.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—Hazelmayer commenced a series of entertainments of magic, music and trained mice and birds, on the 23th.

CARSON, NEV.—The Atlantic and Pacific Circus gave a performance on Monday for the benefit of the fund for the erection of a school house. The amount taken for admission was $671,50. Expenses of circus company, $250; license, $20; printing, $5; posting bill's, $1,'0— total, $.76,50; leaving the handsome sum of $325 for the School Fund.

DENVER, COL.—The Cricket was still running with a variety troupe. Signor Farini was advertised to give a concert on the 24th.

CHEYENNE.—The Leader of the 26th, has the following concerning Madame Lake's circus, which had arrived the day before with $15,000 made in that Territory:

The "Wild Horse of Tartary," and two other horses belonging to Madame Lake's outfit, escaped from those having them in charge at Evans Saturday night. After a chase across the prairie, over irrigating ditches, etc., about six miles, they were finally corralled.

YREKA,—Madame Jael's Circus performed on Sunday and gave satisfaction. The Journal pronounces the minstrel side show a bilk. The New York Circus showed on the following evening. Enough circus for Yreka for a time.

SALT LAKE.—On the 24th, W. G. Coggeshall, Carrie Carter, J. W. Carter and E. B. Marden, appeared in the comedy of "Everybody's Friend," and the Hernandez Troupe made their last appearance. On the 26th Professor Silvester, assisted by Miss Angelique Schotte, gave his first entertainment

CORINNE.—The citizens of Corinne tendered The Great Western Minstrels a benefit at the Opera House on the 26th.

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T.—The Beatty Troupe were performing at Masonic Hall last week. A local burlesque of "Romeo and Juliet," was played. The company will play again on the 6th.

PORTLAND, OR.—The Portland Philharmonic Society gave their eleventh concert at Oro Fino Hall on June 23d. The Programme was well carried out and the attendance large.

MARYSVILLE.—The theatre is at present occupied by C. L. Graves' "Panadioram," a panorama of a trip across the plains. "One hundred valuable prizes" are distributed every evening.

LOS ANGELES.—The Nathan Troupe have been very successful at La Merced Theatre. Little Marion Nathan is a great favorite. The troupe will perform next week.

OMAHA.—It is some time since Omaha has had a theatrical entertainment, or any amusement at all. The great event of next week will be the Gift Festival for the purpose of establishing a Public Library. Not only the people of Omaha, but others in every State in the Union are interested in this, as thousands of tickets have been sold, and some lucky ones in the course of the next week or ten days will become suddenly rich.

RENO.—The Atlantic and Pacific Circus was billed to appear here on the 27th.

SACRAMENTO CITY.—GRAND FESTIVAL.—The grand concert for the benefit of the Sacramento Pioneer and Library Association which has been for some time past in preparation will positively take place on July 19th. Tickets are being sold very fast. Excursion tickets may be bought at the principal book and music stores in this city.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Edwin Forrest will commence his next season at the Walnut, in Philadelphia.

Lina Edwins' enlarged theatre will probably be opened by the Lydia Thompson Troupe.

Little Nell and Harry Clifford are travelling with a dramatic company in New Jersey.

The Lisa Weber burlesquers are playing through Iowa, on their way to New York, where they contemplate a short season.

Star engagements for the coming season by the manager of the Pittsburgh Opera House, Pa., have already been effected with Edwin Booth, Joe Jefferson, Lawrence Barrett, Charles Mathews, and the Parepa Rosa Opera Combination.

Miss Rose Evans sailed for London, Eng., in the steamship Helvetia, on June 17th.

At the Baltimore, Md., Opera House, a Summer Season was to be commenced on June 26th.

The dramatic and minstrel professions seem to appreciate the value of having the endorsement of San Francisco, "the only school for actors." In the bills of Smith's Opera House, East Saginaw, Mich., we notice "Farron and Baker, the California Dutch Comiques."

Owen Marlowe, engaged for the coming season at the California Theatre, took a benefit at the Fourteenth-avenue Theatre on the 26th.

Mr. Sol Smith, Jr., and Miss Sedley Brown were united in marriage at Chicago, Ill., on June 10th.

Frank Mayo is in Cleveland, Ohio, and intends to make it his future home.

At San Francisco Hall, in Broadway, on the 19th and through the week, a mechanical representation of the City of Paris, in zinc was displayed. It is built on a platform, and covers 400 feet. It shows Paris as it was before the late war.

The New York Sunday Mercury says: The famous lady orchestra to be imported by Rullman from Germany will open here on the 11th September. It is composed entirely of ladies, each of whom is a mistress of her instrument. Each also is young, and warranted pretty. The trombone is a blonde, and charming. They will be a delightful contrast to the now colored and spectacled masculines who have hitherto officiated. When the young ladies first appeared in Vienna, they made an immense sensation, and the Empress and her court visited them often. The costumes, ten in number for each performer, arrived a few day ago. They are all evening dresses of elegant designs, and brilliantly contrasting colors.

Young Richard Coker, who, as a handsome boy of thirteen, delighted Trinity Church-goers seme ears ago with a delicious soprano voice, has now with increasing age, become a fine tenor, and will make his appearance in opera in about a year.

The San Francisco Minstrels are home again after an extensive tour in the West.

Mr. Norman Holly made a success in C. Daniel's play of "Wild: a Life Picture" which was produced on the 13th, at Carr's Opera House, Rochester.

Forty-four thousand dollars has been raised toward the proposed new German Theatre in New York, Locality to be between Eighth and Twenty third street, on East side.

Fox's American Theatre, Philadelphia, continues doing remarkably well, and is far ahead of any other variety establishment in that city. Charles Howard closed there on the 17th, and goes to Boston for the 19th.

Joseph Heine, the blind violinist, and Ada Heine, pianist, are engaged for Jullien's concerts in Brooklyn.

Charles Matthews was engaged to appear at Providence, R. I., on the 19th and 20th ults.

Miss Anna Swan the Nova Scotia Giantess who went from San Francisco to New York, and thence to England, was recently married in London, to Martin Van Buren Bates.

The Clipper prophesies that the theatrical campaign of 1871-2 will be a very spirited one and that talent will be in demand and fetch a large price.

NAPA SODA.

THE NATURAL WATER as TAKEN FROM THE SPRINGS AT NAPA.

THE WATER HAS BEEN EXTENSIVELY used for the past thirteen years, with the most satisfactory results. It contains many valuable properties, as will be seen by the following

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

532 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

Below Montgomery Block.

MONDAY.....JULY 3, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE C.P.A. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

Tall Walking.

"Satanella," the reliable correspondent of the "Morning Call," makes the following statement:

Weston completed on Friday night last his feat of walking four hundred miles in five consecutive days. On the Tuesday morning previous he had finished his other task of walking one hundred and twelve miles in six hours.

We don't believe Weston can walk over eighteen miles an hour and keep it up very long.

The Pontifical Procession.

The demonstration yesterday, to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession of Pope Pius IX, was an immense one. The procession was about two hours and a half in passing a given point, and was one of the largest ever seen in San Francisco. It is estimated that it contained about 12,000 people.

Hang Out Your Banners!

There will of course be a rush this year to John C. Bell's emporium, opposite the Grand Hotel, to purchase flags. By buying of him, you can cover your house with flags and your patriotism won't ruin you. For flagstaffs large or small, go to A. R. Nichols, carpenter and builder, Cedar street between Front and Davis, and Washington and Clay.

Malignant.

Adam Aulbach has sold out his interest in the Corinne Reporter, and the devil of that office writes to say that he is glad of it, for the former proprietor was "a dam 'aul back and wouldn't let the paper get ahead."

The Apprentice's Dance.

Our devil says that the first dance a boy in a printing office is put through, is a quadrill(e).

A man died at St. Louis recently, and in his will, after stating that he never forgot a favor, left $1,000 to an individual who ten years before ran away with his wife.

That Arkansas colored clergyman pronounces the story of his having been struck dead by lightning, and again struck while in his coffin, very grave but flashy reading.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

Edwin Adams.

Bright, full of spirit, and soul-inspiring as are the impersonations of this talented young tragedian, many who witness them find that between the acts it is very pleasant to have something as bright, inspiriting and genuine in the shape of a glass of delicious old rye. For this they go as a matter of course to the Figaro Saloon, where the red light shines on the opposite side of the street. Hermann keeps up the reputation of this saloon by keeping the best of everything.

What Cheer Laundry

Calls for and delivers clothes to all parts of the city.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by James G. Steele & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

Minstrels Twenty Years Ago.

The New York Clipper publishes a programme used by Ordway's Æolian Vocalists, at Hartford, Conn., on June 25th, 1851. The wording in many instances sounds odd, and after having read and reread the worn out announcements displayed on the minstrel programme of the present day. In one portion of the programme, the manager respectfully requests "that there be no beating time with the feet, as it is unpleasant to the audience, and interrupts the performances." It would not be a bad idea for all minstrel troupes to cure their audiences of this horrid practice. The minstrel entertainment proper was divided into four parts, each separate and distinct from the other, viz: In the first part the performers appeared as citizens, that is in white; in the second part, they appeared as Northern darkies, and sang such songs as "Nelly Bly," "Jolly Old Crow," "Campton Races," and "Dinah's Wedding Day," the third part was devoted to gems from the opera, in which "Masaniello," "Lucia di Lammermoor," and "Bohemian Girl," etc., were represented; in the fourth part they appeared as Southern darkies, introducing a bone, and accordeon solos, a banjo duet, and ogden polka, in costume. The programme consisted of fourteen selections of vocal music, four of instrumental, and two dances, and all for the moderate admission fee of twenty-five cents.

It would be well if some of our shining lights of the burnt cork profession would read and profit by this little relic. The public are becoming disgusted with pointless Ethiopian farces, and stereotyped wit, now on the minstrel stage, they want something new, something fresh, and the artist that first throws off the oppressive yoke and enters boldly into a new field of minstrelsy will receive the congratulatory applause of a nation.

Who will be first?

How Advertising Compels Attention.

A writer in All the Year Round says:

The truth is, in this world sheer labor and industry always make themselves felt. This is a theory that would be dear to Mr. Carlyle as representing something real and genuine. Work, he would say, is never thrown away. Men who spend sums of money, and sums of trouble and toil, together with much ingenious polychromatic device, in flourishing their names and wares, are pretty certain to find such bread as they have cast upon the waters returning to them. The wise who travel in the underground railways and see "Kitto's Starch" staring at them from over the heads of their vis-a-vis in the carriages, or the Grasshopper Sewing machine salute those titles with a "pish!" or a "pshaw!" But later, as their eye wanders over the newspaper or dead wall, or omnibus knife-board, or fly-leaf of magazine, and sees everywhere, as a murderer does blood, "Kitto's Starch," "Grasshopper Sewing Machine," a kind of dull, insensible impression is produced. By-and-bye, when either of these important necessaries are in demand in the reader's family, and when there is an impression of doubt or ignorance, the poor aid-de-camp of conceit, or conscious superiority, steps in and aids the advertiser. Where all are groping in the dark, it is hard to resist the conscious sense of superiority. "Starch! Why, there is a fellow called Kitto, who seems to be in great demand; at least his name is everywhere. Sewing machine! Get the Grasshopper—only four guineas." It will thus be seen that the advertiser owes a good deal to the pardonable little infirmities of our nature.

Reading Matter for All.

John G. Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Important to Strangers.

Abraham's, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. Abrahams, 33 and 35 Second street.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location.

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. Sharkey & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding. x

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH!

HEADQUARTERS GRAND MARSHAL, Merchants' Exchange Building, Room No. 25, San Francisco, June 26, 1871.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

I.—All Societies, Civic and Military, having been cordially invited to participate in the due observance of our National Anniversary, it is requested that those intending to parade who have not already forwarded letters of acceptance, will do so without delay.

II.—Carrying out the excellent provision inaugurated by my distinguished predecessor, and which meets with universal approval, it is ordered that no individual advertising of craft or calling will be tolerated in the Procession. Organized bodies are held responsible to the public for any deviation from good taste displayed in their decorations and appointments.

III.—Marshals and Chief Aids of Divisions, and Aids to the Grand Marshal, are notified that their uniform will be black or dark blue suits, and that the contract for Regalia, as adopted by the Board convened for that purpose, was awarded to C. DESMOND, under the Grand Hotel.

IV.—District Collectors of the Finance Committee are reminded that their continual efforts are all-important, and that they are called by their Chairman to meet at this office, to report progress, on WEDNESDAY, June 28th, at 12, M.

V.—The route of the Procession will be as follows: From Second street, corner of Folsom, to Montgomery, to Jackson, to Kearny, to Market, to Valencia, where a countermarch will be effected to Kearny, Geary to Stockton, and to the Pavilion, where the several Divisions will be reviewed en passant and dismissed.

The Literary and Musical exercises of the day will take place within the Pavilion.

Citizens living on the line of march need no reminder to display their bunting and beautify their dwellings and streets with all the decorative devices their patriotism and means will admit of.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same, duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night Miss Alice Dunning, (Lingard) Miss Dicky Lingard, W. H. Lingard and Ben Dunning will make their first appearance. The performance will commence with W. H. Lingard's comedietta entitled 'Who's to Have Him?" in which Miss Alice Dunning will appear as Lavinia with song, and Miss Dicky Lingard will make her first appearance and play Phœbe. John T. Raymond, Mrs. Judah, Miss Minnie Walton and others will appear in the piece. After this W. H. Lingard will present a new series of original sketches, some of the old favorites and his wonderful pictures of well-known characters. This rich entertainment, will conclude with the two-act comedy of 'Nav.l Engagements," in which W. H. Lingard and Miss Alice Dunning, will appear, supported by Mrs. Judah, James Carden, J. T. Raymond and W. A. Mestayer, forming about as good a comedy company as could be wished for.

Alhambra Theatre.

A new bill will be performed to-night. The first part will conclude with the burlesque comic first part, arranged by M. Ainsley Scott entitled "Scenes at the Forge," in which Master Eugenia will make his first appearance and fill the role of Leonara. In the second part Vivian will present his wonderfully clever serio-comic sketches; E. M. Hall will perform new banjo solos; Billy Emerson will appear as the Artful Dodger; the sct of "The Wrong Man," will be presented by Purdy, Hall, and the performance will conclude with the sketch of "A Squire for a Day."

Bella Union Theatre.

The Reynolds Brothers received a hearty welcome on making their appearance at this house on Saturday night and were encored again and again. To-night Miss Ella Wesner will make her first appearance in her great lightning changes and sing "Champagne Charley," Racketty Jack," and "Paving the Way." The notices of the performances of this artiste which we have seen in our Eastern exchanges are unanimous in pronouncing particularly original and pleasing and there is no doubt that she will be equally appreciated here. The present is the last week of the engagement of Aline Le Favre, who will appear nightly in "Scenes in Paris"

Oxford Theatre.

Among the latest engagements at this house are Thomas Ross, the wonderful gymnast. Cogill & Cooper, the clog dancers, and Harris, the stump orator. The list of names on our first page is sufficient assurance of the pleasing nature of the entertainment. An extraordinary bill will be performed to-night, introducing new Ethiopian acts, songs and dances. Among the features of the Fourth and to-night, will be grand patriotic tableaux by the members of the company.

Theatre Comique.

A new artiste has been engaged for this establishment in the shape of a young seal, who will be trained for the minstrel profession by Johnny De-Angelis. He is already very clever with the bones—fish bones. He will probably appear to-night in addition to a host of other attractions, all of which are enumerated in the programme on our first page. A glorious Fourth of July bill will be presented.

Metropolitan Theatre.

We shall be able to give the names of the company engaged to support Joe Murphy in "Help' to-morrow The scene painters and carpenters are busy making preparation for the production of the piece in perfect style.

San Francisco Skating Rink.

The new skating rink on Bush street, opposite the Alhambra, is voted "perfect" by the lovers of the gliding. Skating is made easy for beginners by means of a supporting framework of light bars running on wheels. The price of admission has been reduced to twenty-five cents.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Benefit to Max Zorer.

An audience composed of some of our best citizens assembled last night at the California Theatre for the purpose of giving Max Zorer a helping hand. The programme was well carried out. Ottilie Genee kept the audience thoroughly amused by her sprightly acting in the first piece. In the interlude Senora Lopez and pupils were loudly applauded; Prof Schwandner's performance on the sweet-toned Zither was enthusiastically encored and little Sallie De Angelis fairly brought down the house by singing "The Grecian Bend," and "Keyser Don't You Vant to Puy a Tog." Miss Josephine Wolff gained much applause for her dance in the afterpiece and Max Lube was very amusing.

Races on the Fourth.

The inaugural meeting of the Oakland Trotting Park will be commenced on the Fourth, with a $200 purse for all horses that have never made under 3 minutes. On the 5th a $600 purse will be trotted for, mile heats, three in five. A grand double team match will come off on Thursday. Busses will run from Oakland Point in connection with the cars. The whole affair will be under the charge of the veteran Col. G. W. Dickey, which is tantamount to a success.

Off For a Holiday.

Our California actors and actresses as we observed last week have not too much relaxation but they do occasionally have a holiday. The Lingards being almost a company in themselves require only a few members of the California Theatre company to support them. Mr. Harry Edwards and wife, Mrs Raymond and Mrs. Landers left yesterday for Yosemite Valley. J. E Buckley and wife, E. Thayer and E. Leathes, are also going to rusticate for a while.

En Route.

The following members of Fiske's French Opera Troupe, Lea illy, Felix Girebeuk, Marie Vandelet and Geo. Saugney, are on their way here, and will Fourth July Excursion.

The trains of the Southern Pacific Railroad will carry passengers to San Jose, or way stations, at excursion rates to-morrow. This will offer an excellent opportunity to escape from the noise and dust of the city and to enjoy a few quiet hours in some of the beautiful country towns that skirt the road. The trains will leave at 8:20 A. M. and 3:20 P. M. Returning train will leave San Jose at 5:20 P. M., arriving in San Francisco at 5:50 P. M.

"A Live Paper."

We understand that the Chronicle intends to publish to-morrow, a list of the names of those who took part in the procession yesterday.

A most excellent old lady up-town is much excited in mind to know how it is that a little quicksilver in a glass tube can make such awful hot weather by just rising it an inch or two.

A school district in Massachusetts has a committee of three, consisting of man, wife and daughter. Strange to say, the daughter got the appointment of teacher against all competitors.

A mulatto woman called Madame Angelo has just walked 1000 miles in England, in as many hours, being the third person known who has accomplished this feat.

"Where are you Going.

Mr. Guyser?" "I'm going to buy a pair of boots for my sweetheart to go to the Springs with." "Where at?" "Where? why, what a question. Why, where every body gets them; at F. X Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre."

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them- There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

Everbody Buys Them.

What The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Scully, Agents.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

The Elixir of Youth.

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

THE TROUBLE IN AMADOR.

The Situation Unchanged—The Mines being Worked—Warning Notices Served—Etc.

SUTTER CREEK, June 30.—The situation at the mines remains unchanged. The Amador and Keystone mills are working ten and twenty stamps respectively, and the former is pumping and repairing the timbering in the new shaft. The others are all pumping yet, and at the Oneida to work is discouragingly slow.

Yesterday a number of notices were served on persons now at work in the mines, warning them to leave their work immediately or suffer the consequences. Notices to the same effect were posted on the doors of many of their dwellings. The following is a verbatim copy of one of the latter.

AMADOR CITY, CAL., June 28th.

Friend Hammock & Son: I here by Cautin you and Son to quit work in the Keystone mine, or if you don't, make up your mind to suffer the consequences. If you carry a soldier on your back, revenge is sweet sooner or later. Laugh at this if you coose I caution you again to study on this I assure you it will prove serious friends and enemies both you have.

Yours respec fully, and a WELLWISHER.

SUTTER CREEK June 30.—10 P. M.—Several attempts were made to-day to cut the ditch leading to the engine at the Oneida mine, the parties hoping to burst the boilers. Although chased, they succeeded in making their escape.

A corporal stationed at the Oneida, mine, while returning late last night, was chased nearly a mile by several armed men, they only retiring when near the camp.

The League is in secret session to-night again.

The Hero of the Coal Mine.

[From the Philadelphia Bulletin.]

Martin Cooney is the name of a boy, who, deep down in the horrid depths of the Pittston mine, performed a deed of heroic self-sacrifice which shames into insignificance the actions by which many happier men have climbed to fame and honor. Cooney and a companion stood at the bottom of a shaft as the car was about to ascend for the last time. High above them roaring flames and blinding smoke and the crash of falling timbers were fast closing up the narrow way to light and life; below them in the gloomy pit were a score of men working on, unconscious of their deadly peril. Cooney, with one foot upon the car, thought of his endangered friends. He proposed to his companion that they should return and warn the miners of their threatened fate. His companion refused to go, and then Cooney, without a moment's hesitation, but with full consciousness that he had chosen almost certain death, leaped from the car and groped his way through the gloomy darkness. It was too late, the miners had closed the ventilating door before he had reached them, and standing there, between that immovable barrier and the shaft, the hot breath of the fiery pit poured in upon him in a pitiless blast, and so he died. He was but a lad, poor unlearned, and probably unconscious of the higher virtues, and yet he died as great and noble a death as a man can ever die; he deliberately sacrificed his own life in an attempt to save those of his friends. Here is a theme for the most exalted poetic genius. Compared with this poor boy, how quick do the profane and slangy heroes of the coarse poesisters sink into contempt; and how unworthy and insufficient seems the fiction in which they are placed! It is from such persons as this poor and obscure lad, doing deeds of humble heroism with a simplicity that is altogether pathetic, that we learn that the purer and higher qualities of the race—the qualities which reveal the presence of the spark of Divinity in the soul, exists even yet in the humblest of mankind.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 8:20 P. M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

Fourth of July Deductions.

That the Fourth is like Corville's or any other man's oysters—can't be enjoyed without crackers.

That bombs and bums were prevalent and explosive; and that while the first enjoyed the largest liberty, the latter were frequently placed in the closest confinement.

That the miners of '49 as represented in the procession, devoted more time to drinking whisky than they did to mining.

That though the brewer's did display plenty of greens in their procession, they couldn't indulge in any hops; "couldn't be expected, you know;" must reserve them for the next Dutch ball at Turnverein Hall.

That one cow will supply many milkmen with the lacteal fluid.

That a milkman's procession consists of one long series of can-cans, and that they never use pumps.

That the advertising Fourth of July programme being non est, can't be called an honest advertiser.

That the crowd at the fireworks, though wearied and impatient, was the best bred one in the world—wouldn't go off until the fireworks did; too polite to do so, sir.

Extra Edition.

We publish to-day an extra edition of FIGARO for circulation in Eureka and towns on Humboldt Bay, as the programme for Vincent & Arnold's Variety Comedy Troupe, which will leave per steamer to-morrow to give a short series of entertainments in the Humboldt Bay towns. "FIGARO here, there and everywhere.

Excitement in Omaha.

Agents of the grand Omaha Gift Festival, are sending in their returns from all parts of the United States, as accounts are to be closed up, and the drawing is to take place as soon as that is done. A large number of tickets are held in San Francisco, so perhap the $20,000 prize may come here.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

The Fourth of July.

Crackers and bombs all night, bombs bigger than last year and more of 'em....Morning fine, everyone up early, mounting in hot haste of Marshals and aids....Houses decorated with flags, California Theatre and Russ House looked well, Winant's Pacific Oyster Saloon very tastefully dressed up, oysters inside, ditto, in every style....Procession started in good time, model procession in this respect....Governor in the procession, wonder if he'll be in the next—accompanied by the "Waif of the Pogonip"....Military, Red Men...Miners of '49, very interesting feature in procession—good idea, well carried out, make-up capital. Camp, cooking, working, gambling, prospecting, all represented....Benevolent societies....Firemen, paid and exempt, looked splendid....Temple of Liberty, pretty children, representing States—wagon-loads of pretty girls....Butchers, jolly-looking fellows, sheep, dogs....Milkmen, bright cans, a cow, no pump, great oversight....Something stronger, brewer's beer.....No colored citizens—Will turn out St. Patrick's Day.... Pavilion, speech by Hon. Charles Clayton, prayer, Dec. Indep., glee, "pome" by Cremony, reads like an Alta editorial....Oration by E. D. Sawyer, very good....Matinees—theatres, thronged....Regatta: bay white with sails, Contra Costa and Belle, steamers, crowded with spectators....Pleasant breeze....Thirty-two vessels racing.... Champion flags to Laura May, Rosella and Gazelle....Captain Boise of the Challenge, protests, as stake boat was not distinguishable from the other boats....Fireworks fine night, thousands of people, good seats, strongly built, all the pieces went well, bright, but not varied....Two little fires both soon put out....House on Mission and 24th streets burned to the ground—cause fire crackers....Boy's hand shattered by bomb, man's leg burned slightly, same cause ....Cricket match between married and single. Benedicks beat celibates by 72 runs.... Boy's hand shattered by bursting of pistol ....Man in fruit store on Bush street, let off Roman candle among his fireworks, general explosion, not very much damage, glass broken, moral: don't let off fireworks in cracker shop....As we write, Fourth of July quieting down, head-aches from fireworks and other causes passing away, people settling down to work....Fourth of July 1871 great success.

AN ANCIENT CALIFORNIA GIANT.—The Los Angeles News of June 24th has the annexed:

A letter from Rio Bravo ranch, Kern county, says: The traces of a giant have recently been discovered in the town of Bakersville, sixteen miles below here, on the old banks of the Kern river. The sexton employed to sink a grave found a large skeleton about four feet from the surface, the head pointing east, and with the bones found a package of eleven arrow-heads and spear-heads made of flint of various colors; they were nicely covered with a waxy substance and opened unsoiled, not wasted by time. The bones of what was left of humanity were quite perfect when first exhumed, and were found to measure from crown to heel seven feet five and a half inches in length. The skull was much larger than the ordinary size of craniums moving around at the present day. A full grown person placed his head inside of the skull. No application was made to preserve the skeleton; on exposure it soon crumbled into dust. Other curious relics were found, which I have in my possession.

THE QUEEN ROSE.—The Los Angeles News says: One year ago Mrs. Betts, at her residence on Main street, set out a rose slip about a foot long. It grew, divided in two branches, and is now framed over the window. If straightened out the vine would reach to the top of the two-story building at the foot of which it was planted, and the two branches united would measure over fifty feet in length. Flowers and trees have but to be planted and wat-red; soil and climate do the rest. The above, though but one instance of the rapid and wonderful growth often attained under the genial influence of our Southern sky, will doubtless appear incredible to the dwellers in less favored regions.

PERFECT.—A coquette is said to be a perfect incarnation of Cupid, because she keeps her beau in a quiver.

CAR PEDDLERS.

Mark Twain on the Nuisances that Infest Railroad Trains.

And there were the peddlers. I bought out the popcorn boy to get rid of him, because I was trying to compose a poem for a young lady's album, and did not want to be disturbed. But he came right back with a stock of peanuts. I took a few and hurried him away, and he returned with some ice cream candy. I don't like ice cream candy and pea-nuts together, but I invested at once, because an inspired rhyme had been borne to me, and I wanted to set it down before it slipped my mind. Then the scoundrel came back to me with tobacco and cigars, and afterward with oranges, imitation ivory baby whistles, fig paste and apples. Then he went away and was gone some time, and I was encouraged to hope the train had run over him. He was only keeping his most malignant outrage to the last. He was getting his literature ready.

And from that time forward that degraded youth did nothing but march from one car to another, and afflict the passengers with specimen copies of the vilest blood-and-thunder romances on earth. "The Perjurer's Doom" and "The Desperadoe's Revenge" were some of his milder works, and on their backs were pictures of stabbing affrays and duels, and people shoving other people over precipices, and wretched wood cuts of women being rescued from terrible perils of all kinds, and they are always women who are so criminally homely that any right-minded man would take a placid satisfaction in seeing them suffer sudden and violent death. But that peddler boy peddled these atrocious books right along for hours together, and I gave up my poem at last, and devoted all my energies to driving him away, and trying to say things that would make him unhappy.

Josh Billings on Strawberries.

The strawberry iz one uv natur's sweet pets. She makes them worth fifty cents, the fust she makes, and never allows them tew be sold at a mean price.

The culler uv the strawberry is like the setting of the sun under a thin cloud, with a delicate dash uv the rain bo in it; its fragrance iz like the breath uv a baby when it first begins to eat wintergreen lozzinger; its flavor iz like the nectar which an old-fashioned goddes used to leave in the bottom uv the tumbler, when Jupiter stood treat on mount ida.

There iz many breeds ov this delightful vegetable, but not a mean one in the hull lot.

I think I have stole them, laying around loos, without any pedigree, in somebody's tall grass, when I was a lazy scholboy, that eat dreadful easy, without any white sugar on them, and even a bug occasionally mixed with them in the hurry ov the moment. Cherrys iz good, but they are tew much like sucking a marble with a handle tew it. Peaches iz good, if u don't get enny ov the pin feathers intew yure lips. Watermelons will sute ennybody who iz satisfied with half-sweetened drink; but the man who can eat strawberry, be-sprinkled with crushed sugar and bespattered with kream (at somebody else's expense,) and not lay his hand on his stumak, and thank the author of strawberries and stumaks, and the pheilow who pays for the strawberries, is a man with a worn out conscience—a man whose mouth tastes like a hole in the ground, and don't care what goes down.

Hang Out Your Banners!

There will of course be a rush this year to John C. Bell's emporium, opposite the Grand Hotel, to purchase flags. By buying of him, you can cover your house with flags and your patriotism won't ruin you. For flagstaffs large or small, go to A. R. Nichols, carpenter and builder, Cedar street between Front and Davis, and Washington and Clay.

Malignant.

Adam Aulbach has sold out his interest in the Corinne Reporter, and the devil of that office writes to say that he is glad of it, for the former proprietor was "a dam 'aul back and wouldn't let the paper get ahead."

The Apprentice's Dance.

Our devil says that the first dance a boy in a printing office is put through, is a quadrille(e).

A man died at St. Louis recently, and in his will, after stating that he never forgot a favor, left $1,000 to an individual who ten years before ran away with his wife.

That Arkansas colored clergyman pronounces the story of his having been struck dead by lightning, and again struck while in his coffin, very grave but flashy reading.

"Where are you Going,

Mr. Guyser?" "I'm going to buy a pair of boots for my sweetheart to go to the Springs with." "Where at?" "Where? why, what a question. Why, where every body gets them; at F. X. Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 822 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre."

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough, clothing has come down in price, but Lodgings that are comfortable Lodgings are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. I. J. Ewell has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading-room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

This theatre was crowded yesterday afternoon when an extra matinee was given, and again in the evening. The comedietta and Lingard's sketches went well, and the capital comedy of "Naval Engagements," was played throughout in a charmingly lively and natural style, by W. H. Lingard as Admiral Kingston, Miss Alice Dunning as Miss Mary Mortimer, Mrs. Judah as Mrs. Colonel Pentifet, John T. Raymond as Dennis, James Carden as Lieut. Kingston and W. A. Mestayer as Short. The comedy season at the California should be appreciated by our public. The same capital bill will be presented to-night.

Alhambra Theatre.

There is but one opinion about the performance given at this most popular place of amusement:—it is brisk, lively and entertaining from beginning to end. M. Ainsley Scott's first part finale of "Scenes at the Forge," with Master Eugenia as Leonora is decidedly good; Vivian's new songs are very popular, and are encored again and again; Billy Emerson is unapproachable in his songs and dances, and as "The Artful Dodger;" E. M. Hall's banjo playing is very fine, and S. S. Purdy is very amusing in negro acts. Elaborate preparations are being made for the production of "The Grand Duchess."

Bella Union Theatre.

To-night Ella Werner will appear in her lightning changes and character songs; the Reynolds Brothers will perform their wonderful song and dance act; Le Favre will appear in "Scenes in Paris;" Johnny Manning in Happy Uncle John, and the whole company in a rich and varied programme. Ella Werner is a genuine artiste, and has created a new sensation.

Theatre Comique.

The new play of "The Fight for Governor" is produced nightly to crowded houses. Johnny DeAngelis has made a great hit as the hoodlum; Sally Thayer, the old war horse, is as popular as ever; Ida Fisk's songs and dances are much applauded, and Eva Silva's pretty ballads are very pleasing; Lizzie Harmon's comic songs create much amusement, and Lew Parker is great in "The Fenian Soother."

The Oxford Company.

Mr. Charles Vincent, proprietor and manager of the Oxford Theatre, leaves by the steamship Pelican, for Eureka, Humboldt county, to-morrow morning, for a professional tour of two weeks, when he will return and inaugurate the Fall season of the Oxford with a new company from the East, who are already engaged. He takes with him the following strong company: Mrs. Thomas Arnold, Miss Amelia Dean, Miss Kelly Leonard, Miss Lulu Sommers, Miss Minnie Wilson, Mr. T. Arnold, Mr. Dan Lowry, Mr. P. Boam and Mr. Geo. Lowden. This company will give a short season of minstrel performances at the Eureka Theatre. We congratulate the people of Humboldt on the prospect of amusement.

Oakland Races.

The race at the Oakland Trotting Park to-day will be a match trot for $400, mile heats, three in five in harness. S. Harris names s. g. Glycerine; D. Berry names ro. g. Berkeley Boy. To-morrow there will be a race for a purse of $200, free for all double teams; $150 to first, $50 to second. The track looks splendid, and the beauty and fashion of San Francisco and Oakland grace it with their presence.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location.

A Popular Desiderantum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands an bear testimony to their merit.

How Advertising Compels Attention.

A writer in All the Year Round says:

The truth is, in this world sheer labor and industry always make themselves felt. This is a theory that would be dear to Mr. Carlyle as representing something real and genuine. Work, he would say, is never thrown away. Men who spend sums of money, and sums of trouble and toil, together with much ingenious polychromatic device, in flourishing their names and wares, are pretty certain to find such bread as they have cast upon the waters returning to them. The wise who travel in the underground railways and see "Kitto's Starch" staring at them from over the heads of their vis-a-vis in the carriages, or the Grasshopper Sewing machine salute those titles with a "pish!" or a "pshaw!" But later, as their eye wanders over the newspaper or dead wall, or omnibus knife-board, or fig-leaf of magazine, and sees everywhere, as a murderer does blood, "Kitto's Starch," "Grasshopper Sewing Machine," a kind of dull, insensible impression is produced. By-and-bye, when either of these important necessaries are in demand in the reader's family, and when there is an impression of doubt or ignorance, the poor aid-de-camp of conceit, or conscious superiority, steps in and aids the advertiser. Where all are groping in the dark, it is hard to resist the conscious sense of superiority. "Starch! Why, there is a fellow called Kitto, who seems to be in great demand; at least his name is everywhere. Sewing machine! Get the Grasshopper—only four guineas." It will thus be seen that the advertiser owes a good deal to the pardonable little infirmities of our nature.

California Cherries.

Uncle Ned is a character, a genius, a philosopher. With all his professed antipathy to everything certain, he is occasionally surprised into an acknowledgment of the merits of something brought to his notice. It may be nothing more than the cut of a garment, the speed of a horse, the architectural beauty of a building, or the quality or size of some specimen of vegetable production; but he immediately qualifies his remarks with, "Oh, it does very well for these regions—it wouldn't be much in California, though."

We had some very large cherries on the table one day last Summer. After surveying them for a moment, Uncle Ned remarked that they beat anything he ever saw—and then there was a short pause—"that is to say, around here."

"Uncle Ned," said I, "you never saw a cherry in California larger than those."

"Well, perhaps, I didn't."

"Why," said I, "how large are they in California, and how do they sell them?"

"Well," he replied, with all the gravity of a Judge, "that depends something, of course upon the season of the year. They vary in size as well as in price. They sell them by the pound, and if you only want a few pounds they generally charge about twenty-five cents a pound; but if you want a whole cherry they'll let you have it for about fifteen cents a pound."—[Eastern paper.

How to Prosper.

Two years and a half ago Mr. S. Popper started his Pioneer Shirt Manufactory at 327 Kearny street, employing at first but a single sewing machine. He now runs fifteen machines and gives constant employment to a score of white workwomen, for Mr. Popper employs no Chinese labor. This is merely another instance of how advertising leads to success, even in the dullest business times. Mr. Popper is a smart business man, and advertises his calling liberally, and the result is noted above.

Tall Walking.

"Satanella," the reliable correspondent of the "Morning Call," makes the following statement:

Weston completed on Friday night last his feat of walking four hundred miles in five consecutive days. On the Tuesday morning previous he had finished his other task of walking one hundred and twelve miles in six hours.

We don't believe Weston can walk over eighteen miles an hour and keep it up very long.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

DISAPPOINTMENT.

BY E. B. HUDSON.

The night was cold and dreary,
The wind had a dismal sound
As it blew through every crevice,
And moaned like a crying hound.

In a grand and stately mansion,
Where wealth and luxury bide,
There reveled in mirth and music
A throng of fashion and pride.

There glistened costly diamonds
In rolls of golden hair,
That fell o'er marble shoulders
Of the beautiful and fair.

The guests were gay and merry,
And dreamed of the happy time
When they should pledge the wedding
In draughts of the ruby wine.

For the merchant's only daughter
Was to give her dainty hand
In marriage to a noble,
The greatest in all the land,

While waiting for her coming
In the gaslight's brilliant gleam,
Wonder and terror seized them,
As they heard a piercing scream.

It came from the lady's chamber,
A tower of bliss and pride,
Where sixteen waiting maidens
Were dressing the lovely bride.

They crowded hall and stairway,
And peered through the open door
Where lay the cold proud lady,
Aghast, upon the floor.

She smiled upon them sadly,
And said, thro' her flounces and lace,
"Fear not for me, my maidens,
But no wedding can take place.

They gazed upon each other,
And with curses deep, not loud,
They sought their cloaks and coaches,
A disappointed crowd.

But ere they left, a whisper
Was echoed down the stair—
A maid, quite accidentally,
Had burned the purchased hair.

A mulatto woman called Madame Angelo has just walked 1000 miles in England, in as many hours, being the third person known who has accomplished this feat.

All Forty-niners "broke" will take part in the Fourth of July procession. It will be a big turn-out.

OF COURSE.—"Are cats good to eat, mother?" "Of course they are, my son—good to eat mice."

THE RESULT.—An Illinoisian who wanted to take something took a set of false teeth, and is now in jail.

BUT ONCE.—An exchange wittily remarks of a certain General, that his sword was never drawn but once, and then it was in a raffle.

THREE REASONS.—An agent of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals gives three reasons why he did not prosecute a man charged with cruelty, viz: "Penitence, promises and poverty."

Those Who Leave the City

For a jaunt to the country or watering places without a supply of DR. GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL CREAM will regret it, for their skins will terribly Tan, Freckle and Redden, all of which the use of the Oriental Cream will prevent. Thousands of ladies will testify to the fact. Of the many frauds attributed to the various skin lotions daily advertised, scarcely one-tenth are ever realized: moreover, several are positively injurious to the health form their repellant properties, and in many instances absolutely peel off the skin. Dr. G. is constantly in receipt of notices setting forth these facts. Dr. Gouraud's Oriental Cream is not the creature of mere advertising notoriety—it is recommended from one customer to another. This has extended its sale until it has become a specialty by its own merits. Ladies who have not used this preparation should give it a trial. Prepared only by DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD, No. 48 Bond street: Laboratory, 55 Great Jones street, New York; and sold by leading druggists throughout the United States and Canada. Below Montgomery Block.

THURSDAY.....JULY 6, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

Drawing to a Close.

The grand musical concert for the benefit of the Pioneers' and Library Associations of Sacramento will positively come off on the 18th of this month. Only a few days remain to purchase tickets. There will be no reduction in the prizes; therefore, though those who have speculated in this affair have had to wait a little longer than they expected, they will all be satisfied in the end. Some one is bound to win a big prize and we hope that the money will be kept in Sacramento or sent here.

Cheer Up!

The Central Pacific Railroad Company are about to move their offices from Sacramento to this city. McFadden's Block, corner of new Montgomery and Market streets, opposite the Grand Hotel, is fitting up for their reception. Have courage, Oaklandites, the Central will yet establish their headquarters in your burgh. This movement indicates a nearer approximation to it, at any rate. That, at least, is a consolation.

Serious Illness of Commissioner Cannavan.

We regret to state that Mr. P. H. Cannavan was stricken down with apoplexy early yesterday morning, and is now lying at the point of death. He has lain insensible for over thirty hours, and scarce a hope is entertained of his recovery.

The Darien Ship-Canal Survey.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Panama letters of the 20th ult., state that the survey of the Napepi River route for the Darien Ship Canal is satisfactory, the route having been demonstrated practicable, and that Commander Selfridge was at Panama awaiting the return of the surveying party which had ascended the Atrato River, and for the store-ship Guard, when the entire expedition would sail. Should the Guard not arrive before July 3d, Commander Selfridge and the officers of the expedition will proceed to New York on the steamer of that date.

Indispensable.

INDISPENSABLE.—In England a black stovepipe hat is indispensable, if one would be regarded as respectable.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

What Cheer Laundry

Calls for and delivers clothes to all parts of the city.

Downy Sleep,

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

The Wonders of California.

Visitors from the East see the wonders of California which the residents have never visited. There is no excuse now for not seeing the Big Trees, which are the wonder of the world. By Peek & Co's new route, you can start to-day at 8 A. M., arrive at Mokelumne at 7 P. M., where you rest for the night in a comfortable hotel. Up in the morning early and drive through some of the prettiest scenery in the world and arrive at Calaveras Grove at 12 M. The expense of the round trip from Mokelumne Station is $16. With the month of July warm weather has set in, and numbers will visit the Calaveras Grove of giant Trees by this new, speedy and economical route. P. H. Kean, 622 Clay street, is the agent.

Self-Severity.

We are often selfishly severe with self. We may be absorbed in one occupation and to that too exclusively may we devote self. That portion of self tires and cries out for rest. It makes known its weariness by periods of gloom, depression, ennui. We want amusement. Here, dancing, the parlor skate, the velocipede, prove useful. But dignified self deems such things trivial and childish. And so dignified self mopes and glooms, becomes miserable and makes all miserable around it.

Smart Young Man.

According to the Elmira Advertiser, a drug clerk in Williamsport recently put up a prescription for a young lady friend of a dose of castor oil. She innocently inquired how it could be taken without tasting. He promised to explain to her, and in the meantime proposed to drink a glass of soda water with her. When he had finished he said: "My friend you have taken your oil and did not know it." The young lady was nearly crazy, and cried: "Oh dear, it wasn't for myself I wanted the oil; it was for mother."

JOHN MORRISSEY VINDICATES HIS HOUSE.—John Morrissey publishes the following card in the Saratogian:

SARATOGA SPRINGS, June 18th.

To the Editor of the Daily Saratogian:—SIR—The report is going the rounds of the newspapers that my house is open to ladies to gamble in. I desire to contradict the story flatly through your columns. I have lived in Saratoga nine years, and no lady has ever gambled or will ever gamble, in my house. By request, ladies have been admitted to look at the house and furniture, but the comment it has occasioned far and near prompts me to decline any further visits from them. Furthermore, my house is intended for visitors—not residents of Saratoga.

Very respectfully, JOHN MORRISSEY.

CATERPILLAR YEAR.—We notice in our exchanges, says the Trinity Journal, that this is called the insect year in the Eastern States. At Weaverville Basin and vicinity it might well be termed the caterpillar year. These insects made their appearance last Spring in almost incredible numbers. Along the road from Weaverville to Junction City the chaparal and other bushes were so thickly covered that as far as the eye could distinguish the living, crawling masses of caterpillars hid the foliage from view. They appear now to have greatly decreased in numbers, but where they were congregated so thickly, the bushes upon which they spun their webs are destitute of leaves, and with their bare branches and stripped stems look odd indeed.

A FRENCH NOTICE.—Saint Maar got to be a favorite resort for suicides. To stop it the authorities put up a notice:

By order of the police,
No person or persons allowed
To drown themselves here
By accident or imprudence.

FRIGHTENED HIM.—A Chicago lady lately dropped one of her eyebrows in the church-pew, and dreadfully frightened a young man sitting next to her, who thought it was his moustache.

THE CITY OF CHURCHES.—Brooklyn is literally the city of churches, there being two hundred and twenty-one places of worship within its borders, Seven new churches are now going up there.

THE ONLY ONES.—Striped snakes are now protected by Michigan farmers as "the only critters that will eat potato-bugs with a relish."

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. SHABER & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding. x

The Hero of the Coal Mine.

[From the Philadelphia Bulletin.]

Martin Cooney is the name of a boy, who, deep down in the horrid depths of the Pittston mine, performed a deed of heroic self-sacrifice which shames into insignificance the actions by which many happier men have climbed to fame and honor. Cooney and a companion stood at the bottom of a shaft as the car was about to ascend for the last time. High above them roaring flames and blinding smoke and the crash of falling timbers were fast closing up the narrow way to light and life; below them in the gloomy pit were a score of men working on, unconscious of their deadly peril. Cooney, with one foot upon the car, thought of his endangered friends. He proposed to his companion that they should return and warn the miners of their threatened fate. His companion refused to go, and then Cooney, without a moment's hesitation, but with full consciousness that he had chosen almost certain death, leaped from the car and groped his way through the gloomy darkness. It was too late, the miners had closed the ventilating door before he had reached them, and standing there, between that immovable barrier and the shaft, the hot breath of the fiery pit poured in upon him in a pitiless blast, and so he died. He was but a lad, poor, unlearned, and probably unconscious of the higher virtues, and yet he died as great and noble a death as a man can ever die; he deliberately sacrificed his own life in an attempt to save those of his friends. Here is a theme for the most exalted poetic genius. Compared with this poor boy, how quick do the profane and slangy heroes of the coarse poetasters sink into contempt; and how unworthy and insufficient seems the fiction in which they are placed! It is from such persons as this poor and obscure lad, doing deeds of unmitigated heroism with a simplicity that is altogether pathetic, that we learn that the purer and higher qualities of the race—the qualities which reveal the presence of the spark of Divinity in the soul, exists even yet in the humblest of mankind.

The Newest Styles.

[London World of Fashion, for JULE.]

As the fine weather advances, suits will be found to be more in favor than ever. In fact, we may say that taste seems to run very much in this style, which is capable of great variety and elegance, and also of novelty.

Manties and mantelets are again coming into favor, and we have likewise noticed a few of the tight-fitting casaque-mantelets. Some of these manties may be worn with any dress. We have seen one very elegant Mantelet-Bournous, striped blue and white, that has a most distingue effect when worn with a silk dress of the same hue.

The principal features of the present fashion for dresses may be summed up in a few words:

Sleeves are in every variety of form, except the tight-fitting or close-fitting sleeve, which has gone quite out of fashion. And we may say the same of Ceintures and of Epaulettes, which will be only worn in the very lightest Summer materials.

The bodies of morning promenade dresses are always made with basques in some form or other, and these basques are generally pleated at back to form the Postillion.

Upper skirts are still fashionable, and are made in great variety of form.

Trains are extremely moderate in their length, except for ball and evening dresses.

In evening dresses we notice a tendency to replace the tablier and bouffant, by a large tun que open in front. These dresses are generally very elaborately but, at the same time, simply trimmed, the trimmings consisting of quillings, ruchings and bouillons of white turlatan and white lace. Flowers are very sparingly used.

EXTREME DELICACY.—"Is there anything the matter?" "There is, sir," was the host's reply. "Have I given any offense?" "You have, sir." "Really I am ignorant of it." "Well, sir, let me tell you such language won't suit me, sir." "My dear sir, what language? We were only talking of soup!" "Yes, sir, but you said ox tail!" "Well, suppose I did?" "Why, sir, it's that very word that sent all the ladies blushing out of the room—it's highly unbecoming language—very improper indeed." "But, my dear sir, what would you have me say? I called the soup by its proper name, didn't I?" "No, sir, you did not, and whenever you have occasion to speak of that particular soup again, never say Ox tail soup. Say Fly-dispenser soup; that's the proper word."

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

"Where are you Going,

Mr. Guyser?" "I'm going to buy a pair of boots for my sweetheart to go to the Springs with." "Where at?" "Where? why, what a question. Why, where every body gets them; at F. X. Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre." •

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there. •

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them. •

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night. •

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A Card to the Musicians and the Public.

SAN FRANCISCO, JULY 5th, 1871.

☞A person by the name of Joseph L. Schmitz has been circulating false reports concerning myself. As a number of members of the late French Opera Orchestra, and other musicians, have been influenced to sign a paper drawn up by him to the effect that they will not play for me if I should enter into an arrangement to furnish the orchestra for the coming Italian Opera, and as such paper has been handed to Mr. Biscaccitia with the intention of doing me injury, it becomes my duty to place myself right before the musicians and the public of San Francisco, and not only pronounce the charges false, but to prove them so. The said charges are that I received recompense from the late French Opera Troupe to release an attachment I had against them for their indebtedness for the orchestra. When he, the said Schmitz, having been at that time a member of my orchestra, must have known that the lawyer I first employed, released the attachment without my orders and unknown to me; and that upon hearing the fact I immediately went to the Sheriff's office, and protested against the release in the presence of Deputy Sheriff KNOX, and that I employed another lawyer to see what could be done in the matter. For these facts have been talked over repeatedly by him, myself and others. The agent of the late French Opera Troupe, M. AGRATI, who can verify the fact, that I never received any recompense to forego the suit, is still in this city. I would say in conclusion that in maintaining myself and family of nine children, I have always conducted my business competitions in a fair and honorable manner, and hold if any party should work themselves into position through dishonorable means, they should be held in detestation by all honorable men.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The light and amusing performances given by the Lingards are very pleasing for a change. Every one is going to see Lingard; Miss Dicky captivates the audience in this city as she has in all she has visited, and Lingard's sketches are much admired. To-night an entire change of bill will be presented. The comedy of "A Pretty Piece of Business" and the farce of "A Day After the Wedding," in which the Lingards, Minnie Walton, Mrs. Judah, John T. Raymond and others will appear, will be given for the first time.

Alhambra Theatre.

The music in the first part under the direction of Geo. T. Evans, is very good, and the fine voices of Gustave Bideaux and Louis Graham, are heard to good advantage; Vivian instead of people getting tired of him, is increasing in popularity every day, a sign that what is truly artistic will be appreciated in San Francisco; Billy Emerson is as fresh as ever, and his latest addition to his repertoire, "The Artful Dodger," is received with roars of laughter. On Saturday there will be a matinee.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This spacious and comfortable theatre will open its doors again to the public on Monday evening next, with the popular Joe Murphy in his great sensational play entitled "Help." This play is the one in which he has starred so successfully in the East, and was written especially for him by Frederick G. Maeder. It brings in an immense amount of business for the versatile Murphy to do. He appears in the disguises of Dutch, Irish and Ethiopian characters as the play progresses, and enlivens the scenes with comic Dutch and Irish songs, a' la Emmett, and Ethiopian specialities, and bone serenades, such as only Murphy can give. The company has been engaged with an eye to their especial adaptation to the characters they are to represent, by the veteran stage manager Vinson, and is, as will be seen, a very strong one. It consists of Mrs. F. M. Bates, Miss Sallie Hinckley, Miss Jennie Mandeville, Mrs. Frank Rea, Miss Susie Soule, Miss Carrie Lipsis, Miss Ada Shattuck, Mr. J. H. Hardie, Mr. Frank Rea, Mr. Geo. Hinckley, Mr. J. C. Maguire, Mr. H. Colton, Mr. John Woodard, Mr. W. C. Dudley, Mr. R. Swift, Mr. R. A. Wilson, Mr. W. Richards and Mr. J. H. Vinson. With a strong company and a new play, produced with new scenery and effects especially adapted to it, and more than all, with the popular Joe Murphy in it with all his best business, there can be no such word as fail to be thought of in connection with the opening attraction of the Metropolitan Theatre.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Alla Wesner has bewitched the town with her black eyes; she is so neat, so natty, so artistic, that her acts are rewarded by thunders of applause. The present is the last week of the dashing Aline Le Favre. The Reynolds Brothers are encored again and again, until they must be tired with responding to the enthusiastic calls of the importunate public.

Theatre Comique.

There are so many popular performances at this place of amusement that it is no wonder it is crowded nightly. Madame Lopez and her four pupils, who made quite a sensation at the California Theatre last Sunday, will appear; Paul Boulon will give his artistic performances on the violin; "The Fight for Governor," will be played, and a variety of acts by Johnny De Angelis and Johnny Tuers. E. M. Hall, the banjoist, is underlined to appear as also the Reynolds Brothers, on Monday night.

The Opera Season.

The prospects of the opera season hang fire a little. Mr. Biscaccianta, the agent of the States Troupe holds the Metropolitan by prior engagement from the 24th inst., but has not determined yet whether he will telegraph for the troupe to come on or not. Madame Silly and others of the Fisk Troupe are in town and ready to venture a season, but await the action of Biscaccianti. They would prefer the Metropolitan, we understand, but can of course procure the Opera House. How would a season of Italian and French Opera night and night about, by the combination of troupes, do together? We merely make the suggestion.

Hayes Park.

Managers Tuers & Brooks have taken these suburban grounds and will give their inaugural entertainment in the spacious pavilion next Sunday afternoon. Madame Lopez and her four pupils will appear in gymnastic exercises, and many attractive features will be presented. We are assured that the entertainment offered will be adapted to the patronage of families, and that even the most fastidious will not be able to cavil at it.

Off for Salt Lake.

John McCullough departed this morning for Salt Lake City, to play a star engagement there in conjunction with Edwin Adams. They open in "Damon and Pythias." We trust the Mormons will not be able to make a proselite of our popular manager, to their peculiar institutions during his short stay there.

Oakland Trotting Park.

To-day the double team contest, free to all will come off. To-morrow will be a gala day and two purses will be trotted for; one for all horses that have never beaten 2:45, and the other for a stake of $150, five entrances. Stages will connect at Oakland Point for the Park.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Coalilu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Everbody Buys Them.

What? The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Werner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line.

What Cheer Laundry.

321 Leidesdorff street, near Sacramento.

WELL SAID.—A young fop of this city, who is known among his associates as Bill, recently undertook to get a joke on a young lady acquaintance by presenting her (before a whole company) with a rose, at the same time saying:

Accept, dear maid, this beauteous rose,
To deck thy breast most fair;
Observe its hue, nor wonder why
It blushes to be there!

The lady turned the laugh, however, on the unfortunate but justly punished youth, by responding:

I will accept thy beauteous rose,
And on my breast enslave it;
But should it blush, I should suppose
'Tis for the fool who gave it!

A REMARKABLE WISH.—Old Madame Rothschild, mother of the great capitalists, attained the age of ninety-eight. Her wit, which was remarkable, and her intellectual faculties, which were of no common order, were preserved to the end. In her last illness, when surrounded by her family, her physician being present, she said in a supplicant tone to the latter: "Dear doctor, try to do something for me." "Madame, what can I do for you? I can't make you young again." "No, doctor, I don't want to be young again; but I want to continue to grow old."

ABORIGINAL RELIC.—The San Buenaventura Signal says. Thompson & Jackson, on the south bank of the Santa Clara river, exhumed an odd curiosity the other day. It is a globular vessel about six inches in diameter and half an inch thick, and has evidently been used as a smelting-pot or crucible. The chief curiosity is its composition, being, apparently, pure mica, molded or carved. It was found four feet beneath the surface of the soil, with a deposit of human bones. We shall give it to the San Francisco Academy of Sciences, and hope some antiquarian will be able to give us some light on the subject.

THE ANSWER.—I stood alone in the halls of my ancestors. The silver moonbeams struggling through a casement shed a mild lustre upon the solitude. I passed in agony through these deserted chambers, and cried in anguish: "Where are the friends of my youth—where are they?" An echo answered, "Why, my dear fellow, I have not the slightest idea."

HIS IDEA.—"Why do you set your cup of coffee on the chair, Mr. Jones?" said a worthy lady one morning at breakfast. "It is so very weak, ma'am," replied Jones demurely, "I thought that I would let it take a rest."

THE CHANCES.—Somebody has written a book entitled "What shall my son be?" Upon which some one rudely comments: "If the boy is as bad as the book, the chances are that he will be hanged."

HIFALUTIN.—When a woman commits suicide in New York, the reporters perpetrate head lines about "A beautiful woman forcing the portals of the unknown world."

HAS A RIGHT.—A provision dealer thinks he has a right to keep open shop on Sunday, because he keeps a meat-ing house.

ADVERTISING.—A wise man advertises extensively, because he believes that many cool umns furnish a good support.

NO DOUBT.—If the oyster could sing, we have no doubt its song would be not "put me," but "keep me in my little bed."

MAY YET.—Woman's-rights women may yet aspire to positions in the navy; Lot's wife was an old salt.

HEAVY MUSIC.—A new German cantatrice has come out in Berlin who weighs 375 pounds.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands an bear testimony to their merit.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. New Furnishing Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

WONDERINGS.

If he knew how I have walked
Across my chamber restlessly,
Counting the lonesome days and nights
As sad nuns count a rosary.

If he knew all my secret thoughts,
I wonder if his lips would move
To softly say, "How well she loves!
I cannot choose but give her love!"

If he could see the tears I shed,
I wonder if in whisper low,
Bending down softly, he would say,
"It grieves me when you sorrow so."

But most I wonder if he'll come,
And say, with that sweet look and smile,
"Could you not wait and trust, beloved,
I loved you truly all the while."

Ah! wonderings! Know you woman's heart,
That waits and watches, hopes in vain,
Will cause the silver strings to part,
The golden bowl to burst in twain?

'Tis thus I'm waiting, wondering, dear
And still shall wait and wonder long
If you in silence still can hear
The burden of a dying song.

And say not, "Love, I'll come to thee
For thy pure woman's love for me."
Or do you rather think it well
To bid eternally farewell?

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE C. P. RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P. M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

A Secret Worth Knowing.

An able writer gives the following: "The looking forward to enjoyment does not pay. From what I know of it, I would as soon chase butterflies for a living, or bottle moonshine for a cloudy night. The only way to be happy is to take the drops of happiness as God gives them to us every day of our lives. The boy must learn to be happy while he is learning his trade, the merchant while he is making his fortune. If he fails to learn this art he will be sure to miss his enjoyment when he gains what he has sighed for.

Newspaper Philanthropist.

The enterprising editor of a paper in Bunker Hill, Illinois, sends out circulars stating that "The Gazette is published solely for the benefit of mankind, by a self-sacrificing management which might enjoy comparative affluence in a poor-house. All moneys received on subscription or job work will be devoted to the interests of the poor."

Another One.

The night-editor of a daily paper wrote this head-line to one of his cable dispatches: "The British lion shaking his mane." He was unable to eat his breakfast next morning, when he found the printer's version of the matter staring him in the face, thus: "The British lion skating in Maine."

The World.

Seek not to please the world, but your own conscience. The man who has a feeling within him that he has done his duty upon every occasion is far happier than he who hangs upon the smiles of the great or the still more fickle favors of the multitude.

A church out West advertises for sale a pew which "commands a view of nearly the whole congregation."

THE OLDEST BANKS IN MASSACHUSETTS.—The sand banks on Cape Cod.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

Signs of Character Revealed by Advertisers in their Advertisements.

We always find something interesting in Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Reporter. We take the following from its columns:

"A man's character may often be read in his method and style of advertising. The modest man never says "I," seldom "we," and courts only the custom that can appreciate modest worth.

The quiet man wants no heavy display, and contents himself with telling of his wares in plain Roman. He indulges in no spasmodic overflows, but quietly works and bides his time.

The bold advertiser may be seen at a glance. He wants the half, or whole, or possibly a double column, and means to have no one glance at his side of the paper without seeing at least his name and business.

The defiant advertiser deals in huge blank spaces and heavy type. He seeks the margins of newspapers, or bedaubs the face of nature with glaring pigments. If he cannot challenge your admiration, he is ready to challenge you.

The impertinent advertiser details the information imparted by one simple young lady to another concerning the virtues of his particular merchandise, and how simple young lady No. 2 was convinced, how she purchased, and rejoiced over its exact fitness.

The impudent man prefaces his advertisement with "Tremendous Crash" or "Shocking Revelation," when he only desires to inform you where you can buy gingerbread or peanuts at the lowest market rates.

The hypocritical advertiser attracts your attention to an interesting statement of some scientific discovery, which, it presently appears, is nothing compared to his efficacious "Toe-nail Restorer."

The spasmodic advertiser believes in carrying things with a rush. He showers heavily for a week or two, and then lies by for the effects.

The pertinacious advertiser never takes down his sign. He will have all men read of his merchandise, turn which way they will. He believes in "Holdfast" rather than in "Brag," and in his dogged way determines to have your custom, and no thanks to you either.

The flashy advertiser offends you with slang, reminding you of the mock-auction style, where brass jewelry commands a positive premium over gold.

The rascally advertiser is not simply the man who vends spurious wares, but who also cheats the printer. The comfort is that such men get quickly passed around.

Nearly all these classes find encouragement in their various ways of extending their reputation, but undoubtedly the most successful are the quiet, the pertinacious, and, we are sorry to add, the impudent. But no man, whatever his stand, can succeed who does not advertise and pay for it."

UNFORTUNATE.—A Kansas man is in jail for letting a neighbor's mule follow him.

A QUESTION.—Can a ship with two owners be called a partnership.

OFTEN.—Proper names are often very improperly written.

AN EARLY RISER.—The man with a quick temper.

HOW TO MAKE TIME GO FAST—Use the spur of the moment.

A GOOD SIDE-SHOW—A pretty cheek.

DEAD BEATS—Extinct drummers.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

John G. Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Important to Strangers.

ABRAHAM'S, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. ABRAHAMS, 33 and 35 Second street.

The Universal Yankee.

A mountain of granite appears rather a tough subject to deal with, yet a Yankee will burrow into its bowels, and lo! the granite becomes gold in the vaults of the Commonwealth Bank of Boston!

A pond of ice presents a cheerless and chilly aspect to the eye, but the Yankee, nothing daunted, will heave up its crystal masses, and straightway the ice glitters in diamonds upon the bosom of his rosy-cheeked spouse!

Wherever the Yankee layeth down his hands, gold springeth.

Into the soil he thrusteth his spade, gold springeth therefrom.

In the dim twilight, by his chimney-corner, he sits meditating, and thoughts chase one another through his brain, which thoughts are gold.

Various they are, it may be, in form and seeming.

One is but a gridiron, another a baby-jumper, and a third a steam engine, but he writeth them all down in the Patent Office at Washington, and then putteth them in his pocket in golden scales from the mint at Philadelphia.

But your genuine Yankee coineth not merely his own sagacious conceits; the follies, the fears and errors of others are moreover all gold to him.

He fabricateth "mermaids" and "sea serpents," and locketh up in his own chest heaps of golden credulity.

He maketh a pill of chalk and wheaten bread, which he warranteth to cure asthma, hydrocephalus, epilepsy and yellow fever, and presently buildeth him a great house on the banks of the Hudson.

When a sudden delirium seizeth all the world, prompting them to migrate in floods to nowhere, he quietly mustereth his fleet of transports for that destination, or buildeth a railroad in that direction, regardless of what is at the other end.

He erecteth to himself no castles in the air, but he diligently aideth his neighbors to build the same, and out of the proceeds grow up to him presently castles upon the earth.

Such is the modern Midas—the Midas without the long ears—the cool, acute, sagacious, calculating Yankee.

Accidental Death.

The Solano Republican says:

A distressing accident occurred at the farm of R. C. Haile, in Suisun valley on Thursday evening, resulting in the death of a man named Andrew E. Anderson. Anderson had been engaged in harvesting during the day, using a team of horses. When the laborers in the field quit work he was the last teamster to unhitch his horses, and, mounting the "nigh" one, and leading the other, he rode down into the creek to water them. While there he leaned over, it seems, to unfasten the rein of the "off" horse, and, it is supposed, his foot slipped under the tug in front of the back-band of the horse he was riding, and by some mishap he was jerked off the animal's back, and his legs being fast his body hung head downward. The horse commenced at once to plunge, rear and kick with frantic desperation until the poor man's skull was fractured, his neck and jaw broken, and his body bruised in a horrible manner—in fact death ensued before his body was disentangled from the harness. When assistance reached him, all that could be done was to carry his lifeless body to Mr. Haile's residence. We are told that Anderson was 25 years of age; that he was recently from Wisconsin, where he had a wife and one child.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

A Card to the Musicians and the Public.

SAN FRANCISCO, JULY 5th, 1871.

A person by the name of Joseph L. Schmitz has been circulating false reports concerning myself. As a number of members of the late French Opera Orchestra, and other musicians, have been influenced to sign a paper drawn up by him to the effect that they will not play for me if I should enter into an arrangement to furnish the orchestra for the coming Italian Opera, and as such paper has been handed to Mr. Biscaccia with the intention of doing me injury, it becomes my duty to place myself right before the musicians and the public of San Francisco and not only pronounce the charges false, but to prove them so. The said charges are that I received recompense from the late French Opera Troupe to release an attachment I had against them for their indebtedness for the orchestra. When he, the said Schmitz, having been at that time a member of my orchestra, must have known that the lawyer I first employed, released the attachment without my orders and unknown to me; and that upon hearing the fact I immediately went to the Sheriff's office, and protested against the release in the presence of Deputy Sheriff Knox, and that I employed another lawyer to see what could be done in the matter. For these facts have been talked over repeatedly by him, myself and others. The agent of the late French Opera Troupe, M. Agrati, who can verify the fact, that I never received any recompense to forego the suit, is still in this city. I would say in conclusion that in maintaining myself and family of nine children, I have always conducted my business competitions in a fair and honorable manner, and hold if any party should work themselves into position through dishonorable means, they should be held in detestation by all honorable men.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

"Scenes at the Forge" is a decidedly popular finale to the first part, and Master Eugenia, Louis Braham, Billy Emerson, M. Ainsley Scott and S. S. Purdy will fill their respective roles to perfection. Vivian's new comic songs are received nightly with thunders of applause; Billy Emerson is never let off under three encores; the new acts are lively and for an evening of pure fun and merriment the Alhambra is the place. The matinees which are given every Saturday afternoon are very popular with ladies and children. The full performance is given and half the evening price of admission is charged. The Alhambra is in full tide of success, with crowded houses every night, and the excellence of the performances given there nightly, fully sustains the public verdict that this cosy temple of Momus is the most popular place of amusement on the Pacific Coast.

California Theatre.

The new bill at the California Theatre last night was a great success. The comedy of "A Pretty Piece of Business" was capitally played, and caused much fun. Next came Lingard in his sketches, which pleased everyone, and the entertainment concluded with the ever-popular farce of "A Day After the Wedding," a great feature in which was the grand scena and duetto from "Il Trovatore," sung by Mr. and Mrs. Lingard. The same bill will be played to-night. The first Lingard matinee will be given to-morrow.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This fine theatre has undergone a thorough renovation preparatory to the opening next Monday night with "Help," Joe Murphy's new drama. The whole interior has been cleansed, repainted and redecorated from pit to gallery. The lobbies are beautifully carpeted, and everything about the front of the house has been put in perfect order.

Bella Union Theatre.

Ella Wesner is a grand favorite at this establishment; her Champagne Charley suits the taste of the audience better than any other, there is so much sparkle and fizz about it. The popular Aline Le Favre will appear but a few nights longer. An excellent bill will be played to-night.

Theatre Comique.

Among the popular features of the entertainment to be given to-night are the performance of of Madame Lopez and pupils; the sensation political play of "The Fight for Governor;" Professor Paul Boulon's imitations on the violin and negro acts by Jake Wallace, Johnny De Angelis, Lew Parker and Johnny Tuers.

The Opera Season a Certainty.

We are pleased to announce that arrangements have been made by which the Fisk French Opera Bouffe company, which arrived here last week, will be able to give the San Francisco public a taste of their quality. They will open on Wednesday night in "Barbe Bleue" at the Opera House. Besides Madame Silly and the other members of the Fisk Troupe, Mons. Alexis (Prince Paul) and M. Noel, of the late Smecchia Troupe, have been engaged.

Oakland Trotting Park.

This will be a gala day at this Park, and two purses will be trotted for; one for all horses that have never beaten 2:45, and the other for a stake of $150, five entrances. Stages will connect at Oakland Point for the Park. To-morrow a race will be run for $200, free for all horses that have never beaten 2:40. The admission to the track is $1, but ladies are invited to attend free of charge.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Cantilu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. Hug & Schmidt, Successors to P. J. [illegible]

Fishing by Moonlight.

A correspondent of the Santa Cruz Sentinel writes that paper an account of some extraordinary fishing at Aptos Landing, some eight or ten miles from the town of Santa Cruz, on the beach. We give the following:

We reached the fishing grounds about twilight—here the pen fails to do justice to the scene. It was low tide, the sea here forms a continuous, almost level beach, five or six miles long, and an average width of 150 yards at low tide, with a hard, smooth bottom, and not a pebble nor a seaweed visible the whole distance; probably there is no nicer or finer drive in the State for the same distance. The ever changeable bluff, some 100 feet in height, all the estuaries filled in with driftwood, accumulating for years. Now imagine some 400 people arriving, between twilight and dark, the fine carriages, the omnibusses, two-horse teams, four-horse teams, six horse teams, ox teams, carts, and California go-carts, all filled with persons who have the highest expectation of making a big haul. The high piles of dry drift-wood, set ablaze for the distance of five miles, the moon shining his brightest rays on the silver-sand and phosphorescent water. Men, women and children taking their position at equal distances, awaiting the coming of the fish, which occurs when the tide is on the point of coming in. The theory of the fish coming ashore I imagine is something like this: The bay, at present, is full of a small fish similar the anchovies, the natural food of the mackerel, which, being a very voracious fish, follows the anchovy into the breakers, when the incoming tide, being stronger than the fish is used to, it deposits him through the breakers, often casting great numbers of them high and dry, but most generally depositing them just through the breakers, into from three to six inches of water, which causes them to flounder and squirm to regain their element; then the real sport commences, men and boys roll up their trowsers as far as they can get them, ladies tie their dresses around their waists, and also pitch in to secure the prize; when the fish flounders he is both seen and heard, as he makes a great commotion, the cry is given "there he goes," when all those in the immediate neighborhood make for the hapless wight; then look out for collisions, but here woman gets her rights; she has as good a right to the fish as her would-be superior, especially if she catches the fish herself. But to cut a long story short, five of us caught over five hundred weight, and got home by six o'clock in the morning. Horse Mackerel is considered a very game and edible fish.

The White House Clearing Out Sale.

Messrs. Davidson & Co., of "The White House," corner Kearny and Sutter streets, announce elsewhere that they have commenced their clearing out sale of their Summer dry goods at prices below the cost of importation. This offers an excellent opportunity for ladies to procure fashionable goods at bargains, as "The White House" dry goods establishment was opened but a few months ago, with an entire new stock of goods. The sale will continue 30 days.

Bad Brandy.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The statement of spirits in and out of bond in the United States, May 1st, 1871, exhibits the fact that out of 2,630,000 gallons of brandy in the country, but 100,000 gallons are the genuine product of fruits; the remainder are compounds from distilled spirits.

RAILROAD SURVEYING IN NAPA.—A corps of civil engineers in the employ of the California Pacific R. R. Co., says the Napa Register, of July 1st, were in town on Saturday and Monday last, surveying a new route east of Main street, near the Vernon Mills, for the proposed change of the line of road leading out of town. We have not learned the the conclusion arrived at, but will doubtless learn about it before the road is finished. This company is having the road from Adelante to Donahue located, and work will soon commence in earnest in that direction. The bridge to span the Napa river below Suscol is being framed ready for putting up.

HARVESTING.—The Carquinez (Martinez) Enterprise of July 1st says:

It is gratifying to know that the grain in our county is yielding much better than was anticipated early in the season. In some parts of the county the hearts of our farmers are gladdened that their labors have been so amply rewarded.

SICKNESS IN MARIPOSA.—The Gazette of June 30th says:

Bear valley and vicinity have been very unfortunate during the last five or six months, having lost by death many of the children from scarlet fever. Mariposa has escaped this disease thus far, but several children in Coulterville and Hornitos have died with it during the past Winter and Spring.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

The Wonders of California.

Visitors from the East see the wonders of California which the residents have never visited. There is no excuse now for not seeing the Big Trees, which are the wonder of the world. By Peek & Co's new route, you can start to-day at 8 A. M., arrive at Mokelumne at 7 P. M, where you rest for the night in a comfortable hotel. Up in the morning early and drive through some of the prettiest scenery in the world and arrive at Calaveras Grove at 12 M. The expense of the round trip from Mokelumne Station is $16. With the month of July warm weather has set in, and numbers will visit the Calaveras Grove of giant Trees by this new, speedy and economical route. P. H. Kean, 622 Clay street, is the agent.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will be mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—A large and fashionable audience was present last night and comedy, sketches, and afterpiece were fully appreciated. There will be a matinee to-day and W. H. Lingard, Alice Dunning and Miss Dicky Lingard, supported by the fine comedy company, will all appear. The full programme of the performance to-night appears on our first page.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Crowds flock nightly to this Temple of Momus and the ringing shouts of laughter which seem to shake the walls testify how well all are amused. Master Eugenia's burlesque opera is very funny and is much applauded, in the capital act of "That's my Sister," in which the eminent baritone, Guillaume Emerson delights the audience. Vivian's songs, both comic and sentimental, are always pleasing and the entertainment throughout is one of the very best ever given. There will be a matinee as usual to-day.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—JOE MURPHY. Scene painters, carpenters, have been busily engaged during the week in getting the stage of this theatre in readiness for the production of "Help," in which Joe Murphy will on Monday make his re appearance before a California audience. The following company has been engaged under the, stage management of Mr. James H. Vinson and is, as will be seen, a very strong one It consists of Mrs. F. M. Bates, Miss Sallie Hinckley, Miss Jennie Mandeville, Mrs. Frank Rea, Miss Susie Soule, Miss Carrie Lipsis, Miss Ada Shattuck, Mr. J. H. Hardie, Mr. Frank Rea, Mr. Geo. Hinckley, Mr. J. C. Maguire, Mr. H. Colton, Mr. John Woodard, Mr. W. C. Dudley, Mr. R. Swift, R. A. Wilson, W. Richards and Mr. J. H. Vinson. "Help" is in three acts; the first represents the Hudson river, with moving panorama of scenery. During the play Mr. Murphy will appear in the quadruple role of Ned Daly, Pat O'Shaughnessy, Michael O'Gaff and Christopher Von Leibenstein, and will introduce all his best specialties. There will certainly be a rush to see this favorite comedian, and those who wish to go to the Metropolitan for the first night had better secure seats in advance, which they can do without extra charge.

MAGUIRE'S OPERA HOUSE.—This pioneer temple, will be reopened in brilliant style on Wednesday, by Fisk's French Opera Bouffe from the Grand Opera House, N. Y. Offenbach's comic opera of "Barbe Bleu" will be produced. The box office will be open on Monday, when seats and private boxes can be obtained. Our fashionable people having for the most part reurned from their summer jaunts, a season of light French Opera will, we think meet with the patronage, the merits of the artistes engaged in its production deserve.

BELLA UNION.—A great bill has been prepared for to-night. The entertainment will commence with a free and easy performance of songs choruses and stories; The Reynolds Brothers will perform several of their specialties; Ella Wesner, who is a brilliant of the first water, will shine in character songs, including the very popular "Soda and Brandy;" a new Spanish ballet will be performed by Misses May Leroy, Fanny Garretson, Sallie Henry, and others, and a variety of other acts will be performed.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—There is so much to amuse at this comfortable place of amusement, that the evening passes rapidly away. After a brilliant first part, Lizzie Harmon and Geo. Foster sing a duet; Madame Lopez and her pupils appear; The Fight for Governor, with its uproarious finale is played; songs and dances by Blanche, Jimmy Murphy, Fanny Webster, Eva Silva and others follow; acts are played by Lew Parker, Johnny De Angelis, and Johnny Tuers, and "Dancing on the Brain" concludes the evening's fun. E. M. Hall, the famous banjo player, will make his first appearance on Monday evening.

HAYES PARK PAVILION.—Those energetic Managers, Tuers & Brooks have taken these suburban grounds and will give their inaugural entertainment in the spacious pavilion next Sunday afternoon. Madame Lopez and her four pupils will appear in gymnastic exercises, and many attractive features will be presented. We are assured that the entertainment offered will be adapted to the patronage of families, and that even the most fastidious will not be able to cavil at it. Among the attractions will be Alfred Perrier, the modern Hercules: Jake Wallace and Johnny De Angelis in Ethiopian Statues; song and dance by Jimmy Murphy; imitations on the violin by Paul Boulon; the Flying Rings by Geo. Aspey, and other performance admission will be only 25 cents

RETURNED.—Miss Eva West has returned to this city from Hamilton, White Pine, where she played with Leo Hudson. She has all her limbs whole, it being Joey Taylor and not Eva West, who dislocated her ankle. Leo Hudson was enabled by a benefit to start East, taking Black Bess with her. She'll have to eat that horse yet, we fear.

CLIFF HOUSE.—A drive to the Cliff House on a moonlight night is perfectly delightful and the enjoyment of spinning along the road is increased by the certainty of receiving a warm welcome on arriving, from mine host Foster, and having supper up in the winking of an eye. The new ball room, with its beautiful floor of colored woods, is much admired by all who see it, and many fashionable parties have been given there.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most costly and complete collections of this kind in the United States is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. Admission only fifty cents.

A PLEASANT EXCURSION.—The splendid steamer Capital will make an excursion to Vallejo to-morrow, leaving Vallejo street wharf at half past eight, and leaving Vallejo on the return trip at 5 o'clock P. M. Tickets for the round trip $1,10. No pleasanter excursion could be made.

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—There is not within miles of San Francisco, a more delightful spot for a ... ic party than the groves of San Rafael The s... ner Contra Costa will leave the wharf on Davis street near Vallejo, to-morrow morning at 10:30, on an excursion.

OAKLAND TROTTING PARK.—To-day is the last of the races, and there will doubtless be a large attendance to witness the race for $200, free for all horses that have never beaten 2:40. There are four entries for this race, and the contest will be an exciting one,

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

LOS ANGELES.—The Nathan Juvenile Troupe gave their last entertainment at La Merced Theatre on July 1st. The Express says:

Mr. Nathan has offered the public an entertainment that would command patronage anywhere, and has been appreciated by our citizens. Let managers who come here with the hope of receiving public patronage give the public credit for a reasonable amount of taste and judgment in such matters, and they will thereby save themselves the mortification of failure and financial loss.

OMAHA.—The Omaha people have to wait a little longer for their grand festival at the Academy of Music. The managers, in order that there may be no reduction in the amount of the prizes, have set the drawing for the 20th of September, after which there will be no further postponement. The money received for 70,000 ticketsis in the banking house of Caldwell, Hamilton & Co., and Mr. Caldwell, who is Mayor of Omaha, will personally supervise the affair as soon as returns for the remaining 20,000 tickets are sent in.

QUINCY.—The Lewis Brothers gave an exhibition of tableaux vivants, psychology and magic, last week.

PORTLAND, OREGON.—The Oregonian of June 26th says:

The first rendition in this city of the grand Oratorio of Esther was given last evening at the Ore Fino Theatre, under the direction of Prof. J. B. McGibbeny. The house was full in every part. The Oratorio is illustrative of the principal events related in the Book of Esther. The costuming of the characters was, in general, rich, and in some cases superb. At the rise of the curtain upon the Persian street scene, the group on the stage was admirably arranged, giving an excellent representation of Oriental Court splendor.

Mrs. McGibney was Queen Hester, Mr. McCormick Ahasuerus, Mr. Monteith Mordecai, and Mr. Warren Haman. The oratorio was repeated on the following two evenings.

CORINNE.—The Atlantic and Pacific Circus exhibited on July 1st.

MARYSVILLE.—The New York Circus is billed to perform to-night.

EUGENE CITY, OR.—Madame Jeal and Co's Circus exhibited on the Fourth. Dave Longlis the clown. General Don Jose La Vega, the Manilla dwarf, exhibited at the Court House on the 1st.

SALT LAKE.—Professor Silvester and pretty Miss Angelique Schott made their last appearance on the 1st inst. Edwin Adams appeared on the 3d in "Wild Oats," supported by Geo. B. Waldron and the stock company. Miss Carrie Carter appeared in the farce of "L. I. H. L.," which concluded the evening's entertainment.

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T.—An Amateur Concert was given on the 3d.

OLYMPIA.—L. F. Beatty, an actor well-known on the Pacific Coast, died on June 30th.

DENVER.—Carrie Duval in "Nan the Good for Nothing" and Jenny Palmer in song and dance are the attractions at the Cricket. Harry Spriggs is bones. The California Circus showed on the 1st.

VIRGINIA CITY.—On Thursday, a vocal and instrumental concert, complimentary to Mr. T. B. Storer, was given at Piper's Opera House under the direction of E. J. Pasmore. A good programme was performed by Misses Ida Knapp, Hattie Emery, Veronica Cordielli, and Messrs. Hall, Lindsay, Fredericks and Laner. The Gold Hill News says that Madame Agatha States and opera troupe, are engaged to appear at Piper's Opera House on the 16th and 19th of this month.

SACRAMENTO.—This afternoon and evening the Hyer Sisters, whose really remarkable voices are the theme of general admiration, will give concerts at the Metropolitan Theatre. Mr. Hyer has spared no money in the musical education of his daughters, and it is his great ambition to make money enough to enable them to pursue their musical studies in Europe. We hope the black swans will have crowded houses.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Miss Lotta Crabtree, whose performances on the banjo have elicited much commendation from unbiassed critics, will open the season at Booth's Theatre in the Fall shades of the nine Muses, has it come to this? Oh, Edwin! Edwin!—Boston Sun.

Oh yes! How! away; but if you had a theatre, you'd find you must give people what they best liked. Why didn't you pitch into the high-toned Boston Theatre for letting that fraudulent Moke kick up his heels there?

All of the Philadelphia Theatres closed for the season on the 24th ult.

Madame Parepa Rosa will probably arrive in New York this month.

Bryant's Minstrels will remain out on their tour for three months.

Mr. Brougham is gradually recovering from his recent indisposition.

"Little Nell" opens at the Lyceum Theatre, St John, N. B., on July 31.

Fisk relinquishes all right and title to the Grand Opera House as manager, Mr. Cole having obtained a five years' lease of it. Jim will have his ballet all the same somewhere.

An English manager, now in New York, made an offer to Col. Fisk to take the Ninth Regiment Band to London for a short season.

On dit that Mr. Bandmann and Mrs. Milly Palmer Bandmann will appear at a popular theatre in the Autumn.

The Boston Sun has the following about one of our California-bred actors:

Louis Aldrich has opened at St. John, N. B., as leading man. Not a bad actor but most immoderately fond of speaking as if he was delivering a funeral oration.

The Berger family have agreed to play at Lina Edwin's theatre, commencing July 10.

The Lydia Thompson troupe will play at Wallack's theatre on their return from England.

E. A. Sothern plays at Niblo's Garden in October. Mr. Sefton, his agent, has concluded this engagement.

Madame Parepa will open in English opera at the New York Academy of Music, October 2d, and continue three weeks. She will give concerts at Boston Music Hall during the week following Christmas.

Nilsson will open in Italian opera at the New York Academy of Music, October 23. Thence she goes to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago, and then to Boston, opening at the Boston Theatre probably on Monday, January 1st, 1872.

Miss Fanny Morgan Phelps performed in Harlem, N.Y., June 22d, 23d and 24th. She had the assistance of a dramatic company.

Signor Brignoli, Miss McCulloch and Sig. Roncomi are giving concerts in Canada. Miss Adelaide Phillips also contemplates a tour in the British Provinces.

The first dramatic company that ever appeared in this country was under the management of William Hallam, opening in Williamsburg, Va., Sept. 5th, 1752. The piece was "The Merchant of Venice," and the following ladies and gentlemen were in the cast: Mr. Rigby, Mr. Clarkson, Mr. Hallam, Mr. Singleton, Mr. Herbert, Mr. Adcock, Mrs. Rigby, Mrs. Clarkson, Miss Palmer, Miss Hallam and Mr. Malone.

Daniel E. Bandmann and his wife (professionally known as Miss Milly Palmer), will commence an engagement at the Grand Opera House Sept. 4th, the lady making her debut in New York on that date. Mr. Bandmann will present four new play during his engagement, one now being written expressly for these artistes by Tom Taylor, of London; one by a local author: one from the Hungerian, and a new version of "Faust" by Tom Taylor, in which they achieved great success in the Australian Colonies.

"The Black Crook" will be reproduced at Niblo's next Christmas, with new dancers and dances, and a new transformation scene.

Neil Warner and his agent, Sam Knapp, were in Boston when last heard from.

The theatres open in New York for the week ending July 1st, were Booth's with "The Man O'Airlie;" Wallack's, "The Long Strike;" Park Theatre, James M. Ward in 'Through by Daylight;" Niblo's, John Collins as Miles Na Coppaleen in "Colleen Bawn;" Bowery, Miss Jennie Morton in "Lovie;" Globe Theatre with E. Eddy; Miss Fanny Herring in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," at Tony Pastor's.

Manning's Minstrels with Billy Manning and Ben Cotton on the ends, are in Cincinnati.

J. K. Emmett will open at Niblo's in "Fritz" August 14th. Little Emma Maddern will play with him in the piece. He will be succeeded by E. A. Sothern, who is to receive $400 a night in gold. Miss Amy Roselle, who is now playing in "The English Gentleman" with Sothern in London, has also been engaged.

Mrs. Crabtree, Lotta's mother, has gone to England.

Lotta is spending a few days at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Oates, in New York.

Hughy Dougherty, of Butler & Gilmore's Comique, delivered a comique oration at a Catholic Picnic near Providence recently, and created much fun.

The Worrell Sisters are at St. Louis.

Charles Matthews and wife were at Portland on the 30th ult.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Florence, are at present in London.

On the occasion of Mrs. John Wood's benefit at the St. James', Mr. Sothern, on behalf of the ladies and gentlemen of the company, presented the talented manageress with a purse containing one hundred guineas.

The late Michael Balfe's opera called "Lotty, the Basket Maker," which has not been presented for twenty years, is in rehearsal for the Gaiety Theatre.

Miss Elise Holt appeared at the Alhambra on the occasion of Mr. F. Strange's benefit on the 14th ult.

Tom Taylor corrects his previous statement that he had written "a hundred plays more or less." He says eighty is the number, and this includes elaborations.

In consequence of Mme. Monbelli's sudden illness, the "Africaine," which was to have been produced at the Italian Opera on the 3d, was withdrawn, and "Fra Diavolo" was substituted. Sig. Mario's acting was much commended, but his once exquisite voice was considered a wreck.

On the night of the 5th an explosion occurred at Cremorne Gardens, in the final scene of the "Siege of Strasbourg." As the night was fine and a large company present, the pyrotechnist was anxious to produce additional effects, and several extra-loaded barrels, together with an increased number of bomb-shells and rockets were placed beneath the bridge. Owing to an accident, during the very hottest of the siege, and while some of the men were engaged in the sham fight upon the bridge, several barrels of powder and a number of bombs caught fire prematurely and went off with a terrific explosion before the men had time to get out of the way. The bridge blew up, and several of the men were blown to a considerable distance, amidst the hearty cheers of the spectators, who said it was the best representation of the siege they had ever seen. The two injured men did not sustain serious damage, though much shaken.

The London Dispatch says:

Mr. Carence Holt, who has already won golden opinions by his entertainments of the Army, the Navy, and the Volunteers, and living photographs from Shakespeare, has made a new venture which promises to eclipse both in popularity. This time he has selected the works of Charles Dickens as the source from whence his characters are obtained. He gives costume sketches of Sergeant Buzfuz, Mr. Micawber, Quilp, Sairy Gamp, and Neil's Grandfather.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that th former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Evans's, Covent Garden.

All who have ever frequented Evans's, under the Covent Garden Piazza, says the London correspondent of the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette, will have pleasant remembrances of the proprietor, Paddy Green, who for so many years kept latehouse resort as an establishment which a gentleman would never be ashamed to visit. The changes of metropolitan life have not been without their influence in this direction, and Mr. Green has retired to make way for a limited liability company, who have entirely altered the aspect of the supper rooms where Thackeray, Albert Smith and Charles Dickens were so often seen gathered round a little table in the Conversation Lobby. To enable Paddy Green to enjoy that comfort in his declining days which he has so often afforded to others in their youth, it is proposed that a testimonial fund shou'd be raised, and a special morning performance in its aid will be given at the Gaiety Theatre.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

LETTER FROM CHICAGO.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

CHICAGO, June 23, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO.—Since my last letter there has been no important change of any note in the dramatic world.

THE WYNDHAM COMPANY

still holds its own at the Dearborn Theatre. "Caste" has run all the week. It will be followed on June 26th by Robertson's "Home," and the musical comedietta of "The Debutante."

MUSEUM.

Signor Blitz and son opened here June 19th. They will be with us for three or four weeks; a crowded house greets him every night. Colonel Woods is looking out for some new attractions to delight the taste of this community.

CROSBY'S OPERA HOUSE

is at present undergoing repairs and being painted, and new seats arranged in the parquette and orchestra. It will be closed until the regular dramatic season opens, when we are promised some fine attractions.

HOOLEY'S OPERA HOUSE

is filled nightly with the elite of the city, to see the ever-charming Katie Putnam and Little Dot. The ever-charming Katie Putnam and Little Dot. "Sans Souci" has had a good run all this week. On June 26th "The Little Detective" will be produced.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.

The triple corps of end men, with the song and dance prodigy, La Belle Ida, Clara Butler, Ida Morton, and Mlle Bertha, keep the place crowded nightly. Your correspondent will soon start a programme paper for this house, called the Olympic programme.

N. Y. CIRCUS.

Lent's New York Circus opened here for one week, commencing June 26th. Flashy bills and judicious advertising will surely bring them crowded houses.

Frank Aiken is doing up the dramatic business to the delighted country folks.

Deep regrets are felt here among the dramatic fraternity at the sad demise of Miss Sue Robinson, whom we expected so soon to see here.

A St. Louisian, H. C. Snowdell, advertises for a clever gentleman to take charge of a paper by the name of Figaro shortly to be started in this city, the paper is to be carried on in the same style as the Figaro of California. Success to him; we want a good paper here.

WILL.

Boys' Pump Shoes and Box-Toe Gaiters

Save Your Money.

The Land Mortgage Union is the best place to invest your savings. 50 cents per fortnight amounts, in about eight years, to $250. Investers can withdraw their funds after twelve months with withdrawal rate of interest. Call at the office, 123 Post street, for information.

Do You Know

That with Butterick's Patterns you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent. office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Everbody Buys Them.

What The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry.

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location.

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night.

Creme de Lis.

Beautiful is the finish developed by the use of Dickey's celebrated Creme de Lis, a pure transparent complexion being imparted. No poison enters its composition.

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of Figaro among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

John G. Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Important to Strangers.

Abraham's, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. Abrahams, 33 and 35 Second street.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

What Cheer Laundry

Is the best laundry in San Francisco

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. Winant & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the Pacific Oyster Saloon, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. Winant, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, Charley Haake, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the Pacific Oyster Saloon will be conducted in every respect in a most unexcep ionable manner.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "The" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "The" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how rediculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

A Card to the Musicians and the Public.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5th, 1871.

☞A person by the name of Joseph L. Schmitz has been circulating false reports concerning myself. As a number of members of the late French Opera Orchestra, and other musicians, have been influenced to sign a paper drawn up by him to the effect that they will not play for me if I should enter into an arrangement to furnish the orchestra for the coming Italian Opera, and as such paper has been handed to Mr. Biscaccitia with the intention of doing me injury, it becomes my duty to place myself right before the musicians and the public of San Francisco and not only pronounce the charges false, but to prove them so. The said charges are that I received recompense from the late French Opera Troupe to release an attachment I had against them for their indebtedness for the orchestra. When he, the said Schmitz, having been at that time a member of my orchestra, must have known that the lawyer I first employed, released the attachment without my orders and unknown to me; and that upon hearing the fact I immediately went to the Sheriff's office, and protested against the release in the presence of Deputy Sheriff Knox, and that I employed another lawyer to see what could be done in the matter. For these facts have been talked over repeatedly by him, myself and others. The agent of the late French Opera Troupe, M. Agrati, who can verify the fact, that I never received any recompense to forego the suit, is still in this city. I would say in conclusion that in maintaining myself and family of nine children, I have always conducted my business competitions in a fair and honorable manner, and hold if any party should work themselves into position through dishonorable means, they should be held in detestation by all honorable men.

MONDAY.....JULY 10, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

High-toned Moral Papers.

The Bulletin is dreadfully down on lotteries, and wouldn't advertise them on any account. The Call was shocked at the Golden City's offering to distribute presents among those who subscribed for it, and wouldn't publish its advertisement. Now a Market street stationer is selling prize packages of stationary with Milton gold jewelry in them, and both these high-toned moral papers advertise for him, and induce people to gamble by purchasing paper and envelopes which they don't want, on the chance of obtaining perhaps a dollar breast-pin. Is there more harm in the Golden City's giving presents of money, than in this stationer's promising to put an article of jewelry worth $1 50 in one of his packages. We pause for a reply.

Mind Your own Business.

About the strongest propensity in human nature, apart from the purely personal instincts, is the propensity to interfere. Very many people spend their lives in interfering with others, perpetually putting spokes into wheels with which they have really nothing to do, and thrusting their fingers into pies about the baking of which they are not in any way concerned; and of these people we are bound to confess that women make up the larger number and are the greater sinners.—Saturday Review.

Hope Deferred.

A great many holders of tickets in the Cosmopolitan Benevolent Society of Nevada City were disappointed at the drawing being deferred, but they will be better satisfied in the end, when all the prizes are paid in full, instead of being reduced to paltry sums not worth trying for.

Creme de Lis.

Beautiful is the finish developed by the use of DICKEY'S celebrated CREME DE LIS, a pure transparent complexion being imparted. No poison enters its composition. •

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. SHABER & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding. x

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure. •

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of HUG & SCHMIDT, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents. •

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 619 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House. •

What Cheer Laundry

Calls for and delivers clothes to all parts of the city. •

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest. •

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street. •

Wanted—A Local Reporter.

The Chronicle last week, published what purported to be a correct report of a dialogue between the proprietor of that paper, and some one applying for the position of local reporter. The report is so strained and unnatural, that we feel called upon to let the public know how the thing works in the Chronicle office. Those who read the report of the Secretary of the Labor Exchange, as published in the Bulletin of Friday, may have noticed in the list of those who obtained employment through that estimable institution—"Local Reporters..3 Wages....$50." This item was not, as may be imagined, relished much by the "local-itemses" of the other papers, and was therefore exscinded by them before the list was transferred to their columns. The above is necessary to explain the following scene in the Chronicle office.

Scene—Private room of Charley—Charley discovered, seated at table C. Rubbing his arm R. with arnica.

Charley—This is a pretty state of affairs! I'll get rid of Smopes right away. [Enter Jibbs late of the Industrial School]

Jibbs—Want anything?

Charley—Yes, tell Mr. Smopes to come here directly.

Jibbs—He's just come in.

Charley—Tell him to come here then.

Jibbs—Say, you jest let me go for Mc K., and I'll put a head on him like a pisend pup if you'll bail me out.

Charley—Git.

Jibbs—Oh yes; that's all anyone ever gets for offerin' to do you a serverce [exit singing] "She's doin the grand in a distant land ten thousand miles away."

Charley—I'm dreadfully unlucky. I can't get anyone to do what I want them to. [Enter Smopes] Oh, you've come, have you?

Smopes—Yes, Mr. Charles; did you want to see me?

Charley—Did I want to see you? I should think I did. You're a nice sort of a fellow aren't you.

Smopes—Yes sir.

Charley—You're a nice grateful man you are. Here I picked you up when you were starving and ragged, and gave you board at the Miners, and an ordor on Van Schaack for a thirteen dollar suit of clothes and a shirt, and what's the return. Look at this (lifting right arm with left) look at this sir?

Smopes—I'm very sorry sir.

Charley—You couldn't go for anyone but a judge's wife could you, you must pick out a lady in good society and say something vile and low about her, havn't you any sense.

Smopes—Why you said you wanted "snap to it," and——

Charley—What if I did? I did not want you to abuse that lady, sir. You ought not to have written it. Now get out of here and never let me see you again. Git!

Smopes—There's seven dollars coming to me?

Charley—There isn't a cent coming to you.

Smopes—You said you'd pay $20 a month. Zeehandelaar told me you'd give $50, and if I don't get that seven dollars I'll expose the whole affair. I ain't going to be trod on no longer. I ain't afraid of you now—you, you——

Charley—(Ringing bell and calling) Jibbs! Jibbs! [Enter Jibbs.] Put this fellow out.

[Jibbs forcibly ejects Smopes.]

Jibbs—Anything else?

Charley—Yes. Jibbs, go down to the Labor Exchange and tell Zeehandelaar to send me up another local reporter. If he'll send me a really high-toned, educated man, who understands Greek and Latin, and French and Commercial Reports, and mining and short-hand, and can criticise the opera and read proof, and in fact, just the kind of man for a live paper, I'll give him $50 a month.

Reading Matter for All.

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast. •

Important to Strangers.

ABRAHAM'S, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. ABRAHAMS, 33 and 35 Second street. •

A Manual for the Suicide.

"A Disappointed One" writes to the editor of the Golden City asking to be informed of the "easiest and least painful method of shuffling off this mortal coil." The editor flippantly answers that "never having committed suicide, he does not know," and refuses the desired information. This is unkind both to the "disappointed one" and to the public. Disappointed ones are nuisances, and the sooner they are out of the way, the better. How many people may be saved from being bored to death or driven to desperate crimes by the long, dreary stories of that disappointed one if he is only furnished with the information he requires. If he must commit suicide; if he is quite certain that he has nothing left worth living for, and no prospects in the future, it is only a kindness to tell him how to do it.

First, how not to do it. Don't saw away at your throat with a knife; it will only hurt you, and very likely not have the desired effect. Don't take strychnine; it i about as easy as burning to death. Don't take bitters; they are not speedy in their operation. Don't try to blow your brains out; you are very likely to make a bungling job of it. If you have disease of the heart a good dose of chloral hydrate will do the business comfortably; it will just stop the action of the heart and all is over. Six or seven grains of morphine would in many cases put a stop to the nuisance of of living; don't take too much, or it will make you sick. Perhaps, however, the most pleasant way is the following: Buy a bit's worth of charcoal at the nearest wood yard, close the door of your room, fill up the keyhole with rags and similarly close all chinks by which air can find entrance, place your charcoal in a pan, light it, then throw yourself on the bed and enjoy the sensation. The smell of the charcoal will be a little unpleasant at first, but you will get used to it and will soon drop off into a pleasant slumber. One great advantage of trying this plan is that you will have the satisfaction of knowing you have started the fashion of this neat, efficacious and pleasing method of committing suicide in San Francisco where ideas on the subject are crude. Something should be done to bring about a reform in this matter. There is no place where suicide is more frequent than here; no place where less is known about the art. If people must commit suicide, let them at least do it decently.

"Emerson's Singing School."

This is the title of a new book to be published by Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, in August. The advertisement says:

Now prepare to revive the singing school. Musical Conventions for advanced singers! The old-fashioned, genial singing school for beginners!

That's so! The "old-fashioned" singing-school for beginners and everyone else is Emerson's. "Carry the News to Mary," that's the style of thing. On looking at the advertisement again, we don't think Billy Emerson's singing-school is meant, because there are a number of church tunes and anthems. Don't know though—there's a religious air about "Carry the News to Marry," and "Weep Little Children," sounds like a burnt-cork anthem.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Every one should see them. •

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

The public never tire of the many original acts presented by Emerson's Minstrels and when they are withdrawn to make way for novelties require the old favorites once more. By very general request the funny finale of "Old Brown's Brown Horse," and the screaming Ethiopian farce of "One Night in a Bar Room," will be revived. Billy Emerson will present some of his best specialties, and Vivian will sing new songs.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night this theatre, after having been thoroughly repaired and redecorated will be opened for a short season with the popular comedian Joe Murphy in the drama of "Help," in which he introduces his best specialties, in Irish, Dutch and Ethiopian comedy, comprising new songs, dances, and sketches. Mr. Murphy will be supported by Mrs F. M. Bates, Miss Sallie Hinckly, J. H. Hardie, and others. The play is in three acts, and in the last an explosion in the shape of a kerosene lamp and rescue of the heroine from the flames is presented. New scenery has been painted, the play has been thoroughly rehearsed, and will be played until further notice.

California Theatre.

To-night the great operatic extravaganza of "Pluto" will be presented and William Horace Lingard will appear for the 515th time in the character of Pluto. Miss Alice Dunning will play Orpheus, Miss Dicky Lingard, Aristeus; Miss Fanny Young, Queen Proserpine; Miss Minnie Walton, Eurydice, and Miss Phenie Stanley, Apollo. B. F. Dunning will make his first appearance on this occasion and play Clotilda. The piece abounds in solos, trios, quartettes and choruses, and has been localized for the occasion. In addition to this attraction, a comedietta and Lingard's sketches will be presented.

Maguire's Opera House.

Fisk's French Opera Bouffe at the Grand Opera House, was long the sensation of New York, and as since the establishment of railroad connection with New New York, San Francisco has all the good things. On Thursday we are promised to have French Opera Bouffe by the great Lea Silly, Felix Girrebeuk, the ever popular Jules Alexis and a full company at Maguire's Opera House. The season will open with Offenbach's opera of "Barbe Bleue, which will be produced in fine style Lea Silly was the original Boulotte on the production of "Barbe Bleue" in Paris and sang the part during a run of twenty-eight weeks last season at Fisk's Grand Opera House, New York. If Silly doesn't make a sensation in the part here, it will be the first time she has not done it. Though double rehearsals are being held, the production of the "Barbe Bleue" has been postponed until Thursday, so as to render it as near perfect as possible.

Bella Union Theatre.

To-night Ella Wesner will appear in an entirely new programme of character songs, including Major De Boots," "Good as Gold," and "Give a Man a Chance." George and Charles Reynolds will appear in the double song and dance "She Loves as both so Well;" a variety of negro acts, including "The Closet Scene from Hamlet," will be played by Mat Kelly, Harry Thompson and R. H. Taylor. Frank Jones will do his "Lively Moke," and play on seven more instruments than the "Lively Fraud" can, and a capital bill will be played.

Theatre Comique.

To-night E. M. Hall, the great banjo player, late of Emerson's Minstrels, will make his first appearance at the Theatre Comique, sing some of his best songs and tell his funniest stories. In addition to this there are numberless other attractions, a large corps of pretty girls in the ballet, sweet vocalists, talented dancers and those chiefs of burnt cork opera, Johnny De Angelis and Johnny Tuers.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Cnahilu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Operatic Talent En Route.

Madame Agatha States' Italian Opera Troupe left New York this morning for San Francisco. The company consists of Agatha States and Miss Graziella Ridgway, prima donnas; Signor Cicchi, tenor; Signor Orlandini, baritone; Signor Susini, basso; and Signor Giorga, musical director. The troupe will open in "Ernani," on the 24th inst. at the Metropolitan Theatre. Miss Ridgway is a young and dashing prima donna, who created quite a sensation at the Academy of Music, New York, last spring. Miss Agatha States has earned an enviable musical reputation since she left us. The tenor is rated good by musical critics, and Orlandini and Susini will be remembered as members of the Academy of Music troupe here some three years ago.

Hayes Park.

The attendance at the Pavilion yesterday was good. The entertainment given by Managers Brooks and Tuers pleased all present, and doubtless will grow in popularity each Sunday.

Rehearsals.

There were two gaslight rehearsals last evening —"Help" at the Metropolitan Theatre, and "Barbe bleue" at Maguire's Opera House. Members of the theatrical profession in San Francisco never get dyspeptic from lack of exercise.

Save Your Money.

The Land Mortgage Union is the best place to invest your savings. 50 cents per fortnight amounts, in about eight years, to $250. Investers can withdraw their funds after twelve months with withdrawal rate of interest. Call at the office, 123 Post street, for information.

What Cheer Laundry,

321 Leidesdorff street, near Sacramento;

Academy of Sciences.

The California Academy of Sciences held a meeting last week. Dr. Blinker in the chair. Professor Hunks presented a bottle of sulphur water dipped from a spring at Calistoga by his youngest daughter, Anna Maria Eugenia, aged 9 years and 7 months. He reported that his child, who was unusually intelligent for her age, said there was plenty more where that came from.

Dr. Bluker presented what he claimed to be an icthiodornlite, but was really the back bone of a cuttle-fish.

An Indian relic, a stone mortar and pestle, sent by Dr. Burnett, without comments, was received. Professor Davidson said the pestle was the largest he had ever seen, but he had seen larger Indian mortars.

Professor Slimpkins moved that the fact that Professor Davidson had seen larger Indian mortars be telegraphed to the Academy of Sciences in London, if they had such an institution there.

Dr. Comtox said he didn't believe Prof. Davidson had ever seen larger Indian mortars, and moved that the fact be fully ascertained before setting the scientific world in commotion by such a telegram as that proposed by Professor Slimpkins. Professor Hunks said that the mystery of the desert ship reported to have been seen by Professor Leonidas Fitz Smythe, well-known to the scientific world as the author of "Waif of the Pogonip," was at lenght explained. At a former meeting of the association, there was much discussion—a discussion of many hours in fact—as to the possibility of a ship being stranded on a desert, twenty miles from the ocean, and there seemed to be a mystery about it. He was happy to state that the mystery was now explained. Leonidas Fitz Smythe had an idiosyncrasy, and an idiosyncracy which he had gratified to the greatest extent when he was reporting for a daily paper; an idiosyncracy which was identical with that of Tom Pepper and that of Annanias mentioned in holy writ——

Prof. Davigg interrupted, "did the learned Professor intend to state that there was no ship and that Professor Leonidas Fitz Smythe had lied?"

Professor Hunks said that his words were capable of that construction, and that he desired that they should be thus construed.

The usual discussion about levying an assessment of fifteen cents on each member for providing gas, candles, or some other illuminating medium for the room, arose and the meeting broke up in disorder.

It Won't do, Doctor!

Dr. Z. Rodgers announced a lecture on Saturday evening at Pacific Hall, to make converts to his dogma "From Light and Air all things exist," but as there were but a dozen or so present, the lecture did not come off. Now this doctrine will never do here, Doctor. Too many of our people in the vicissitudes of their California life have been forced to exist, temporarily at least, on the light and air principle, and none have ever got fat on it. Californians have a decided preference, believe us, Doctor, for the old-fashioned method of existing on three square meals a day, and will never be persuaded, except by force of circumstances beyond their control to accept the "light and air" diet in place of them.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellance," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Room 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

BEWARE.

Why a flirt is always pretty,
Is more than I can tell;
Why she's also bright and witty,
I know just as well.

She will languish and attract you,
With her eyes so brown;
She will certainly distract you—
Likewise half the town.

You will think her most devoted,
Loving only you;
When at last you are promoted,
Mind I told you true.

Give advice to your successor,
With the same design,
And he'll pay the same attention
You pay now to mine.

The Wonders of California.

Visitors from the East see the wonders of California which the residents have never visited. There is no excuse now for not seeing the Big Trees, which are the wonder of the world. By Peek & Co's new route, you can start to-day at 8 A. M., arrive at Mokelumne at 7 P. M., where you rest for the night in a comfortable hotel. Up in the morning early and drive through some of the prettiest scenery in the world and arrive at Calaveras Grove at 12 M. The expense of the round trip from Mokelumne Station is $16. With the month of July warm weather has set in, and numbers will visit the Calaveras Grove of giant Trees by this new, speedy and economical route. P. H. Kean, 622 Clay street, is the agent.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Began's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous Squeers, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that th former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

Below Montgomery Block.

TUESDAY.....JULY 11, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

Tom Hughes on Keno.

Thomas Hughes, M. P., author of "Tom Brown's School Days," lectured in London, on the 10th inst., on America. In the course of his lecture, speaking of life in the towns in the West, he said:

"In more than one place large schools had been erected, and it was hoped that in course of time such establishments would have the effect of doing away altogether with the gambling houses; but he must say, in connection with the latter, that the game indulged in, called "keno," appeared to him to be remarkably fair, and vastly more creditable than the system of sporting and other gambling so extensively indulged in England."

We quite agree with Tom Hughes. Keno is a fair game, and a very pleasant little game, and much more creditable than running horses to lose on the turf. It was too bad to stop that nice, innocent little game at Congress Hall.

A Delightful Spot.

Woodland, Yolo county, is a delightful place, a town embosomed in gardens, but it is not very rich. Taking example by some of its neighbors, this city intends to give a gift concert next month in aid of its Public School, Fire Department and Benevolent Associations. A large number of tickets have been sold. The prizes range from $20,000 down to $20. The School Trustees and the best men of Woodland are at the head of the enterprise.

New Music.

We have received from the publisher, M. Gray, "O! How Delightful," composed by J. L. Molloy and sung by Alice Dunning. The words are by Alfred Sketchley. Also "La Chaca," a Spanish song, one out of a collection of songs and ballads arranged by Manuel Y. Ferrer, and entitled "The Guitarist's Repertoire."

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location.

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. SHABER & Co., 738 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding. x

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of HUG & SCHMIDT, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

What Cheer Laundry

Calls for and delivers clothes to all parts of the city.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

Say What You Mean.

We like a man who is not afraid to express his opinion in good plain English when it is necessary for him to do so, without any "but ifs," "maybes," or other expressions. If you know a man to be a fraud, say so, if you are asked about him, or you become an accessory to his future misdeeds. If you dislike a man, let him know it, if you are not afraid of him.

When the Indians commence the sturgeon fishery in the Sacramento River, a big boom is put out over the bank, a medicine man goes out to the end and makes a speech to the fish something in this style, "We are a very good-natured tribe of Indians; we don't bear you sturgeons any ill will, but we want to eat you because we are hungry. Don't let there be any ill-feeling between us, but let us look at the matter in the right light. We beg your pardon for catching you, but we must do it." Then, this apology being made, they set to work to slaughter as many sturgeons as they can. They treat a bear in the same civil manner; when they attack him, they say "you have a right to live in the woods as well as we; you are a noble brave fellow, a warrior in your way; you must, however, excuse us for cutting your throat."

There are men who would not kick a cur without first taking off a boot. A bad dog and a good dog are alike to them; a bad man and a good man are both treated equally well. This is wrong. If you know a man to be bad, you should, without any apology to him, yourself, or others, show him up. If a man writes doggrel and calls it poetry, show him up, and say what you think about it, don't end with, "but it may please some people." If an actor forms an entirely wrong conception of a part and plays it badly don't disguise the fact because he played some other part well last week. In fact say what you mean, tell the truth and shame the devil.

Eminently Just.

The head cook of the Parker House, in Boston, has a yearly salary of $4,000, and the President of Harvard University is paid $3,200 annually.—Ex.

This is an invidious comparison. There are many book-worms competent to fill the position of President of Harvard University. On the other hand how few men there are who could bear the responsibilities resting on the shoulders of the head cook of the Parker House. Of Professors learned enough for Harvard University, there is no lack; of cooks talented enough for the Parker House, there is a lamentable deficiency. Hail happy day when the United States shall become civilized enough to form a College of Cooks with Professor Blot as President.

Some Hope.

The Alta, noticing a new work, calls it: "A very Bostonish book; full of good grammar." We are glad that the Alta calls grammar good; it is a pity, though, that it does not make use of it more frequently.

In the course of a discussion with her husband a Memphis lady aimed a pop-bottle at his head. It struck a lighted non-explosive, however, and the remainder of the conversation was lost.

While the gift of conversation proves a clever man, the want of it is no proof of a dull one.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Creme de Lis.

Beautiful is the finish developed by the use of DICKEY'S celebrated CREME DE LIS, a pure transparent complexion being imparted. No poison enters its composition.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Reading Matter for All.

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Important to Strangers.

ABRAHAM'S, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. ABRAHAMS, 33 and 35 Second street.

Lotteries in Oregon.

We havn't heard of any lottery in Oregon yet, but the people like those which are started in other places, and the papers "pull for them." The Eugene City Guard says of the "Omaha Legal Enterprise," which will come off shortly:

"This popular enterprise still goes on; here is a chance to win a fortune. Who wants that $20,000, or a chance to get that $15,000, or the $10,000, $5,000, $3,000, $2,000, or any of the $1,000 gifts. True you are not perfectly certain of it, but then, nothing venture, nothing have. For $2 you may become rich; who is there among us rich or poor that would not risk the paltry sum of $2 for an honest and fair show in a Legal Enterprise conducted openly and above-board like the Omaha—in aid of a free city library."

We believe more people are buying up these tickets in San Francisco than in Oregon

Virtue.

Virtue should excite shame for its own sake, and not for the censure which it may incur from others. The virtue of him who is guarded from temptation by fear of the world and the fear of detection is certainly fortified by feeble defences. And if such a one has the good fortune, through the various vicissitudes of his life, to preserve the blessing of a good conscience and the jewel of a good name, he may well consider that life a series of miracles.

He who esteems trifles for themselves is a trifler; he who esteems them for the conclusion to be drawn from them, or the advantage to which they can be put, is a philosopher.

What Cheer Laundry

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Everbody Buys Them.

What The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, en trance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night.

MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

TUESDAY..... JULY 11t, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will be mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This theatre was densely crowded last night, even standing room being hard to obtain when the curtain rose, and many ladies having to find seats in the orchestra chairs. The theatre presented a bright and cheerful appearance, and the new arrangement of foot lights and jets of gas at the side, lighted the stage admirably. Joe Murphy received a hearty greeting on making his appearance and was at once as much at home with the audience as if he had not been absent a day. As to the play, Joe Murphy does his part much better than Mr. Maeder has done his. In the first act he causes much laughter by his sharp retorts in the character of an Irish servant, but it is in the second act that Joe Murphy shines forth in all his brilliancy. Here he introduces his best Dutch character songs, and none were more heartily laughed at than the old favorites, "Walking on the Long Bridge," and "Love among the Roses." The old Dutch woman retired behind a curtain, and in an amazingly short space of time, Joe Murphy came forth blacked up and dressed in jockey costume, and performed his wonderful bone solo, in which we do not believe he can be equalled by any performer in the world. The other characters in the play have not much to do, but fill up time to give Joe a few minutes rest. Mrs. F M. Bates received a round of applause on making her appearance. J. H. Hardie made his first appearance on this occasion as Tracy Randall, a part in which it would be unfair to form a judgment of his ability. Everyone is glad to see Joe Murphy again; the play serves to show him off to the best advantage, his best acts being introduced, and therefore the audience are kept constantly amused. The sensation scene of the explosion of a kerosene lamp, was very effectively managed, the flames seeming to envelope the sleeping figure on the bed. "Help" bids fair to have a run.

California Theatre.

A large audience was present at this theatre last night. The performance commenced with the very amusing comedietta of "A Marriage at any Price," in which John T. Raymond, W. A. Mestayer and Miss Dickey Lingard caused great fun. In that portion of the evening's entertainment, composed of sketches, the hit of the evening was Lingard's life-like picture of Emperor Norton, which fairly brought down the house. The performance concluded with the extravaganza of Pluto, in which Mr. Lingard played the title role, and made many neat points; Miss Alice Dunning, Miss Dickey Lingard and Minnie Lingard and Miss Minnie Walton all looked ravishingly beautiful in their respective parts of Orpheus, Aristeus and Eurydice; Miss Phenie Stanley, who has not had a very long experience on the stage, played the part of Apollo excellently, and the burlesque as a whole went off very pleasingly. Pinto's drawing-room was very generally admired as a proof of the good taste and wealth of that monarch. The songs introduced were all well sung; the music was good, and the dresses were superb. A subdued shoo-fly dance brought down the curtain; what more could be desired in a burlesque? The same bill will be played this evening.

Alhambra Theatre.

This cosy little temple of Momus is always crowded. There is something to please every man, woman and child in the audience. The music is good; Vivian's songs are original, artistic and always good; Billy Emerson's rollicking fun causes great laughter; Fostello is a marvel of grace in female dances, and "One Night in a Bar Room," causes uproarious mirth.

Maguire's Opera House.

The season of French Opera Bouffe at Maguire's Opera House, promises to be a success, over half the seats of the dress circle having been already taken. Rehearsals are proceeding actively; the chorus rehearsing this morning at the Alhambra, and the orchestra at Maguire's Opera House. There will be a full rehearsal this afternoon and another this evening.

Bella Union Theatre.

Ella Wesner's new selections from her repertoire, "Good as Gold," "Give a Man a Chance," and "Captain De Boots," were received with immense applause. The Reynolds Brothers were encored again and again; all the acts went well; all the songs were well sung, and the audience were thoroughly well pleased, as will be those who get a seat at the Bella Union Theatre to-night.

Theatre Comique.

E. M. Hall met with a hearty reception on making his first appearance last night at the Theatre Comique, and during the time he was on the stage kept the audience in continual good humor with his amusing songs, humorous stories and capital banjo performances. He will appear again this evening, and the strong company of the Theatre Comique will present a bill of extraordinary attractions.

Picnic.

There is nothing dull about a picnic got up by Frenchmen; they of all others are the people who know how to enjoy themselves. On Sunday next a picnic will be given at New Saucelito by the French Mutual Benevolent Society, which will certainly be one of the most pleasant affairs of the season.

Platt's Hall.

To-night, the venerable Elizabeth Cady Stanton, the most worthy of all the advocates of the right of suffrage for women, will deliver a lecture on "The New Republic."

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

What Cheer Laundry,

321 Leidesdorff street, near Sacramento;

John T. Raymond.

This popular commedian will leave for the East on the first of next month. He goes to New York immediately after the termination of his engagement at the California, to support Lotta as Dick Swiveller (not 'Dick Sniveller,' as yesterday's Alta had it) in the play of "Little Nell," at Booth's Theatre. He will not play "Asa Trenchard" at Niblo's, as the Alta erroneously announced yesterday; but at the termination of his engagement at Booth's, will go to Lina Edwin's Theatre, where he and his estimable lady are engaged for the coming season.

Madame Lake's Circus.

This great circus company is marching triumphantly through the country, and will give its first exhibition here about the 10th of August. G. W. Zobold, the treasurer, and G. W. Richards, cannon ball performer, arrived here on Saturday evening, for the purpose of looking round to arrange for the opening.

A Large Order.

Three of the dirtiest, most ragged little ragamuffins in Boston, entered one of the magnificent drug-stores in the place. Marching up to the counter, one said:

"I want a cent's worth of rock candy?"

"Get out, you ragamuffin! We don't sell a cent's worth of rock candy?"

Slowly and sadly they filed out of the store. On the sidewalk a consultation took place. They re-entered the door.

"Minster, do you sell three cents' worth of rock candy?"

"Yes."

"Well, we ain't got 'em;" and the procession moved out again.

Teeth of Pearl.

A pretty girl with teeth of pearl is always admired. The pretty girls of San Francisco must be careful not to buy "Diamond Tooth Paste" from peddlers, or any person but C. C. Keene at the music store, 105 Montgomery street. None other is genuine.

No One to Blame.

A house fell down on Sunday, killed one boy and severely injured two others. House was propped up on bits of scantling; of course no one was to blame but the boy who sneezed and blew it over.

A disconsolate Oshkosher commenced proceedings against a young lady for breach of promise but has been finally induced to compromise for $5.

A Charleston swain who had been rejected, boldly became comatose by partaking of an ounce of laudanum. The cruel fair only laughed when she heard of it.

The delicate young ladies of Gotham find it necessary to play croquet under tents to protect them from the sun. Their dear papas didn't use to hoe potatoes in that way, though.

Save Your Money.

The Land Mortgage Union is the best place to invest your savings. 50 cents per fortnight amounts, in about eight years, to $250. Investers can withdraw their funds after twelve months with withdrawal rate of interest. Call at the office, 123 Post street, for information. *

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre. *

Ladies' Fine Lasting Balmorals

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner. *

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there. *

"FUNERAL THOUGHTS."

Slow—oh, so slow—the big black coach did crawl!
The poor widow and I sat inside;
Ahead was the hearse with the trappings of wo;
Towards solemn Greenwood we did ride.

I sat there and watched the bereaved one's face;
It was touchingly worn, wan and sad.
I wished that another were in my place—
For the night made me feel very bad.

Slow—oh, terribly slow—the coach did go!
And the widow motioned to speak;
She had tried before, but the choke arose,
And I thought that her heart would break.

But she mastered her grief at the cemetery gates,
And with trembling voice, faint and low,
Thus she spake: "Well, he's gone! the poor, darling old man—
But there's one thing I'd like to know."

"What is that?" I respectfully asked. She replied:
"Oh, sir, my loss might be endured—
Could I only be sure the office is good
In which the poor dear is insured!"

The way for a man to truly succeed is to do what he thinks best worth his doing, in the way he thinks it ought to be done. Let him never step aside from his path, either for profit or praise, and he will have all the success that is possible to him, and all that is worth having.

A young lady at Richmond commenced crying on the third of last month, and has not stopped yet; and her father says she can howl forever, but she won't get any two shillings out of him to buy a bustle.

A Paris hatter, whose stock was riddled with bullets during the siege, now sells the damaged hats at fabulous prices as souvenirs of the war.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

The Elixir of Youth.

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever. *

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P. M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

The Home for a Poor Man.

A great many people now-a-days, because a man cannot, as he could in '49, make wages seven and eight times as high as those paid in the Eastern States and Europe, grumble and say California is no home for a poor man. They do not reflect that if wages have come down so have prices. A man can board cheaply, and he can certainly dress like a gentleman for an amazingly small sum. Suits of clothes cut in the newest fashion and made in the very best manner, can be bought at a most reasonable price, of Purdy & Litchfield, at the corner of Washington and Sansome streets, one block from the Post-office. Remember this when you next go for your letters.

Our Australian Letter.

We give up a large portion of our space to-day to an interesting letter from our Melbourne correspondent, containing an account of theatricals in all parts of the Australian colonies, and the troubles of Mr. Coppin, who came here with Charles Kean, and has now got himself into a bad box by pitching into the public for not supporting him better. There is a moral in this for managers in all parts of the world, and we hope they will appreciate it.

The Rustic Window Shade

Is superior to any in market for cheapness, finish and durability, manufactured by Hollehan & Burbridge, 617 Mission, near corner of New Montgomery street.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Take only Horton's. See that the name of HUG & SCHMIDT, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Scully, Agents.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Ranch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

LETTER FROM AUSTRALIA.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

MELBOURNE, May 29th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—Since my last communication to you, the theatrical world has been in a perfect hubbub of "toil and trouble." Events have crowded so thick upon us that I am afraid I must exceed my usual limit in giving you merely an outline of them. I will first deal with hard facts—the actual doings at our places of amusement.

THE GRAND OPERA

at the Princess Theatre has been a most undoubted success, and reflects the highest credit on Mr. Wm Saurin Lyster, the director, for his public spirit and enterprise in engaging so large and talented a company. Signori Cagli and Pompei's Operatic Troupe, as they are styled, opened to a crowded house on the 17th inst., in Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera," and achieved a great and lasting success, the characters being sustained in the most efficient manner. Signor Rosnati, the tenor, was Ricardo; Signor Coliva, Renato; Signor Dondi, Samuel; Signor Grandi, Tomaso; Adelia, Signora Rosavalee; Edgar, the Page, Signora Giulia Tamburini Coy; and the Gipsy, Ulrica, by Signora Luigi Poili. On the following night the Italian version of "Martha" was produced, in which Signori Coy, Tournerie and S. Grandi appeared, and strange to say, failed to attract even a fair audience; but on the following evening the Opera House was crammed in all parts and witnessed a presentation of "Lucrezia Borgia" which, for lyric and histrionic talent, has never been equalled in this hemisphere. The attraction of the evening was the first appearance of Signora Margherita Zenona as the Duchess. The performance was a perfect triumph from beginning to end. The prima donna is possessed of talents of super-excellence; her histrionic powers in this part are nearly equal to those of Mme. Lucy Escott, and her lyric powers are on an equality with those of the gifted Signora Baratti. The other parts in the opera were sustained by Signori Dondi, Rosnati and Grandi, with Signora Follio as Orzini. Then followed Rossini's opera, "Il Barbiere de Seviglia," and it is admitted on all sides that we have never had so perfect a representation in this colony. It served to introduce the prima donna mezzo-soprano of the company in the role of Rosina, which was sustained by Signora Augusta Curtisi with considerable archness, vivacity, and flexibility of vocalization, and stamps her as an artist of the highest excellence; the little part of Bertha also introduced Signora Luigia Tournerie, in which she was very successful. The opera "L'Elisire d'Amore" was the next produced; it was not, however, as successful, though the house was crowded. This evening "Faust" is to be played, to be followed by "Il Trovatore" and "Don Giovanni." The season, which is to last six weeks longer, has begun in a most auspicious manner, and with every prospect of pecuniary and histro-lyric success. Sydney will be visited at the conclusion of the Melbourne season.

THEATRE ROYAL.

Business at this house has been very indifferent—the attendance, however, has been quite equal to the quality of the entertainments presented. A drama entitled "The Star Chamber," a play of "shreds and patches," failed to draw, and was replaced with Andrew Halliday's adaptation of the "Old Curiosity Shop;" the scenery for which, by Mr. John Hennings, was really splendid, and was in fact the only attraction in the presentation; the limited company causing several of the characters to be placed in the hands of inferior artists—notably that of the Marchioness, by Miss Maggie Stewart, which was a most egregious and utter failure. There was also a most indiscriminate distribution of the other characters, among even the lesser actors in the company, reminding me much of beans and pegs in square holes. Mr. Howe played "round father; Mr. Harwood, Quilp; Mr. the Grandson Brass; Mr. Groville, Dick Swivel-Rogers, Sampson Brogden made a bit as Little Mr. Miss Julia may be said of the Mrs. Jarley Neil, and the same through with "Black-Eyed of Mrs. Wooldridge. At today's play was Susan" as the afterpiece, "Marchioness of Paris" withdrawn on Friday last, the "Surgeon" having been produced in its place, with Mr. J. B. Howe playing the hero. Mr. Roberts, who has lately arrived from India, is engaged here, and will shortly appear as the "American Cousin." It is stated that in August next, this house will be closed for several weeks, to admit of such alterations being made as are required by the Government officials in the interests and regarding the safety of the public in the matter of sufficient exits and entrances. During this temporary recess the company will occupy the boards of the Haymarket Theatre.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL

has been tenanted by the clever magician and musician, Mr. Robert Heller, whose performances are certainly far above those of any other performer we have had here in this line of business. Affable and gentlemanly in his demeanor, courteous and obliging in his manners, dexterous and expert in his sleight-of-hand performances, and one of the best pianists who has ever yet visited us, he has succeeded in establishing himself as a favorite of the highest rank in this city. He is most ably assisted by Miss Haydee Heller, who has been known in this colony for some time as the best exponent of second-sight extant. She has, however, during the past fortnight, shown the possession of histrionic talent that no one previously would have given her credit for. In a series of "Animated Pictures," she has given imitations of several of the artists who appeared in the late presentation of "The Grand Duchess." Her mimicries of the peculiarities of the principal singers then engaged are really wonderful, and well deserved the applause bestowed upon her performances. They closed their final season in Melbourne on Saturday night; and after a tour through the suburbs, provinces and the other colonies, they will visit India en route for England.

HYAMARKET THEATRE.

This house has been a source of attraction for some weeks past. The performances of Weston and Feuillade's Minstrels have been of such a popular character, that large and appreciative audiences have been the order of the day, or rather night. The company has lately been strengthened by the return of Mr. Frank Hussey from Sydney, and has among its number Messrs. Feuillade, Weston, Hussey, Holmes, Campbell, Rogers, Monaigy, Cowan and Sallie Lloyd. Next week, Miss Blanche Clifton (Mrs. F. Hussey) is to appear in a series of illustrated national songs and scenas. Mr. Henry Hallam and Tom Raisford will probably join this crowd shortly. They will be a great acquisition and attraction—the former gentleman is a splendid tenor singer.

THE LONDON MUSIC HALL,

after the failure of the Judge and Jury Club, under the presidency of the well-known "sport," Dicker Hamilton, has returned to the concert hall business. The company consists of Miss Milly Parker, J. J. Daniels, Letville, Frank Lloyd, J. Black, Griffeths, Maynard, Fritz and George Collimore.

THE COLLOSEUM

is, without exception, the vilest den in this city, and is only mentioned to show that the man, Charles Wright, is still able to baffle the endeavors of the lovers of law and order. His latest dodge is to open the place as a coffee lounge on Sunday evening.

THE WAX WORKS.

This show is really one of the sights of Melbourne, and reflects the highest credit on the enterprise and ability displayed by Mr. Krestmayer and his worthy and clever little wife. There are over three hundred well-executed figures—the latest add tion being those of the Princess and Marquis of Lorne.

THE THEATRICAL MONOPOLY

with which this town has been cursed for the last two years is now about to be broken up. There is no doubt whatever that under the regime of Messrs. Harwood, Stewart, Hennings and Coppin the drama has been degraded, actors and actresses of repute and talent starved out of the country, and the most miserable apologies for artists pitchforked into positions of responsibility at thirty and forty shillings a week. At length "a change is coming o'er the spirit of the dream," and it occurs this wise: Mr. Coppin, who has never taken any active part in the management of the Theatre Royal, having engaged the Zavistowski Sisters from your State, naturally wished that they should appear at the Royal; the active partners refused to accede to very liberal terms made by him; consequently they force him to open in opposition—a course of action that all trust will take place. The arrangements pending (if not already concluded) are, that the Zavistowski Sisters shall on their arrival in Sydney play there at the Opera House. At the conclusion of the opera season here the boards of the Princess Theatre will be occupied by these talented ladies and the Sydney company, which will accompany them.

MR. GEORGE COPPIN

is certainly the most enterprising caterer for our amusements we have ever had. When in management, liberality characterized his actions, both before and behind the curtain. A thorough man of business, a clever actor, and genial man of the world, as he is, he has, however, placed himself in an exceedingly false position. On the first of this month a complimentary benefit was given to him at the Theatre Royal; an immense programme was offered, and the demand for tickets so great that it was extended to the following evening. Both nights were bumper houses. So far so good. Now Mr. Coppin considered it necessary to make a speech, and as his speeches are generally so genial and humorous, they have always been received with great enthusiasm. His address on this occasion, however, was a perfect failure, and has met with the condemnation of all sorts of people. He actually defended the miserable management of Harwood & Co. It has been a well-known and too apparent fact for some months past that the company engaged at the Royal has been (as a whole) the most incompetent that has ever appeared on the boards of that theatre; that the management has been the most penurious, unpopular and illiberal that has ever held the reigns of government in that establishment, presenting the works of the immortal bard with a cast of characters unworthy even the Bowery in New York. Knowing all this, it is utterly incomprehensible that Mr. Coppin of all men should advocate the miserable cheese-paring policy pursued by Harwood & Co. But so it was. He made an attempt at defense, and in the end got the worst of the argument. The papers came down on him very hot; he replied to the strictures of the Argus, and made matters worse. His ill-judged address was a staggerer for his many friends; many subjects were touched upon in which the public really have no interest, and one especially was so unbusiness-like, injudicious and unprofessional, that we can hardly wonder at the hornets' nest he has raised about his ears. In alluding to the supposed losses sustained by the firm in the engagement of stars, he said:

Mr. and Mrs. Bandmann's second engagement imposed a serious loss upon the treasury. They played "Romeo and Juliet" to £30, the "School for Scandal," £30, "Much Ado About Nothing," £20. Mrs. Gladstane—also a losing engagement—played in "Much Ado About Nothing" to £20, "Elizabeth," £37, "Man and Wife," £30. Mr. J. B. Howe, another losing engagement, although acknowledged by the Press and the public to be a most talented and versatile actor, played "Hamlet" to £24. The comedy of "Not Such a Fool as He Looks," with an excellent cast of characters, resulted in a loss of £150 in one week.

Mr. S. W. Bayliss, the agent for Mrs. Gladstane, took exception to this portion of the address and thus replies: "For instance, Mr. Coppin says that "Man and Wife" was played to £30, but he omits to state that the average nightly receipts of that piece during the three weeks it was played was about £63." Mr. Bayliss also touched on other matters in a very warm manner and received from Mr. Coppin a stinging reply in return. This affair, from the delivery of the speech to the present time, from the number of letters and articles written, forms a very interesting episode of the theatricals of the present day in Australia.

MR. C. E. HORSLEY,

the eminent composer, is about to visit your States on his way back to England. He is a musician of very high talents. His oratorio of "David" and the cantata "Euterpe," composed for the opening of the Melbourne Town Hall, stamp him at once as an artiste worthy equality with Balfe, Macfarren, and Stonedale Bennett. At present he is on a professional tour through the Western district with Madame Hildebrand, and Messrs. Hallam and Rainford.

MONS. AND MME. SIMONSON, have also formed a company for a tour through the country. At present the troupe consisting of Madame Simonson, soprano; Percy Easdown, contralto; Edward Farley, basso; Barry O'Neil Comique; Martin Simonson, violinist, and H. King, Jr., are in the West, en route for Adelaide.

MR. CHAS. LASCELLES, who first came to the colonies with Mme. Anna Bishop some time since, has since his connection with Lyster's Opera Company, established himself a favorite, both as a buffo singer and chorus master, is in conjunction with Miss Lucy Chambers, Mrs. Lambert, a splendid contralto; and Mr. Roberts, to tour shortly on a tour through the provinces. Pianoforte recitals and selections from the "Grand Duchess," are to be the staple of their performances. Mr. Lascelles's performance of the Prince Paul was one of the main features of the "Grand Duchess" at the Opera House.

MRS. GLADSTANE.

This talented and gifted artiste has given the provincials a taste of her quality. She is now fulfilling a country tour that, as far as it has gone, has never been equalled in success since that of Mr. Walter Montgomery. She has appeared successfully at Sandhurst, Castlemain, and finished last night at Ballarat a 24 nights' engagement. She is supported by Messrs. John Dunn, Appleton, McGowan and Reeves, Miss Blanche Grey, and Mrs. Lachlan McGowan. Mrs. Gladstane will open at short season at Gelong next week, and will then visit Adelaide. It is indeed pleasing to record the continued success of this clever lady.

BARLOW, THE BLUE-TAILED FLY,

left lately for New Zealand, on a professional tour. He is accompanied by Messrs. Charles Holly, Bromley and Thomas Buckley, the entertaining cloggists and ventriloquists.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Messrs. T. S. Bellair, Roberts and wife, Howe, Power and Holloway, have returned from Calcutta. The season there, under Mr. W. Gile, was a complete fiasco. In August next, Mr. G. B. Lewis, the pioneer of theatricals in that country, will leave here with a large company of dramatic artists, many of whom will be new to Calcutta. He has already engaged Mr. J. R. Howe, Mr. Appleton and Miss Boyce (Mrs. Appleton), Miss Julia Edouin; and Mrs. Lewis nee Miss Rose Edouin, will be the leading lady.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

At the Prince of Wales Opera House, Sydney, an excellent version of "David Copperfield" is being played under the title of "Uncle Peggotty's Darling." It is an adaptation by Miss Welton, of London, and has met with considerable success. The company here is a very good one—consisting among others of Messrs. Chas. Yong, J. J. Bartlett, Stuart, O'Brien, Welsh and E. N. Douglas; Mrs. Charles Jones, and Misses Granger, Elenor, Carey and Dolly Green.

The Victoria Theatre was opened on the 24th of this month by Harry Kelly's American Excelsior American Minstrels, including Kelly, J. Buckley, Alec. O'Brien, S. Clark, Amery, Herman, Reeves, Sayers and J. Campbell. The Adelphi Theatre is open under the direction of Mr. Burford, as The People's Theatre, of Sydney. "London After Dark" is having a good run at this house, and the company is a very excellent one, including Misses Clara Stephenson and Maggie Oliver, and Messrs. Burford, W. I. Holloway, John Howe and Harry Flynn.

CHANG, THE CHINESE GIANT,

has closed a most satisfactory season at the School of Arts, and has commenced his suburban and provincial tour through New South Wales.

THISDON'S MACROCOSM OF MANIFOLD MARVELS

is shortly to be introduced to the cornstalks of N. S. W. It is an excellent and instructive entertainment.

THE GREGORY TROUPE

have just concluded a successful tour through Tarmania, and will shortly leave that island for Sydney. Miss Gertrude's trapeze performances are the theme of admiration everywhere.

QUEENSLAND.

This colony is quite looking up in the way of amusements. At the Victoria Hall, Brisbane, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Darrell, assisted by a company including Mrs. Tom Fawcett and Mr. Clarey, have commenced a short season, "Leah," "The Lady of Lyons," and other stock plays of a similar kind being put forward to attract. The Royal Alexandra Theatre in the same town is tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Harding and an excellent troupe

ROCKINGHAM.

At the School of Arts, Mr. W. A. Chapman, the magician, is drawing good houses, and at the Theatre Royal the burlesque of "Ixion" is offered as the attraction. I. L. Byers and his wife are the principal artistes.

NEW ZEALAND.

The Princess Theatre, Dunedin, is under a Commonwealth, with Mr. G. W. Lawrence as principal manager. The season, which has been a prosperous one, is drawing to a close, when Messrs. Lawrence Collier and Metcalfe, Miss Carry George and Miss Lizzie Bushe will return to Melbourne. The Prince of Wales Theatre at Auckland has been occupied to good advantage by Mr. Hoskins and Miss Florence Colville. It is more than probable they will visit your States. The opposition at the Theatre Royal are doing melodrama as a counter attraction. The Theatre Royal, Onnistchurch, is still under the direction of pretty Anna Forde and her burlesque company. Business has been excel-

CALL BOY.

LETTER FROM AUSTRALIA.

[FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.]

MELBOURNE, May 29th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—Frank Hussey has returned from Queensland, and is drawing well.

The Theatre Royal closes shortly for a term of three months, to effect alterations and repairs, pursuant to the new Act—else they cannot renew their license.

Harwood, Stewart, Hennings & Coppin dissolve partnership in a few months, Harwood proceeds to America to star.

The Zavistowski Sisters are expected by the next steamer, and the Emerson Minstrels in about two months. [Don't you wish you may get them?—FIGARO.] Should they come in their entirety, they'll drop money, as we have a deal of good talent already in that line. Five or six of the principals would do well and be at little expense.

I enclose programmes, and semi-occasionally send you a newspaper. Your FIGARO is considered a "little wonder" by the steady-going folks out here; I wish we had more of them.

Any news of importance that transpires I will keep you posted on. Yours faithfully,

FRANK WESTON.

MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Loddings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

WEDNESDAY..... JULY 12, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

Whether times are dull or brisk, makes no difference to the Alhambra Theatre. There one can spend the evening and laugh away one's cares listening to the cheerful philosophy embodied in Vivian's (capital comic songs, laughing at the wonderfully comical sayings and doings, singing and dancing of the inimitable Billy Emerson, and have their minds soothed by the sweet music arranged for their delectation by Geo. T. Evans. To-night Louis Braham will sing a pretty ballad composed by Fred Lyster. The words are by John Brougham, and may be found in another column.

California Theatre.

The performance last night went off in excellent style. In the comedietta of "A Marriage at Any Price," all did their best to amuse, and succeeded in keeping the audience in a roar of laughter. William Horace Lingard again introduced Emperor Norton, who was greeted with shouts of applause. Mr. Lingard has, we understand, other local impersonations in preparation; these always take better with the audience than mere abstract characterizations, and are sure to increase Mr. Lingard's popularity. The performances concluded with the burlesque of "Pluto," The favorite play of "Frou-Frou," in which Miss Alice Dunning made such a success on the occasion of her former visit to San Francisco, will be presented on Monday. "Elfie," Boucicault's latest drama, is in rehearsal. Porter is painting new scenery for it and it will be produced on Friday evening, 21st inst. and be played until the close of the Lingard's engagement.

Maguire's Opera House.

The lovers of the light and fascinating music of Offenbach and Herve we are sure will hail with delight the advent of Fisk's Opera Bouffe Troupe, headed by those great artistes, Lea Silly and Felix Girrebeuk, at this theatre tomorrow night. The first is the young and charming prima donna engaged in Paris just previous to the war for James Fisk, and who during a season of one year was the bright particular star at the Grand Opera House, New York. Her singing and acting of the character of Boullotte, in "Barbe Bleue," was the theme of universal admiration during that triumphant season. Felix Girrebeuk, the tenor, must become a great favorite. He is young and handsome in person and possesses a fresh, vigorous and sweet voice; and what is most important in Opera Bouffe is an admirable actor. Of Jules Alexis, it is hardly necessary to speak, for, as all who attended the late opera season are aware, he was the life and soul of the troupe. M'lle Vandelet and the rest of the troupe are very highly spoken of by all who have heard them. The opening opera will be "Barbe Bleue," which will be produced with every care as to detail, and the costumes will be most elaborate. The seats for the opening to-morrow night, are already in demand and we should not be surprised if every seat in the dress circle and orchestra was engaged.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Help" was played last night to another large audience, and the indefatigable Joe Murphy kept all in a continual state of amusement. It is amazing to see the amount of work he does and how well he performs it. He requires very little help being a host in himself. John Woodward's make up for Nubbles, the bully, is capital; and he makes quite a character of it. Miss Jennie Manderville gains much applause for her song "Annie on the Banks of Dee," and Mrs. Frank Rea plays Mother Vit with a very natural brogue, and much force "Help" will be played until further notice.

Bella Union Theatre.

If anyone denies to woman equal talent with man, they had better visit the Bella Union Theatre and see Ella Wesner in her lightning changes and character songs. Both Vivian and Lingard must look to their laurels. The Reynolds Brothers are as popular as ever; and the new dance, "La Maha," is very attractive. The Bella Union holds its own against all opposition, with its excellent company and varied attractions. A new piece, written for this house, is in rehearsal.

Theatre Comique.

Those who do not respect the banjo as a musical instrument, should go to the Theatre Comique and hear E. M. Hall, the great banjoist, perform They should go early to secure seats, and enjoy a rich and diversified performance of songs, dances and acts by Lew Parker, Wallace and Rosa.

Liberal Management.

The prices of admission to the parquette and gallery for the coming season of Opera Bouffe at Maguire's Opera House, have been placed at the regular theatrical season rates, fifty cents to the parquette, and twenty-five cents to the gallery, for the first time in the history of the opera in this city.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Onalila Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

THE MOTHER'S GIFT.

[WORDS BY MR. JOHN BROUGHAM—MUSIC BY MR. FREDERICK LYSTER.

The words of the song were suggested by seeing an aged woman feebly striving to carry a heavy box of earth, with shamrocks growing in it, on board of an emigrant ship in Cork Harbor. On being asked why she labored under such a burden she replied, "Ah! no burden at all, Sir; sure I'm bringing them to my son in America, to remind him of the ould sod where he was born."

My aged heart, long dead to joy,
Now throbs with new delight.
Once more I'll see my darling boy,
So precious to my sight.
God prosper still my noble son,
Long has he toiled for me,
I'm going to the home he's won,
His home beyond the sea.

He bids me some remembrance bring
From his loved place of birth.
Alas! I have no richer thing
Than this poor box of earth
With shamrocks filled,
But when he hears I've borne it on my knee
And kept it green with happy tears,
Sure it must welcome be.

I've brought it from the very spot
Where, when a careless child,
He played, while o'er our gloomy lot
One ray from Heaven smiled.
May its best influence yet restore
Those days to him and me,
And fill with brightness evermore
Our home beyond the sea.

Suit For Libel.

Wm. R. Cranna has brought suit in the Fourth District Court against J. P. Bogardus, to recover $20,000 damages for libel, alleged to have been perpetrated by a publication, June 1st, in the FIGARO, of an article setting forth that Cranna in the management of a theatrical concern had "sloped" from Virginia city without paying bills; also an article published June 17th in the FIGARO over the signature of J. M. Lollar, headed "A Card—To the profession and the public of Virginia City"—in which was a detailed statement regarding plaintiff's financial and other shortcomings.—Evening Bulletin.

"Miss Jones,

Where are you going?" "I'm going to buy a pair of French Kid Boots." "Where?" "Why, Mr. Brown, what a question. Why, where everybody gets theirs, at F. X. Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

John G. Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Important to Strangers.

ABRAHAM'S, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. ABRAHAMS, 33 and 35 Second street.

What Cheer Laundry

Calls for and delivers clothes to all parts of the city.

Creme de Lis.

Beautiful is the finish developed by the use of DICKEY'S celebrated CREME DE LIS, a pure transparent complexion being imparted. No poison enters its composition.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

What Cheer Laundry

Is the best laundry in San Francisco

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how rediculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Oysters and Chowder.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

Below Montgomery Block.

THURSDAY.....JULY 13, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE C.A.L. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P. M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

The New York Riot.

The morning papers are full of telegrams detailing the particulars of the low riot in New York yesterday. A more disgraceful scene never took place in an American city. The riotous demonstration savored of the ignorance and bigotry of the Dark Ages, and was an insult and indignity aimed both against the American spirit of religious toleration and the good repute of the Republic. As such it was commented on on every street corner yesterday with the most decided sentiments of disapproval; and many seemed unable to find language sufficiently strong to denounce the outrage committed against our laws, our good repute, and our liberties.

Americans have recently passed through the most bitter domestic war in the records of history, and have been arrayed against each other on a hundred battlefields. They have a hundred causes, each greater than an insignificant battle fought nearly two hundred years ago, to engender the bitterest animosities, but, thanks to a wise and more enlightened education, the spirit of toleration has subdued the asperities, the bitterness and animosities arising from that great struggle, and we assemble together in peace and harmony. When will the rioters of yesterday learn this lesson?

Tender Mercies.

Mr. Elizabeth Cady Stanton claims that a woman has a right to trial by a jury of her peers—that a woman should be tried by women. We don't believe that the generality of women would be in favor of this. Women don't show much mercy to those of their own sex who err. In such a case as that proposed by Mrs. Stanton, a pretty face would render the jury more favorable in a case of frailty; the jury would have to show that they were sternly virtuous by the severity of their verdict.

My Best Brother.

A merry, light-hearted amendmentess rushed into a colored citizen's arms at Savannah, exclaiming, "Oh, you are my long lost brother!" She soon discovered her mistake, and rushed off in a confused manner, accompanied by her long-lost brother's pocket-book.

It is said that it will require six months to complete a troupe for the Opera Comique in Paris, the late company having been decimated by the war, or gone to America.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. Hug & Schmidt, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by James G. Steele & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

Our Libel Suit.

On Tuesday last the proprietor of Figaro was sued for an alleged libel against Wm. R. Cranna, the plaintiff claiming $20,000 damages. This is the first action for libel that has ever been brought against us during a somewhat extended career as a publisher, and we think Mr. Cranna has not been well advised in the course he has seen fit to pursue. The article which he complains of was not editorial matter, but a card addressed to the members of the dramatic profession and the public of Virginia City, Nevada, by Mr. Cranna's partner, J. M. Loller. It was inserted in this paper as an advertisement, and was designed by Mr. Loller as an explanation, and a vindication of himself against the charge that the partners had not fulfilled their engagements to their employees. We knew nothing of the facts stated in the card, and published it without malice, or any intention to injure or misrepresent Mr. Cranna. It seemed, however, under the circumstances, that his partner ought to have an opportunity to make a public statement exonerating himself, if possible, from any blame in the failure of the firm to pay their employees. If his statement was incorrect, our columns would have been open to Mr. Cranna for the purposes of correction, and we would have cheerfully and promptly made any reparation in our power as soon as convinced that we had done him a wrong.

It is proper to add, that we were so scrupulous to avoid doing injustice, that we declined publishing the card until certain portions of it, which might be deemed offensive, and which seemed unnecessary to a full statement of the facts of the case, had been stricken out or modified. Mr. Cranna, instead of proceeding against the author of the card (whose named was signed to it), or of calling upon us and demanding a correction or explanations, has seen fit to sue us for libel. If a court and jury can be found who will, under these circumstances, think that we ought to be punished for libel, we shall bow in sorrow, rather than in anger, to the majesty of the law. But we have no expectation that there will be any occasion for our "bow," and shall not, therefore, waste our valuable time in practising it before a glass.

A Colorado Beverage.

A Colorado saloon-keeper said of a rough crowd: "I couldn't get their whisky strong enough for them, so after trying every way, I at last made a mixture of poison oak and butternut. It fetched 'em. I called it the sheep herder's delight; and it was a popular drink. The first Pike I tried it on yelled with delight; the next one took two drinks, and turned a double somerset in the road before the house. A peddler came along, and after he took several drinks of my sheep herder's delight, he went off and stole his own pack, and hid it in the woods."

Precocity of Children.

It always grieves me to contemplate the initiation of children into the ways of life when they are scarcely more than infants. It checks their confidence and simplicity, two of the best qualities that heaven gives them, and demands that they share our sorrows before they are capable of entering into our enjoyments.—Dickens.

Cheap Clothing.

For cheap ready-made clothing, Purdy & Litchfield's, corner of Washington and Sansome streets, is the place. Walk in and price the goods.

Euphrosyne's Enameline.

A delicate Enamel, imparting an irresistible elegance and refinement to the face. Price 50 cents. Wilson & Co., southeast corner of Fifth and Mission streets.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. Winant & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the Pacific Oyster Saloon, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. Winant, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, Charley Haake, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the Pacific Oyster Saloon will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "The" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "The" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

New Furnishing Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

It is safe to bet that no male orator during the present political campaign in California will be able to surpass the masterly speech made by Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton at Platt's Hall on Tuesday evening, in favor of Woman Suffrage. What impressed us more than anything else was the quiet, "gentlemanly" manner in which Mrs. Stanton made her points, her skill in the use of satire, and the utter absence of "temper." There was not an invective in the whole speech. As a politician, Mrs. Stanton is unrivalled; the ease with which she stood midway between the Democratic and Republican parties, now leaning towards one, and then again making a step towards the other, was admirable. There is a great deal of truth in Mrs. Stanton's promise that the party which at the next Presidential election shall incorporate in its platform a Woman Suffrage plank shall gain the victory; a great deal of strength in the reason why this issue should be taken up by one party or the other, namely: because other issues are dead. Mrs. Stanton is no crack-brained enthusiast, but a cool philosopher. If there were more women like her, the cause she advocates would be gained in a very short time.

No Time.

A gentleman in Chicago, who was arrested for cruelty to a miserable looking horse, was asked if he ever fed him. "Ever fed him? that's a good un," was the reply. "He's a bushel and a half of oats at home, only he ain't got time to eat 'em."

If in this world you fail to find anybody as intelligent as yourself, don't get mad and think of committing suicide; try to bear it as bravely as you can.

The Rustic Window Shade

Is superior to any in market for cheapness, finish and durability, manufactured by Hollehan & Burbridge, 617 Mission, near corner of New Montgomery street.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of Figaro among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location.

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding. x

MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's Opera House.

The lovers of the light and fascinating music of Offenbach and Herve we are sure will hail with delight the advent of Fisk's Opera Bouffe Troupe headed by those great artistes, Lea Silly and Felix Girrebeuk, at this theatre this evening. The first is the talented and charming prima donna engaged in Paris just previous to the war for James Fisk, and who during a season of one year was the bright particular star at the Grand Opera House, New York. Her singing and acting of the character of Boulotte, in "Barbe Bleue," was the theme of universal admiration during that triumphant season. Felix Girrebeuk, the tenor, must become a great favorite. He is young and handsome in person and possesses a fresh, vigorous and sweet voice; and what is most important in Opera Bouffe is an admirable actor. Of Jules Alexis, it is hardly neccessary to speak, for, as all who attended the late opera season are aware, he was the life and soul of the troupe. Mlle Vandelet and the rest of the troupe are very highly spoken of by all who have heard them. The opening opera will be "Barbe Bleue," which will be produced with every care as to detail, and the costumes will be most elaborate. The seats for the opening this evening are already nearly all taken and doubtless the house will be crowded from pit to dome.

Alhambra Theatre.

In spite of any number of other attractions this favorite theatre holds its own and is always filled. Billy Emerson, C. Vivian, S. S. Purdy, M. Ainsley Scott, Cogill and Cooper, G. H. Foster, who has lately joined the company, Louis Braham, and others appear nightly, and "Master Eugene" delights all with his "Native Italian Airs."

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Help" is running to crowded houses, and Joe Murphy is "the idol of the hour," an ebony idol, a Dutch idol, and golden offerings are made at his shrine. To-morrow evening he will take his benefit. "Help" will be played at the matinee on Saturday, Saturday night, and on Sunday night for the last time, the management having new attractions in preparation for the coming week.

California Theatre.

To-night the farce of "Marriage at Any Price," which has caused so much amusement the evenings it has been played, will be presented again; William Horace Lingard will appear in some of his best character impersonations, including Emperor Norton, which is a great hit, and the play of "Time Tries All" will be performed.

Bella Union Theatre.

Ella Wesner, the Reynolds Brothers, Mat Kelly, Frank Jones, Blanche Sully, Minnie Corbyn and Sister, May Leroy, Fanny Garretson, Sally Henry, Maggie Brewer, Miss Josephine, Minnie Fillmore, Harry Thompson, R. H. Taylor, and pretty little Zoel, will all appear to-night in the capital programme which appears on our first page.

Theatre Comique.

In addition to the present bright particular star, E. M. Hall, the banjoist; Johnny Thers, Johnny De Angelis, Jake Wallace, Lew Parker, Tommy Rosa, Jimmy Murphy, Professor Paul Boulon, the violinist; Miss Lizzie Harmon, Eva Silva, Annie Lamar, Fanny Webster, Blanche, and Rosa Durand, appear nightly, and Madame Lopez and her four pupils continue their engagement at this house.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Obaillin Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Mirthful Men and Women.

It is a real blessing to have one in a family who is sensitive to the ludicrous. There are enough to reflect upon the sad side of life, and its irritable side, and its sober side. We need one or more to show the mirth that often trembles below the surface of painful things. A real impetuous laugh dissipates many illusions, sweeps the twilight out of our imaginations, and brings honest daylight. But it must be real—no dry, hacking laugh. It should be spontaneous, outbursting, irresistible, infectious. We have seen men fail to laughing who have not heard the cause of mirth, but have only caught the contagion of other men's laughing. It is hard not to laugh with men who are in earnest about it.

If You Want

First-class Boots and shoes you must go to F. X. Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre."

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster bed in the State. Try them.

Creme de Lis.

Beautiful is the finish developed by the use of DICKEY'S celebrated CREME DE LIS, a pure transparent complexion being imparted. No poison enters its composition.

What Cheer Laundry

Calls for and delivers clothes to all parts of the city.

A Modern Serenade.

The following is a verbatim report of a serenade heard on Bush street the other night:

Lady, ope thy we-he-hindow,
And incli-he-hine thine ear,
While the moon is be-he-heaming,
Deign my ley to be-he-hear.

Softly steal the bree-hee-heezes
O'er the scented le-ne-hea;
Birds among the tree-hee-heezes
Slumber si-hi-hilently.

Lady, from thy la-ha-hattice,
Pray look down on me-he-he;
Mollify your fa-ha-hather,
And ask me in to te-he-hea.

Suffrage For Boys.

The Tribune has the following:

Mr. Mark Twain's lecture next season will be "An Appeal in Behalf of Extending Suffrage for Boys." There has been so much loose writing about suffrage, and there are so many wild speeches made about it by the ladies (God Bless 'em!) and such a general fuzzification and muzzification and deconcatenation of the whole matter, that it is quite time for a fresh departure.

Claflin & Woodhall's Weekly retorts:

We can't see the point in the above. It is no use to blind the eyes of such as have not yet seen the logic of impartial suffrage. Men above the age of 21 agree that until males arrive at that age they shall not be entitled to the ballot. Apply the same rule to women is all we ask. We don't ask that girls may vote. We believe in, and it is, the constitutional right of the people to regulate suffrage by the rule of equality. All we ask is that it shall be so regulated. If men are mature citizens at 21, so also are women, and entided to the privileges of full citizenship as are men, unless they forfeit it as provided for men. We do not care at what age citizens are allowed to vote; let it be fifteen, twenty-one, thirty, or fifty, but let all citizens be equally entitled to mature to some age at which, when attained, they may participate in government. Anything less than this is not equally among citizens; and if equality do not exist among citizens then government is not republican in form, in which case it is the duty of Congress to look after it.

Insensibility.

When a man is asleep his pulse beats and his lungs play, but he is without sense, and you can easily wake him up. In sleep the face is natural. If a man is asleep let him alone; nature will wake him up as soon as he has got sleep enough. If a person "faints," he too is without sense, but he has no pulse, and does not breathe. In a fainting fit he has the pallor of death. When a person faints all that is needed is to lay him down flat on the floor, and he will "come to" in a double-quick time. He fainted because the heart missed a beat—failed for an instant—failed for only once to send the proper amount of blood to the brain. Apoplexy is between the two. The heart beats, the lungs play as in sleep, and there is no sense as in fainting, but you can't shake a man back to life. In apoplexy the face is swollen, turgid, and fairly livid. As there is too much blood in the head, every one can see the best position is to set a man up, and the blood naturally tends downwards, as much so as water will come out of a bottle when turned upside down, if the cork is out.

Courage in Every-Day Life.

Have the courage to discharge a debt while you have the money in your pocket. Have the courage to do without that which you do not need, however much your eyes may covet it. Have the courage to speak your mind when it is necessary you should do so, and to hold your tongue when it is prudent you should do so. Have the courage to speak to a friend in a seedy coat, even though you are in the company of a rich one and richly attired. Have the courage to make a will and a just one. Have the courage to tell a man why you do not lend him your money. Have the courage to show that you respect honesty in whatever guise it appears. Have the courage to prefer comfort and prosperity to fashion in all things.

F. Kosmalski.

Dealer in Wines, Liquors and Cigars, 609 Mission street.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how rediculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspepsie Punches are excellent at all seasons.

MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

"FIGARO."

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY MORNING, BY

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

No. 535 Merchant st. and 535 Washington st.

Below Montgomery Block.

FRIDAY..... JULY 14, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's Opera House.

This time-honored temple of the drama which has been the scene of so many triumphs and where the people of San Francisco have enjoyed, so many pleasant evenings, was re-opend last night. Every part of the house presented a brilliant appearance, being thronged with fashionably dressed ladies and gentlemen. "Barbe Bleue" is a charming opera, full of fun, abounding in delicious little bits of harmony and pretty airs. The story may be briefly told: A French Blue Beard has a fancy for marrying, but by the law of France cannot of course have more than one wife at a time. In order to gratify his fancy for frequent change of wife, he employs Papaloni to dispose of his wife by poison as soon as he gets tired of her. When the opera opens Papaloni has already had five placed in his hands and is in search of a sixth for his master. He finds Boulotte, a rustic maiden. Barbe Bleue comes to claim her. Boulotte is presented at court and causes much amusement by her gaucheries. In the third act she is passed over to Papaloni, who receives her in a vaulted chamber with inscriptions on the wall denoting that the bodies of Barbe Bleue's five former wives lie there. Boulette pleads with her husband, but he is inflexible and leaves her to be finished by Papaloni; he tells her it is his duty to poison her, but he himself, like his master, has a weakness for pretty women and has never been able to perform this duty; he therefore gives her a sleeping potion. Barbe Bleue comes in, sees her, as he supposes dead, and goes off to marry Flourette, with whom he has fallen in love. As soon as his back is turned Papaloni revives Boulotte by means of an electrical machine, and opening a door in the wall discovers all Barbe Bleue's other wives alive and well. In the last act they all appear and confound Barbe Bleue just as he returns from the altar with Flourette. Lea Silly is a very clever artiste; her eyes are beautiful, her every motion full of expression and her singing charming. Nothing could be better than her representation of the hoydenish Boulotte, and the applause and laughter was loud and frequent. The finale of the second act was rapturously encored.

M. Felix Girrebenk is, as we have already said, young, handsome, and a capital actor with a sweet tenor. Jules Alexis filled the role of Papaloni to perfection, and the other parts were done justice to by those to whom they were committed. The orchestra which has produced this opera under the musical direction of M. David and Prof. Geo. T. Evans, was efficient, the dresses were gorgeous, and the entertainment a most pleasant one. "Barbe Bleue" will be performed every night, including Sunday, and for the matinee on Saturday

Alhambra Theatre.

As usual, this place of amusement was well attended last night. Billy Emerson surpassed himself in song and dance; the funny Vivian was encored again and again. S. S. Purdy is very amusing in negro acts, and the music is delightful. An evening spent at the Alhambra passes away very quickly and pleasantly. There will be a matinee to-morrow afternoon at half price.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This theatre has been crowded every night since the production of "Help" on Monday, and Joe Murphy has every reason to be gratified with the hearty welcome he has received on returning to the scenes of his youth. To-night he will take his benefit, and his many friends will rally on the occasion and give him substantial proof of the estimation in which they hold him. There will be a "Help" matinee to-morrow afternoon, and to-morrow night will be the last but one of "Help," it being played on Sunday night for the last time.

California Theatre.

The farce of "Marriage at Any Price;" William Horace Lingard's comic sketches, and the two act comedy of "Time Tries All," formed the entertainment last night and gave thorough satisfaction to all present. Tommy Tact in the latter piece is one of Mr. Lingard's best parts; Miss Alice Dunning looked fascinatingly pretty as Laura, and acted the part capitally. The other parts were well filled by Miss Dickie Lingard, John T. Raymond, who obligingly undertook the old man character of Mr. Liason; James Carden, W. A. Mestayer and others. The same bill will be presented to-night. Matinee to-morrow afternoon.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Ella Wesner is is admired by everyone, she is so wonderfully artistic and neat in her characterizations, and sings a song in such good style. "Good as Gold," "Give a Man a Chance," and Captain De Boots," are received nightly with shouts of applause. The Spanish ballet of "La Maha" is very pretty. The full programme of to-night's performance appears on our first page.

Theatre Comique.

Johnny Tuers appeared last night brighter than ever; Lizzie Harmon sang some charming ballads; the Ethiopian farce of "Wake Up, Wm. Henry," by Jake Wallace, Lew Parker and Tommy Rosa, caused much laughter; Mme. Lopez and her four pupils in living statues were much applauded; E. M. Hall did wonderful things on the banjo, and amused everyone; and altogether the entertainment was a great success.

Platt's Hall.

To-night Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, one of the most delightful woman speakers ever listened to by any audience, will deliver a lecture on "Woman Suffrage and Free Love." Seats may be obtained at the door at 50 cents, reserved seats 75 cents extra

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

A POEM FOR THE CHILDREN.

BY ALICE CARY.

My women and women
Who sit with eyes down cast,
Turning the leaves of Snow-Berries
Over and over so fast,
I know as I hear them flutter
Like the leaves on a Summer bough,
You are looking out for a story about
The Fairies—are'nt you, now?

And so it is wise to tell you
That you needn't turn so fast,
For there isn't a single fairy tale
In the book from first to last.
My muse is plain and homespun,
Quite given to work-day ways,
And she never spent an hour in the tent
Of a fairy in all her days.

She is strongest on her native soil;
And you will see she sings
Little in praise of elfs and fays,
And less of queens and kings.
The finest ladies, so she says,
And the gentlemen most grand,
Are made by Nature gentlefolk,
And are royal at first hand.

She says of the women who sew and spin
And keep the house with care,
That they are the queens and princesses
Whose trains we ought to bear;
And says of the men who hammer and forge,
And clear and plow the land,
That they are the worthy gentlemen
Who make our country grand.

A ribbon, she says, in the button-hole,
May go for what it goes,
But he is the greatest man who is great
Without such tinsel shows.
Our country's flag can never drag,
She says, nor its stars go down;
For how should it fall when one and all
Are rightful heirs to the crown?

Are There Really?

The Alta speaking of the reception of the news of the New York riots, says:

The "Faynians" and their friends, if they have any outside of their own organization, were of course bitter, and more or less violent in talk, while the American element—thank Heaven, there are some of that left yet, etc.

Are there some of the American element left? We are afraid it are rather demoralized.

Improvements in Woodland.

The pretty little town of Woodland is to have a Public School House and a Fire Department. To procure funds for these objects, a gift concert will be given in the course of a few weeks. The first gift will be $20,000, and there will be 1143 gifts in all. The scheme is progressing favorably, so some lucky ones will make a big raise and Woodland will flourish.

"Where are you Going,

Mr. Guyser?" "I'm going to buy a pair of boots for my sweetheart to go to the Springs with." "Where at?" "Where? why, what a question. Why, where every body gets them; at F. X. Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre."

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Creme de Lis.

Beautiful is the finish developed by the use of DICKEY'S celebrated CREME DE LIS, a pure transparent complexion being imparted. No poison enters its composition.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

F. Kosmalski.

Dealer in Wines, Liquors and Cigars, 609 Mission street.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

ABRAHAMS, 33 and 35 Second street.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that th former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

A Pleasant Location.

Sacramento vs. San Francisco.

[Scene—Orleans Hotel Barber Shop. Barbers, customers and others discovered.]

Barber (to customer in chair)—Razor go easy, sir?

Customer—Oh, yes.

[Enter disappointed-looking man, who sits down on sofa.]

Barber—How d'ye do, Bill? Where have you been?

D. M.—Been down to the Bay.

Barber—Well, how's business down there?

D. M. (rousing himself)—How's business? Why, there ain't no business at all.

Barber—As bad as it is here?

D. M.—As bad as it is here! Why, there's no comparison. Everyone's doin' somethin' here, but down to San Francisco they ain't doin' nothin'. They call that the only city in California. The people down there blow about their fine and highly prosperous city, but they don't know nothin' about it. I walked all over the town while I was there. The whole place is to let; Badlam & Berryem has the whole city in their hands; "to let," "to let," "to let," is plastered on every other house, and those that isn't to let is for sale. Sacramento's worth two of such a town as that. They've got money there, the bank of California has, but they've got to depend on the country, what they call the "cow counties" for their grub, they can't eat their dollars and they haven't nothing else to eat but sand. Let the cow counties build a fence round San Francisco and what would the people do? They'd have to fish for a living, and there isn't a decent fish in the bay now, they've driven their tom-cods out with their sewerage. There's nothing doing there and there oughtn't to be. They can send their tea and all sorts of goods up the river and ship them on the railway here and that's what they ought to do, and then Sacramento would show San Francisco what was what."

Barber—Oh you're prejudiced. Next.

[D. M. sullenly seats himself in chair and subsides.]

Scene closes.

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

The National American Party.

What a grand thing it would be, at this day, when the Republican and Democratic parties find it so hard to make a distinctive issue, and are playing a game of puss in the corner—each trying to displace the other from the position it has taken—to form a new party which should combine the best elements in both the existing ones—a National American Party. This party should be very unlike the old Native American party, which aimed to keep the government in the hands of those born on the soil, and to discourage the immigration which has in such a short time made America the great and wealthy country she is at the present day. The nucleus of the National American party should be, it is true, composed of Americans who were born here, who have grown here, and who have from infancy had the principles of true republicanism instilled into their minds. These men thus reared would, we may be sure, know but one country, but one flag, and devote themselves to the work of furthering the prosperity of this glorious land. They would draw to them the best of the foreign element by cordially inviting them to become workers with them as builders of a great nation. But to these sons of other lands they would say: "Be in earnest about this work, as we are in earnest; give us your whole heart if you would share with us the honor and glory. We accept no half allegiance; you must renounce all former political ties, all national prejudices of the lands whence you have come, and be really, truly National Americans." It is a disgrace that in a great country like this our statesmen should have to truckle and pander to the prejudices of those who were but a few years ago aliens to our land and our principles. It is fearful to think that there is in our midst a population numbering millions of one nationality, who, to avenge an old grudge against a country to which they were once forced to pay allegiance, would willingly embroil this nation in a war with another with which every impulse of self-interest and natural feeling should urge it to remain in ties of closest friendship and community.

The National American Party should muster in its ranks all who have faith in the glorious future of America and are willing to live and die here. The oath required of every foreigner desiring to become a citizen of America, should not be treated as a farce as it is by too many at present. With many it is Ireland first, and then America; Germany has the first affection, and then comes America. No man can serve two masters. The National American Party would call upon each man to choose which he would serve, and would bind together in solid phalanx a body of true patriots whose motto should be, America, first, last and always. The influence of such a party would be immense; our glorious stars and stripes would then wave over the entire continent and the Irish, German, French, Italian, and other flags would be seen only over their respective consulates, instead of flaunting through our streets as an insult to Americans, each appearing to bear on its folds the taunting inscription, "We are in your country, we have equal rights with you but we love our own best, to it we still owe the allegiance we pretended to renounce." Shame on these false-hearted foreigners who perjure themselves for gain, who treat our noble Columbia as a wanton to be dallied with in a strange land while their hearts are still with their true love in the land of their birth.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. Winant & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the Pacific Oyster Saloon, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. Winant, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, Charley Haake, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the Pacific Oyster Saloon will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "The" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "The" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

Euphrosyne's Enameline,

A delicate enamel, imparting an irresistible elegance and refinement to the face. Price 50 cents. Wilson & Co., southeast corner of Fifth and Mission streets.

New Furnishng Goods,

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by James G. Steele & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

Miss Susan B. Anthony.

Miss Susan B. Anthony as a lecturer is as much a failure as Mrs. Cady Stanton is a success—nothing more severe could be said. On Wednesday night she received a sharp rebuke for impertinently dragging the case of the murderess, Laura Fair, into her lecture on "The Power of the Ballot." The rebuke came in a storm of hisses—a sound seldom heard in a San Francisco lecture-room, but which on this occasion sounded as pleasing to the ears of right-thinking men and women, as does the cheering applause evoked by the expression of a noble sentiment. Miss Anthony was frightened and hastened to apologize. Miss Anthony has our permission to go home as soon as she likes, but we are in favor of a grand gift concert like the Mercantile Library affair, or the Sacramento one which comes off on Tuesday, to raise half a million dollars to induce Mrs. Cady Stanton to take up her residence here.

"Nothing on the head but hair" is a wedding innovation of New York belles.

LETTER FROM TOLEDO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

TOLEDO, July 5th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—Here I am once more, giving news from our city. Some few days ago we received a visit from Joseph K. Emmet, who played in White's Hall in his great act "Fritz;" he gave us two entertainments, and each night the hall was crowded, and Joe pleased the audiences—muchly.

FIELDING'S NEW OPERA HOUSE.

There is a splendid company here of late, among them, the Harrison sisters, Annie, Kate and Laura, from Baltimore, Md. The ladies make a splendid show on the stage, have good forms, and dress well: they soon became great favorites of this city and draw big houses. Billy De Vere in his comic songs takes well, and after the show is out, a great many of the audience wait for Billy to come out, and have a good square drink. Frank Bell made his first appearance here on Monday night, and Frank in his line of business has no equal: Master Johnny, a boy only seven years old, comes out and gives us Dutch comic songs and dances, this boy is the great star of the place, and the biggest card they ever had.

I hear many of our citizens are making great preparations to go on the 12th of this month on the grand summer excursion to California, and I wish I were one of the number. The Fourth of July passed off very quitely here, had a circus troupe at the Rink which was not worth anything, except Mlle Tournour, the great trapeze performer; and had two or three steamboats that gave excursions down to Lake Erie. Z.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest. •

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast. •

Mr. Lawrence Barrett in "The Man O' Airlie."

William Winter, the critic of the New York Tribune, thus speaks of Mr. Barrett's personation of the hero of this new play, which he pronounces "the best new play that has been produced in the city for a long time." Let us premise that "The Man O'Airlie" is a Scottish poet after the type of Burns, warm-hearted, confiding and sensitive. He has written a book of songs which his neighbors induce him to have published, and he sets aside half the little sum he possesses for that purpose. He places his worldly affairs in the hands of a foster brother, who proves a villain and ruins him. His solicitude for the welfare of his wife and children in the midst of of his misfortunes, the loss of his competence, home, hopes, and trust in his friend, are too much for his sensitive nature, and he goes mad, wanders away, and lives the life of a vagrant for twenty years. His songs in the meantime have made his name famous, and he returns to his home at last just as they are about to dedicate a statue to James Harebell, "The Man O' Airlie." He is recognized as one returned from the dead, and by kindly attention and the singing of his own songs is restored to sanity. The Tribune says:

Mr. Barrett apprehended—in a spirit of perfect sympathy, and with equal fullness and accuracy—the ardent aspiration, the shrinking sensitiveness, the limitless magnanimity, the unselfish, excellent goodness, and the simple, child-like confiding faith in human nature, which are the chief attributes of this character; and these he combines and illustrates, with a fervent force that is profoundly magnetic, and with a precise skill which, if not adequate at all points, is certainly guided by fine intuitions and marked by an exquisite delicacy of method. Here and there, indeed, certain of his physical and mental attributes conflict with those of the character. He is not sufficiently burly in frame for the out-of-door poet of Airlie; and his bearing and manner are a trifle too much like those of a reflective student. Perhaps the intellectual element somewhat exceeds the emotional in all of Mr. Barrett's acting. In other words, he keeps too sedulous a watch upon his feelings, and is fearful of giving them full scope, lest they destroy that symmetry of form in art for which he always strives, and which he nearly alway attains. An occasional appearance of artifice is the result of this erroneous prudence—as may be seen in little formalities of method, and heard in the sonorous delivery of certain well-rounded periods. The actor, it is true, must always—or almost always—be self-conscious; but he must never allow the auditor to discover that he is so. We are to consider, though, that Mr. Barrett is new in the character of James Harebell, and that he builds upon no model. The work is fresh and original. Some uncertainty and constraint are, therefore, natural, and should be received with due allowance. Happily they are slight in Mr Barrett's personation, and we do not doubt that they will vanish altogether as the actor grows stronger and surer in the part.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner. •

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre. •

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there. •

LETTER FROM CHICAGO.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

CHICAGO, July 1st, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—Dramatic doings for the week past have been more lively than heretofore, pleasant weather with cool evenings tempted a good many people to visit the different places of amusement.

HOOLEY'S OPERA HOUSE.

This popular place of amusement has been drawing good houses. June 26th "The Little Detective" was produced, with Little Dot, only three years old, in the interlude, and "The Married Rake" as the afterpiece. It was succeeded by Robertson's comedy of "M. P.," Katie Putnam as Cecilia, Mr. Blaisdell as Chudleigh, his original character; Dunscombe, Mr. J. W. Jannys, also claimed as his original character. Mary McWilliams as Ruth cannot be too much praised The performance concluded every evening with the farce of "The Youth Who Never saw a Woman." Monday evening "Randall's Thumb" is underlined. On the Fourth there will be two grand performances—"San Souci" at the matinee and "Randalls Thumb" in the evening.

CROSBY'S OPERA HOUSE

Will again be thrown open to the public on July 3d by the McDonough Transatlantic Troupe, consisting of Ridley's Japanese Troupe with the original "All Right;" Americus, the violinist; the Majaltons, and a corp of twelve beautiful young ladies. They will give a series of entertainments consisting of pantomime, ballet divertissament and juggling.

WOOD'S MUSEUM.

Signor Blitz closes his engagement this evening. Monday evening the great Sappho Troupe commence an engagement for a couple of weeks. This troupe consists of "Sappho," Miss Lilia Ellis, a young English prima donna, and Mr. Chas. Wilson, comedian.

Their opening piece according to the programme will consist of the operetta "The Ring and the Keeper," followed by the fairy extravaganza of "Prince Amabel; or, the Fairy Roses."

DEARBORN THEATRE.

"Home" all this week and next week, and it wil be "Home" for some time to come.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.

Is still in full blast. At this place a great many new faces appear every week. Mitchell & Fryne spare no pains to have the best. La Bella Ida a song and dance prodigy, is creating a furore at this establishment; Carrie Butler, Pauline, Mlle Bertha, Frank Fayne, Chrissie, are the leading ones at this place at present.

LENT'S N. Y. CIRCUS

Has been in town all the week and has met with good success, doing a better business than the two preceding circuses. They pull stakes this evening, Saturday, and go to Milwaukee.

DICK SANDS.

This gentlemen is doing up the concert business after the regular performances, in the New York Circus. Dick looks well. Charley Brown is also with this company.

WRIGHT'S GROVE.

There will be a grand celebration at this place on the Fourth, consisting of entertainments, grand Zouave drill, and a "baby show" for urchins under 4 years. Grover & Baker's sewing machines for the best boy and girl; gold coin from $20 paid to five as under premiums. WILL.

Industrial Depot, New Mont. street.

Orders received for sewing by the Magdalens. Machines rented by the day or week. •

Save Your Money.

The Land Mortgage Union is the best place to invest your savings. 50 cents per fortnight amounts, in about eight years, to $250. Investers can withdraw their funds after twelve months with withdrawal rate of interest. Call at the office, 123 Post street, for information. •

Everbody Buys Them.

What The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined Sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line. •

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless [illegible]

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

632 Merchant st. and 535 Washington st.

Below Montgomery Block.

SATURDAY.....JULY 15, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The bill at this theatre for the matinee to-day is "Marriage at Any Price;" Sketches by Lingard, and the burlesque of "Pluto." This evening "Marriage at Any Price;" sketches by Lingard, and the comedy of "Time Tries All" will be presented. "Frou-Frou" will be produced on Monday, and on Friday, Boucicault's latest drama, "Elfie; or, the Cherry Tree Inn," which has been for weeks in preparation, will be produced.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—Joe Murphy had an immense house last night, on the occasion of his benefit, the theatre being packed perfectly full. "Help" will be played at the matinee to-day, again to-night, and Sunday night for the last time. Next week, Joe Murphy will appear in a new character—that of Eccles in "Caste," which play will be produced in the best possible style.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—There is fun unceasing at the Alhambra Theatre. There is not a dull hair in Vivian's head; he is always brilliant and original. Billy Emerson is as full of fun as an egg is full of meat; S. S. Purdy's dry humor makes everyone laugh, and the acts, songs and dances presented are all the best known to the profession. There will be a matinee to-day, and a great bill will be performed. It appears on our first page. "The Grand Duchess" will be presented on Monday evening.

BELLA UNION.—Miss Ella Wesner's popularity is undiminished. She will appear to-night in new character songs and the old favorites "Brandy and Soda," and "Champagne Charley." Miss Aline Le Favre has been re-engaged and will make her re-appearance to-night, in James Dowling's adaptation of "The Dumb Boy," arranged expressly for her. Johnny Manning will also reappear. The Reynolds Brothers will perform some of their most popular songs and dances; pretty Blanche Sally will perform a song and dance; the talented Miss Josephine will perform a fancy jig; Marie Zoel will do a clog dance, and May Leroy; Fanny Garretson, Maggie Brewer and all the bevy of beauties at the Bella Union Theatre will appear as soldiers in the play. Minnie Corby and Sister will sing "Good Night and Happy Dreams; Maggie Brewer will sing a ballad and and a variety of other entertainments, forming a magnificent Saturday night bill will be presented.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—A glorious Saturday night bill has been prepared for the delectation of the patrons of this home of mirth, music and minstrelsy; new songs, acts and dances will be presented. E. M. Hall will make his banjo talk. The banjo duet between him and Jake Wallace is a capital performance. Madame Lopez appears in beautiful statues and gains much applause. To-night another attraction will be added to the entertainment. Frank Jones will make his first appearance and perform his "Lively Moke" act and also "Josephus Orange Blossom."

THE FIRE-FLY CLUB.—At a regular meeting of the Fire-fly social and dramatic club, held on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., the following officers were elected to serve the ensuing six months: President, Samuel Green; Vice-President, F. London; Recording Secretary, Michael Goldstein; Financial Secretary, David Pelasco; Treasurer, Geo. Warren; Sergeant-at-arms, Bernhard Marks.

THE PAVILION.—The preparations at the Pavilion for the Eighth Industrial Exhibition of the Mechanics' Institute are nearly completed. The partitions built to form a skating rink have been removed, the north and south wings have been extended to the extreme edge of the square, and the building now occupies an area of 90,200 feet. The Hallidie suspension bridge is in process of completion. The Fair will open on Tuesday, August 8th. In connection with the Industrial Exhibition the Bay District Horticultural Society will hold its first exhibition of the flowers and fruits of California.

HAYES PARK.—Johnny Tuers and C. Brooks, will to-morrow give a grand entertainment at these beautiful gardens. Frank Jones E. M. Hall, Johnny Tuers, Jake Wallace and others, will appear in a varied programme of minstrelsy; Madame Lopez and her pupils, will present their graceful acts, Lopez will perform on the flying rings and after this a ball will be given. Hayes Park was crowded last Sunday and doubtless will be so again to-morrow.

FRENCH BENEVOLENT SOCIETY PICNIC.—All who attend the picnic of the French Benevolent Society, to be given to-morrow at Saucel to will assuredly enjoy a very pleasant day. The Lafayettes, the Zouaves, and the Philharmonics have promised to assist, and there will be a general gathering of our French citizens. Alexis, the talented opera Bouffe artiste, has promised to be present and sing, and there will be a balloon ascension by M. Gruet Baisley. The first boat will leave at 9 A. M.

THE SAN FRANCISCO HUSSARS' BALL.—On Wednesday next the San Francisco Hussars, Capt. J. Schreiber, will give a ball at their new hall, corner of New Montgomery and Minna streets. This company has so many friends that there is sure to be a large and fashionable gathering.

MISS KATE NEWTON.—This pretty and clever actress, who was leading lady at the Fifth-avenue Theatre last season, and was noted for being one of the most attractive and best dressed ladies on the New York stage, will make her first appearance in California at the Metropolitan Theatre next week.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most costly and complete collections of this kind in the United States is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. Admission only fifty cents.

C. BACKUS.—This popular member of the San Francisco Minstrels will appear at the Metropolitan Theatre next week in some of his best specialties.

NEW PLAY.—A drama in four acts entitled "The Minstrel's Dream," has just been completed for a popular minstrel in this city.

MAGUIRE'S OPERA HOUSE.—A large and fashionable audience was present last night, when "Barbe Bleue" was performed for the second time. About Lea Silly there is but one opinion—she is absolutely charming. The music of this opera is so pretty and the libretto so funny that it must amuse all. "Barbe Bleue" will be presented at the matinee to-day, this evening, and for the last time on Sunday night.

CLIFF HOUSE.—"Hurrah for the road!" will be the cry of many to-morrow, and many a happy pair will bowl along behind a spanking team on the road to Captain Foster's world-renowned Cliff House, the fashionable resort par excellence of the young bloods of San Francisco. The seals will bark, the green seal will pop, and all will be gay and festive.

MCCARTY'S PUPILS EXHIBITION.—The exhibition of the pupils of McCarty Brothers and Sisters' dancing school, which drew such a large attendance at Piatt's Hall some weeks ago will by very general request of the parents of pupils be repeated at the same place on August 4th.

A PLEASANT EXCURSION.—The splendid steamer Capital will make an excursion to Vallejo to-morrow, leaving Vallejo-street wharf at half-past eight, and leaving Vallejo on the return trip at 5 o'clock P.M. Tickets for the round trip, $1. No pleasanter excursion could be made.

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—There is not within miles of San Francisco a more delightful spot than the groves of San Rafael. The steamer Contra Costa will leave the wharf on Davis street, near Vallejo, to-morrow morning at half-past ten, on an excursion.

THE ERIN SOCIAL CLUB.—The ball of this club, at Pacific Hall on Tuesday evening, was a very pleasant affair. The members of the society, are all natives of Erin, in the province of Posen, Prussia.

J. H. MILLER.—This gentleman, formerly manager of the Pacific Theatre, who went out with Leo Hudson as agent, was detained in Hamilton, White Pine, having performed a horse and buggy act which did not prove successful. Johnny Tuers manages these things better.

FOR LOS ANGELES.—Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bates and a dramatic company will open at La Merced Theatre, Los Angeles, next week.

LEO HUDSON, instead of going East from White Pine, has returned to this city, very much alkalized. Black Bess is in Sacramento.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

WOODLAND.—The latest entertainment the Woodlanders had was the exhibition of "The Trip Across the Plains." Everyone here, as indeed in most of the other cities in the State, is buying tickets for the grand gift concert which is to take place at Washington Hall, on August 16th, for the benefit of several important institutions of Woodland. The prizes range from $20,000 down to $20. They are 1,143 in number and tickets are $2.50 each.

SANTA CRUZ.—Carrie Moore, the skater, a dwarf and two Italian fiddlers entertain the people of Santa Cruz.

LOS ANGELES.—La Merced Theatre will shortly be opened by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bates, Miss Nellie Cummings and a dramatic company.

SAN JOSE.—Mrs. Marriner is announced to give a concert on the 26th.

SACRAMENTO.—The next entertainment given in Sacramento, will be the great gift concert for the benefit of the Pioneers and Mercantile Library, at which gifts to the amount of many thousands of dollars will be distributed. The tickets have all been sold, and there will be no reduction in prizes.

GILROY.—Professor Plummer gave an entertainment of comic and sentimental readings last week.

EUREKA.—Charles Vincent and his variety company, gave their first entertainment at the Eureka Theatre on Tuesday.

OMAHA.—This is not a very lively town in the way of amusements, the people are therefore all more anxious for a public library. This they will obtain by means of the grand gift concert, which is to be given in a few weeks time at the Academy of Music. The gifts range from $20,000 to $5. Tickets are selling well all over the United States.

EUGENE CITY, OR.—The Vieuxtemps Brothers gave a concert at the Court House on the 7th.

Major General Don Jose La Vega, the Manilla Dwarf, and his agent were arrested for refusing to pay the license required by a city ordinance for exhibitions. They denied having received any money as an admittance fee, but upon production of the affidavit of two men who had paid, they paid the sum demanded and were discharged.

CARSON, NEV.—Professor Hasselmeyer opened at the Theatre on the 13th, for three nights.

SALT LAKE.—On the 10th, Edwin Adams, John McCullough and Miss Helen Tracy appeared in "Damon and Pythias."

PIOCHE CITY.—The Carrolls will shortly appear here.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—Professor Cromer, the Arithmetical and Astronomical Calculator, appeared at Piper's Opera House on Tuesday.

JACKSON.—The Blind Troupe were announced to give concerts on the 14th and 15th at Armory Hall.

CORINNE.—Madame Lake's Circus is billed for the 20th.

PORTLAND, OR.—By general request the Oratorio of Esther was repeated at Oro Fino Hall on the 8th. Forestelle and Mons. De Clate exhibited at East Portland on the 9th. Jack Sheppard was walking 106 consecutive hours at Tammany Club room.

DENVER COL.—Professor Silvester and Miss Angelique Schott, are performing at the Academy of Music.

Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Miss Adelina Patti has re-considered her intention of coming to America, and has determined to postpone her visit until next year. By that time she will have a clear field and no Nilsson.

Dr. D. P. Hodges, Cal. Wagner's agent, had a narrow escape at Council Bluffs on the night of the 12th inst., while posting his bills. He had placed his ladder against a building at a point near the window of a room occupied by a young man, who mistook the Doctor for a burglar. After firing twice, the timid lodger inquired into matters, after which he returned to bed, looking very sheepish.

A paragraph has been extensively published to the effect, that Gaylor had sued Joseph K. Emmet. The following letter shows its falsity:

ERIE, Pa., June 22d, 1871.

To the Editor of the Express:—My attention has just been called to a paragraph stating that I had commenced suit against Mr. Joseph K. Emmet for damages for alleged improper conduct while under my management. Will you have the kindness to state in your columns that the report is false in every particular. My relations with Mr. Emmet remain as heretofore, and he and "Fritz" are more attractive than ever. Yours respectfully,

CHAS. GAYLOR.

At Tony Pastors', New York, Fanny Herring and her dramatic company played D. R. Young's nondescript conglomeration entitled "Grit." This incongruous mass was evidently prepared in a lunatic asylum and written with a pair of shears and a paste pot. Another such a heavy effort would cause softening of the brain, or entire derangement of the intellect. "Grit" is a compound of "Across the Continent," "Schneider," "The Wild Cat," "Neck and Neck," etc., sifted heterogeneously over wasted foolscap. It possesses all the faults of the locomotive and trip-hammer dramas and none of their redeeming qualities.

Robert McWade sails for London the last of August, and early in September will appear at one of the principal East-end theatres in "Rip Van Winkle."

J. H. O'Neil, the Irish vocalist and dancer, has been engaged to travel with Strong & McGill's Irish Panorama when it again takes the road.

A contemporary says New York swarms with actors and managers. The most of the provincial theatres are closed, and the few remaining open are devoted to benefits or "pick-up" entertainments of no special account. Such of the players as have the means and appliances have gone into summer quarters. The jobbers are numerous, and any one who wants to run a New York theatre from now to September can get half a dozen companies at his own terms.

Billy Manning will give up his minstrels at the conclusion of his present tour, having sold his three-years' lease of the Dearborn-street Theatre, Chicago, for $15,000, and agreed to deliver the organization known as Manning's Minstrels to the contracting parties on August 30th. He further agreed not to black his face in Chicago for five years. Mr. Manning will immediately organize another troupe.

A new piece, called "Woman's Wit," written by John H. Selwyn and Gen. W. N. McCartney, for Little Nell, the California Diamond, will be produced by that young lady in September. She is now playing "Katy Did" in Montreal.

Old John Robinson's Circus was billed at Quincy Ill., for the 24th. He is advertising tremendously through the surrounding country, and has a tank of seals as an addition to his show.

Miss Emma Howson has won golden opinions from all sorts of people and papers during her engagement at Niblo's.

Lawrence Barrett will star with "Rosedale" in the Fall.

"Enoch Arden" will be brought out at Booth's this Fall.

Joseph Proctor has gone to his country seat at Manchester, Mass. He will return to California in the Fall.

Chas. Wheatleigh has been playing Danny Mann at Niblo's.

This is what the Brooklyn Eagle says of J. McCloskey's drama, "Through by Daylight":

Such a stupendous revelation of genius never before dazzled the visual or mental organs of a Park Theatre audience. Like a meteor it shot through space—the three hours devoted to amusement—and nothing but glittering sparks of recollection remain with which to describe this anomaly, this wonder, this miracle of genius.

How high was that?

Jeanette Ellsler, a performer on the tight-rope with Stone & Murray's Circus, fell while making an ascension at Bangor, Maine, by the breaking of the guy, and her collar bone was broken.

J. C. Williamson, comedian, took his benefit at Niblo's Garden, on the 12th, previous to his departure for California.

"Elfie" was produced at Wallack's on the 10th.

One of the attractions in Boston at present is Miss Caddie Monroe, the beautiful fat baby, 8 years old and weighing 300 pounds.

F. Kosmalski.

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

The Elixir of Youth.

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

What Cheer Laundry

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Silver Plating.

Articles from which the silver has been worn are received for re-plating by Haynes & Lawton, Market street, under the Grand Hotel.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Sad, Very Sad!

Two promising boys, not more than fifteen years of age, were arrested for stealing a watch. Instead of availing themselves of the advantages offered by the Young Men's Christian Association and improving their time by reading and cultivating the social virtues, these boys were in the habit of loafing round the theatre and gambling hells on Jackson street, and in fact were becoming regular Hoodlums. Judge Sawyer sentenced them to the Industrial School where it is hoped they will reform. Their names by the by, are Ah Tam and Ah Gin.

Active.

We pitch into the Chronicle for the mistakes it makes, but are always ready to give it credit for the energy it displays, in hunting out and exposing public evils. We don't think it at all exceeded its duties as a public journal when it exposed the red tape system by which the unfortunate immigrants from Magdalena were kept hungry all day. If the Chronicle will only deal with matter that concern the public, and abstain from attacks on private individuals prompted by private motives; it will supply a vacancy in the ranks of journalism in San Francisco.

Curious Case.

In New York the other day, Peter O'Hearn asked Frederick J. Schott "Are you a man or a monkey?" at the same time striking him in the face. He fell as if he was shot, and never answered the question, having gone straight to the other world to procure the information requested. O'Hearn was acquited, no mark of violence being found on the body. Darwin is evidently responsible for Schott's death, as his book must have suggested the fatal query to O'Hearn.

"The National American Party."

Our leading article of Friday last under the above title caused considerable sensation and was copied yesterday by two of our city papers—the Chronicle and Golden City. We think it is "safe" to write an American article now and then, though it must be confessed such an act is a startling innovation on the course generally pursued by the heavy dailies.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to Chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

Downy Sleep,

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried the Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

John G. Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Pretty Strong.

Woodhull & Claflin's Weekly is somewhat prejudiced on the subject of Marriage ties. The following is a pretty strong way of putting the case:

Man is for the world's rudest toil, and for woman's lover and friend. Woman is for the world's finest work, and for man's lover and friend. She is not his to own, as doll, victim, drudge, nurse, subject, companion or wife! She belongs to herself—even more than man belongs to himself. Both will be happier when mutually dependent on, and independent of each other.

The tree of love, when transplanted from nature to the rank and gross garden of matrimony, withers and dies—from an excess of conjugal decorum and fidelity! As reasonably expect a plant to thrive in uncongenial soil, with its roots exposed to an arid sun!—though its petals were redundantly showered with the choicest dews of friendly sympathies and care!

However willing we may be to confess that it is a sad thing for a woman to marry a man whom she does not love, we don't think that she need cease to love a man because he is her husband. True love lasts forever and the ties of matrimony, which are to those unfitly yoked, galling fetters hard to be borne become wreaths of flowers. Surely Mesdames Woodhull & Claflin would not deny to a woman the right to love her husband however much they may claim for her who neither loves nor is loved by her legal protector the privilege of seeking some congenial and sympathetic soul.

Another Procession.

We understand that the Italians in this city will shortly celebrate the establishing of Rome as the Capital of Italy by a procession. This will doubtless be offensive to a large portion of our population who grieve over the "Holy City" being taken out of the hands of the Pope; but we are sure that with the lesson of the New York riot so fresh in their minds, they will refrain from giving any expression to their displeasure. If one nationality is permitted to impede the traffic in the chief streets of the city, and for a time cause business to be virtually suspended in order to forcibly express an idea with which the American people at large have but little sympathy, all must be allowed the same privilege. Therefore next week for an hour or two let us all turn out and look at the Italians in procession; let us all become Romans and do as the Romans do—shout Viva Roma, Capitale d'Italia.

The Political Cauldron.

The campaign has commenced in earnest. The pot is "biling." Our Democratic neighbor, the Examiner has laid on an extra coat of war-paint, seized the tomahawk and scalping knife, adorned itself with its necklace of grizzly bear's claws, and gone after Republican scalps with sprightly animation. The Examiner is a "big Injin," and is putting in telling licks. Meantime, the Republicans seem to be without a fighting organ. The Alta is well-disposed, but too slow in its evolutions, and too much encumbered by its ideas of dignity for efficiency in guerilla warfare. The Call wants to be on both sides or neither side. The Chronicle wants to be on the Republican side without offending the Democrats. Thus the Republicans are virtually without an organ. For a live, wide awake, slashing, campaign paper, commend us to our ferocious neighbor, the Examiner.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington stre t, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "The" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "The" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

22 Merchant st. and 535 Washington st.

MONDAY.....JULY 17, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Joe Murphy and "Help" thronged this theatre every night of the past week. While Joe Murphy, of course, was the great attraction, much credit is due to J. H. Vinson for the admirable manner in which the piece was put on the stage and produced. To-night Miss Kate Newton, from the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, will make her first appearance in California and play Esther in Robertson's comedy of "Caste." The play will be produced in excellent style under the management of Mr. Vinson, and with a strong cast: Mrs. F. M. Bates as Polly Eccles, Joe Murphy as Old Eccles, and Sallie Hickley, J. H. Hardie, Harry Courtaine and others in appropriate parts. On this occasion, also, Charley Backus, of the San Francisco Minstrels, and a great favorite in this city, will make his appearance and give his wonderful imitations of Kean, Forrest, Jefferson, Ristori and others. This rich entertainment will conclude with "Molly Bawn," Joe Murphy and Mrs. Joe Murphy taking the leading parts.

Maguire's Opera House.

There is but one opinion about Lea Silly—she is perfectly charming. Her face is full of expression and she is such a perfect pantomimist that every gesture speaks. French Opera in London is emphatically the entertainment of the higher classes; it was so in New York, and the elite of San Francisco by crowding Maguire's Opera House have followed suit. "Barbe Bleue" is full of delicious melody, and Lea Silly, Felix Girrebeuk, Jules Alexis, M Adrien, M. Noe, M. Bonnet, M. Rollencourt, M'lle Nathalie, M'lle Vandelet, and M'lle Marie all play their parts well. "Barbe Bleue" will be presented to-night and to-morrow night for the last time. On Wednesday night the favorite opera of "La Grande Duchesse" will be produced in a style heretofore unattempted in San Francisco.

California Theatre.

To-night J. W. Robertson's comedy of "Silver Lining" will be presented, with Miss Alice Dunning Lingard as Helen, Mrs. Sophie Edwin as Mrs. Derrington, Miss Dicky Lingard as Dorah, Mrs. C. R. Saunders as Mrs. Maltravers, James Carden as Arthur Merival, J. T. Raymond as Frank, and W. A. Mestayer as Major Eversley. The evening's entertainment will conclude with William Horace Lingard's new local sketches and pictures of celebrated persons. On Wednesday evening the very popular play of "Frou-Frou" will be produced, in which Miss Alice Dunning will be supported by John McCullough, Henry Edwards, Miss May Howard, and the entire strength of the California Theatre company.

Alhambra Theatre.

A great bill has been prepared for this week at the Alhambra Theatre. After an excellent first part performance, concluding with the ever-popular "Scenes on the Mississippi," with Billy Emerson in the character of Old Uncle Ben, Vivian will appear in a new programme of comic originalities, and Billy Emerson will present some of his best pictures from his album of characters. The evening's entertainment will conclude with Offenbach's opera of "The Grand Duchess," with the original music, and the libretto translated and adapted. In this Offenbach's fun will be presented in a language all can understand, and the characters are made more amusing than ever: Billy Emerson assumes that of Prince Paul, DeAngelis his original role of Baron Puck, M. Ainsley Scott that of General Boum, Fostelle, Wande, G. H. Foster Baron Grog, and J. Robinson Nepomuc. The Grand Duchess will be played, of course, by Master Eugenia, who has made a success in burlesque opera selections during the past two or three weeks, and Fritz will be well represented by F. S. Purdy. The music has been arranged by George T. Evans, and the opera produced in this popular style cannot fail to be a success.

Bella Union Theatre.

The attractions at this place of amusement for the million are so numerous that we must refer our readers to the programme on our first page for a particular enumeration of them. Miss Ella Wesner delights everyone, and all acknowledge her as a genuine artist in her very attractive line. Aline Le Favre received a hearty welcome back to the boards of the Bella Union last night on making her appearance in Jas. Dowling's adaptation of "The Dumb Boy," which is "The French Spy" with all the superfluous dialogue cut out and some pleasing scenes introduced. Miss Le Favre displayed great talent as a pantomimist, and the piece was a thorough success. The same bill will be repeated until further notice.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Jones made his first appearance at this house last night, and at once established himself as a favorite with the audience. His Lively Moke drew great applause, and he was equally good in the song and dance of Josephus Orange Blossom. The Living Statues by Mme. Lopez and her pupils are beautifully represented: E. M. Hall and his banjo keep the audience continually amused, and the afterpiece of "Stop Your Dancing" is full of fun. To-night the favorite dansense Miss Rosa Vincent will make her first appearance.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning lessons every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Camilla Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Carrolls.

Dick Carroll and his three little sons had a benefit at the Athenæum, Hamilton, White Pine, on the 10th, and took in $400.

The Unkhowns.

Mr. William Fromm, who has excited so much curiosity in this city, by dressing with better taste than is generally possessed by those who in San Francisco can afford to buy "good clothes," and also wearing a head of hair which has made him the envy of all the ladies, will on Tuesday afternoon hold a levee at Pacific Hall and gratify people's curiosity as to who he is. On Saturday he will deliver a lecture.

French Picnic.

The French Benevolent Society of this city had a grand picnic at Sausalito yesterday, which was attended by from twelve to fifteen hundred people, including the Lafayette Guard in uniform. The affair passed off in an uninterruptedly quiet manner and was much enjoyed.

Will Arrive.

The Agatha States Italian Opera Troupe, will arrive by the overland train to-day.

Old as the Hills.

Spectacles, according to Once a Week, are not such a recent invention as might be thought. Although they did not come into use in Europe until about the year 1300, they are, it is stated, of unfathomable antiquity in China, being made, it is true, not of glass, but of rock crystal. We may mention in this connection that C. Muller's spectacles, for which he has acquired such a reputation, are also made of crystal—Brazilian pebble—instead of glass.

Strategy.

"What are you about, my dear?" said his grandmother to a little boy who was idling about the room, and casting furtive glances at a gentleman who was paying a visit. "I am trying to steal papa's hat out of the room without letting the gentlemen see it, for papa wan s him to think he's out."

Erratum.

In Thompson's Gazetteer is the following erratum: "For Dutchman read Dr. Adams." This is almost equal to the well-known correction, "For dum squizzle read permanent," or the amusing erratum in a Hartford paper, "For Alum Water read Alma Mater."

A young candidate for the legal profession was asked what he should do first when employed to bring an action. Ask for money on account was the reply. He passed.

The young ladies of New Haven are learning to play the violin. The idea of having four strings to their bow is fascinating.

Dinner time proves how empty the world is.

"Miss Jones.

Where are you going?" "I'm going to buy a pair of French Kid Boots." "Where?" "Why, Mr. Brown, what a question. Why, where everybody gets theirs, at F. X. Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

The Rustic Window Shade

Is superior to any in market for cheapness, finish and durability, manufactured by Hollehan & Burbridge, 617 Mission, near corner of New Montgomery street.

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location.

The Best is the Cheapest.

J. W. Tucker & Co. have the finest assortment of Jewelry, diamonds, watches, watch-chains, onyx sets, lockets, opera chains, of the finest make, and medallions, of all kinds, ever offered for sale in this city, and their prices are low.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. SHABER & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding. x

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

PASSING.

The sun-motes glint across the eaves,
The light dust flickers on the leaves;
Calm is the sea, the heaven blue,
The roses blush the trellis through.

The barley beards grow full and white,
Day lingers into hours of night;
The babbling brook is low and still,
And scarce can feed the tolling mill.

The summer glow is in the air,
The hay-fields yield an incense rare;
On the green earth, in sky above,
A halo gleams of life and love.

O happy days, O summer time,
O dreaming youth, in golden prime;
All that is bright, and pure, and sweet,
Shines when you twain together meet!

'Tis so, and so 'twill ever be.
Youth plucks the blossom from the tree;
That which it sows, long years give root,
But only few may taste the fruit.

And we who passed long since our prime,
And bear the wrinkled stamp of time,
Look on and smile, look on and sigh,
Look in your breast and reason why.

Envy.

Envy is a displeasure for some supposed advantage in another. The object of this passion is something more desirable, and although excellency, precisely considered, cannot occasion dislike, yet excellency, misplaced, may. The envious believes himself eclipsed by the lustre of his neighbor; that which is good in itself becomes an evil to him, and makes him wish it either removed or extinguished. Envy, like a cold poison, benumbs and stupefies; and thus, as if conscious of its own impotence, it folds its arms in despair, and sits cursing in a corner. When it conquers, it is commonly in the dark, by treachery and undermining, by calumny and detraction. Envy is no less foolish than detestable; it is a vice which they say keeps no holiday, but is always working upon its own disquiet.

Campaign Paper.

There is a rumor afloat that a Republican campaign paper is to be started in this city on Monday next. It is to come out in the afternoon, and is to be of about the size of FIGARO. The name of J. F. Bowman is mentioned in connection with the new enterprise as the principal writer.

Sawdust pills, says an old physician, would effectually cure many of the diseases with which man is afflicted, if every man would make his own sawdust.

A Toledo druggist had his name taken off a petition for a street improvement when he learned that such would improve the health of the neighborhood.

Two nephews of Vallandigham are printers.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

F. Kosmalski.

Dealer in Wines, Liquors and Cigars, 609 Mission street.

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

What Cheer Laundry

Is the best laundry in San Francisco

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how rediculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night.

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

Silver Plating.

Articles from which the silver has been worn are received for re-plating by Haynes & Lawton, Market street, under the Grand Hotel.

Squarza's:

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

"FIGARO"

Published every day, except Sunday, by

P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

532 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St:

Below Montgomery Block.

TUESDAY.....JULY 18, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P. M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

Our Fourteenth Volume.

FIGARO has just entered upon its fourteenth volume, and congratulates itself upon its past, and looks forward to a long, useful and profitable career.

"Making a Raise."

There is no place in the world where people depend so much on "making a raise" by some sudden stroke of luck as in California. It is for this reason that the tickets for the Omaha Gift Concert, which comes off in about six weeks are being bought up so rapidly. A sudden "raise" of $20,000 would be pleasing to almost anyone.

Suggestive.

An advertisement in the Alta begins thus: "To Tourists. Price's Carver." We presume, as a carving knife is not indispensible to a tourist, these "carvers" are bowie knives for the purpose of "carving" any foes a tourist may meet in his travels through California.

What a Difference.

The New York Herald is valued at $5,000,000, and is owned by commodore Gordon Bennett, Jr., having been presented to him by his father.—Ex.

We only paid $25 for the Town and Stage, the last "opposition" to FIGARO.

Having heard that an infusion of tobacco is the best thing to extripate the potatoe bug, Illinois farmers are entertaining their neighbors at chewing picnics in their fields.

Lick House Wine Rooms.

All have admired the magnificent Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, kept by Porter & Lewis, which is the resort of all our fashionable young men. In the Lick House up-stairs Porter & Lewis have a Wine Room in which a connoisseur of good and rare wines could spend a delightful afternoon. Arranged on shelves are the vintages of the most famous years, classified. Clarets, sauternes, champagnes, burgundies, sherries, ports and Rhine wines of numberless varieties can be found there. Verily the patrons of the Lick House and the habitues of Porter & Lewis' Saloon and Billiard Room fare well when their wants are provided for with such taste and discrimination.

The Only Place

In this city for ladies' and gents' first-class boots and shoes is at F. X. Kast's, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite Alhambra Theatre.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

New Furnishing Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Downy Sleep,

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Theatricals in China.

We publish to-day a characteristic letter from Charley Rhoades detailing his experiences of life in China. Mr. J. Small, of the same troupe, formerly of the Carandina Concert Troupe, writes that they did well in Yokohoma, Japan, and took in about $1,000 there for three nights' performances. The theatre is a commodious frame building, rent $50 per night. At Shanghai they found great difficulty in getting a building to show in; the theatre having been burned. There is a fine hall there owned by the Germans, used for social gatherings and amateur theatricals, but they were unable to procure it. They at last obtained the Masonic Hall at a rental of $73,50 per night. Played three nights to good houses; fourth and last night being "mail night," not so good. The better class of people at Shanghai patronize the frequent amateur performances given by the residents very liberally, but cannot be drawn out to attend any outside entertainment.

Mr. Small confirms Rhoades' statements of the intensity of the heat and constant rain at Hong Kong and concerning the business there. He states that the company will remain there some time. He thinks that no company can make any money by the China trip, as the expenses of travelling, stoppages, etc., will eat up receipts.

The Saucelito Ferry.

Great complaints are made of the slowness of the Wilson G. Hunt, which runs to Saucelito, which wallows in the sea like a wounded porpoise, and makes about a knot an hour. Such a lively place as Saucelito ought to have a fast boat. Will the Herald see to it?

Breakfast time in Magdalena Bay.

Some of the Magdalena Bay emigrants published a card in the Bulletin, denying that Mr. Allen had left them waiting for their breakfast uncomfortably long. Four o'clock in the afternoon is the regular breakfast hour at Magdalena Bay.

A Great Convenience.

At the Industrial Depot, New Montgomery street, ladies who have no sewing machine, can get one for an hour or for a day. Sewing women can also do work there and have it sold for them.

Certainly.

Miss Rose Nathan was married last week to Mr. Mooser. The parental Nathans were willing that their daughter should be married to "a mooser," as she found single life dull.

Chinese Emigration.

Six hundred Chinaman are going to leave California for Peru, to work for Harry Meggs on his railroad. "Good bye John, don't stay long!"

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

Euphrosyne's Enameline,

A delicate ENAMEL, imparting an irresistible elegance and refinement to the face. Price 50 cents. Wilson & Co., southeast corner of Fifth and Mission streets.

Reading Matter for All.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless [illegible]

"FIGARO."

PUBLISHED every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

632 Merchant st, and 535 Washington st.

TUESDAY..... JULY 18, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

After a capital first part, Vivian in new songs with allusions to the topics of the day, and Billy Emerson in his wonderfully amusing specialties, an amusing version of Offenbach's opera of "La Grande Duchesse" was presented. In the Alhambra version Master Eugenia appears as the Grand Duchess, and S. S. Purdy in the character of Fritz: Emerson assumes that of Prince Paul, DeAngelis his original role of Baron Puck, M. Ainsley Scott that of General Boum, Fostelle, Wands, G. H. Foster Baron Grog, and J. Robinson Nepomuc. Master Eugenia sang and acted the Grand Duchess capitally; S. S. Purdy was very amusing as Fritz and Billy Emerson sent the audience into fits of laughter as Prince Paul. Those who wish to enjoy Offenbach's delightful music, and at the same time hear the Grand Duchess in a language they can understand should visit the Alhambra to-night.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This theatre was thronged last night. The entertainment commenced with Robertson's charming comedy of "Caste." In this Miss Kate Newton made her first appearance before the California public, and played the character of Esther Eccles with much feeling and good taste. Miss Newton has a fine stage presence—is an artist of experience, and made a favorable impression. Joe Murphy gave a well-sustained characterization of Old Eccles, and gained much applause. Mrs. F. M. Bates fairly carried off the honors of the piece, by her charmingly vivacious acting in the part of Polly Eccles, which she played with a dash and abandon that perfectly captivated the audience. J. H. Hardie was too slow as Hon. George D'Alroy, delivering the speeches of that gentlemen in a funereal style, which had a depressing effect on the audience. If he will throw a little more life and energy into the part, as he very easily can to-night, t will go much better. Harry Courtaine was quite at home as the languid swell, Captain Hawtree, and J. H. Vinson played Samuel Gerridge exceedingly well, looking wonderfully youthful, by aid of an artistic make-up. Miss Sallie Hinckley as the Marchioness de St. Maur astonished and delighted the audience; her make-up was in excellent taste, and her conception of the character just and most artistically carried out. Altogether, Caste as played last night, was thoroughly enjoyable. Charley Backus, on making his appearance, was received with round after round of applause. He gave imitations of Forest, Fechter, Jefferson, John McCullough, Maggie Mitchell and others; told some amusing stories, and drew much laughter and applause, though we think the audience would have preferred to see him as they have been accustomed to, in minstrel guise, rather than in evening dress, and with white face. The performance concluded with the neat little comic opera of "Molly Bawn," in which Mr. Joe Murphy and Jenny Manderville gained great applause. The same excellent bill will be played to-night.

Maguire's Opera House.

In consequence of the severe hoarseness of M'mie Silly, the management were unable to give "Barbe Blue" last evening. So the audience was per force dismissed. Further performances have been postponed until to-morrow evening, when "La Grand Duchesse" will be produced. Seats secured for to-night, will be good for to-morrow night. There was a little confusion occasioned in returning the money to the audience last evening, in consequence of the difficulty in procuring silver change for gold coin, and some few may have gone away with their tickets unredeemed. For all such, the money will be refunded at the box office to-day, or the tickets will be good for the representation to-morrow evening.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Ella Wesner's performances possess sterling merit; she therefore wears well with the California public as she would with any public in the world. Her repertoire seems unexhaustible, and she constantly produces new songs, giving the old favorites for encores. "The Dumb Boy" gives Aline Le Favre an opportunity to display her skill as a fencer, and she fights three combats in excellent style. The ladies of the company appear as soldiers and drill in a style that would do credit to the warriors of Sutter Creek.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Jones is a great success at this popular place of amusement for the million. Rosa Vincent, the popular danseuse, was heartily welcomed on making her first appearance; Lizzie Harmon's comic songs caused much fun; Tommy Rosa and Ned Ward made a hit in their Jim and Jack Rag, and Madame Lopez and her pupils performed the living statues in excellent style.

Agatha States.

Mme. States and troupe arrived last night, all in excellent health and voice. Our young California prima donna has greatly improved in personal appearance since she left us. Both form and features have become more rounded and more graceful, and as she is now in the very prime of life and professional power, the public may reasonably expect her to achieve great professional triumphs during the coming opera season.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Miss Matilda Veneta.

This talented German tragedienne, arrived on Saturday from New York, under engagement to Charles Fritsch. She will make her first appearance at the California Theatre next Sunday evening.

Returning.

John McCullough, who has been starring it among the Mormons at Salt Lake, for a couple of weeks or so, will arrive here to-day's overland train, and will make his appearance on the boards of the California Theatre in "Fron Fron" to-morrow evening.

California Theatre.

The entertainment at this theatre was a very pleasing one. The comedy of "Silver Linings," by Robertson, is a play with a moral in it, and this moral is so neatly conveyed to the minds of the audience that "Silver Linings" while it has as good an effect as many a sermon, is never dull for a minute. Miss Alice Dunning, Mr. Carden, Miss D. Lingard, J. T. Raymond and W. A. Mestayer all acquitted themselves well in their respective parts. The evening's amusement closed with Mr. Lingard's inimitable sketches, which will in conjunction with "Silver Linings" be presented for the last time to-night.

Arrived.

Mr. George B. Waldron and wife arrived here last evening from Salt Lake. Mr. Waldron will be remembered by all old Californians as a young actor of much merit who played several seasons at Maguire's Opera House in our State's most prosperous days. He subsequently played a star engagement there about nine years ago. Time has dealt lightly with George, he looks as young and fresh as ever, and will soon give us a taste of his professional qualities before the footlights.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Italian Opera Season.

The box sheet for the sale of seats for the season of ten nights of Italian opera at the Metropolitan Theatre, by the Agatha States troupe, was opened at Gray's music store yesterday, and the sales up to our going to press to-day have been very promising. The sale of seats for single performances will be commenced on Thursday evening.

The Temperance Legion.

Every Sunday evening the Temperance Legion give a pleasant entertainment, consisting of a lecture, songs and instrumental performances. Last Sunday, Mr. Robert Bogle delighted the audience by the wonderfully artistic manner in which he played the flutina, an instrument of which he is a thorough master.

LETTER FROM CHINA,

[FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.]

HONG KONG, June 11th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—On the arrival of the steamer America here on the 24 of June, we were blessed with about a dozen of your invaluable little papers sent by a friend in 'Frisco. To say that we read them doesn't half express it; we ate them, advertisements and all, and for a while imagined ourselves at the old corner of Clay and Kearny streets, and if our friends will only remember us in the same way by every other steamer, they may rest assured that a shower of blessings will fall with dewy softness on their devoted craniums, and prayers be raised in their behalf by us wanderers in this great and decidedly warm country, for warm it is. I may say it pertains to "red hot," and a young fellow is very often seized with a hankering after ice cream on ice, and a little cooler if he can get it. You have to eat ice cream here as soon as made; if you don't they just throw in a bucket of brandy, and it immediately becomes hot punch, which you have to drink in the shade to prevent it becoming so hot as to scald one. Make all the allowance you please for that last remark; I may be prejudiced.

It is now the rainy season; in fact I never knew it to be anything else. I have traveled all over California and the webfoot country for years; it has always been the rainy season. It doesn't rain here though; it just lets go all holds and tumbles down. It has just started a minute ago, and if it had been raining the last 24 hours it could not possibly do better. I beg pardon; it has just stopped and the sun is shining again. I beg to be excused again; it's raining now like blazes; no use, I can't keep up with it—as my friend, John Woodard, would observe: "I'm not equal to the situation." Well the Fakirs, as the friendly, unprejudiced, lunch-wrestling correspondent of the Sporting Times was pleased to term us—are doing very well indeed. The warm weather is a little against us, but I am happy to remark that we are paying our little bills regularly in first-class hotels, besides printing, refreshments, and all the adjuncts necessary thereto. Good enough for Fakirs, but I forgive him; legs are his forte, so put him in the ice chest and may Heaven bless him and keep him for his mother's sake; no doubt she thought a great deal of him once. We, Nellie Hosmer, Joseph Small Alfred Singer, and Charley Rhoades, W. E. Rogers, Business Manager, opened here under the title and denomination of the Eureka Variety Troupe at the Lusitano Theatre on June 3d. We give the audience songs, duets, banjo solos, pianoforte solos and a farce, "and don't they seem to like it!" They pay $2 for the balcony seats, $1 for the parquette, and $10 for private boxes, and keep on doing it.

The folks all wish to be remembered to FIGARO, and should you by chance come across my worthy pal, De Angelis, kiss him for me. I send regards to all brother Fakirs whithersoever dispersed.

With the utmost sublimity consider me democratically yours, CHARLEY RHOADES.

"Ten Thousand Miles Away."

Thousands have heard Vivian sing the annexed song at the Alhambra Theatre, and have seen his impromptu make-up for the character—a young London light-fingered vagabond, who accompanies the song with a peculiar step which "he learned on the rounds of Jacob's ladder, commonly called the blooming treadmill"—and thousands have enjoyed it as one of the best pieces of characterization ever introduced on the California stage:

TEN THOUSAND MILES AWAY.

Sing O for a brave and gallant barque,
And a stiff and a rattling breeze,
A bully crew and a captain too,
To carry me o'er the seas;
To carry me o'er the sea, my boys,
To my true love so gay-ay-ay,
Who went on a trip, in a Government ship,
Ten thousand miles away!

CHORUS—Blow, ye winds, hi oh!
A-rosming I will go,
I'll stay no more on H'england's shore;
So, let the music play—
I'll start by the morning train,
To cross the raging main,
For I'm on the road to my own true love
Ten thousand miles away!

My true love she was 'andsome,
My true love she was young;
Her eyes were blue as the violet's hue,
And silvery was the sound of her tongue;
And silvery was her tongue, my boys,
And while I sing this lay-ay-ay,
She's a-doing of the grand in a far-off land,
Ten thousand miles away! (CHORUS.)

Dark and dismal was the day
When last I saw my Meg;
She'd a Government band around each 'and,
And another one round her leg;
And another one round her leg, my boys,
As the big ship left the bay-ay-ay,
Adieu, 'said she, remember me,
Ten thousand miles away. (CHORUS.)

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre. •

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner. •

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever. •

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how rediculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Squarza's:

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that th former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

WEDNESDAY.....JULY 19, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

The Useful and the Ornamental.

On Monday evening, the prizes of the Master Mariners' Benevolent Association were awarded; there was in many of them pleasing blending of the useful and the ornamental. Thus the Fannie A. Hyde received a gold locket, a chest of tea and five loads of ballast; the Rival a pair of boots and half a ton of coal; the Louise a pair of pants and a gold anchor pin. Might not others take a hint from the Benevolent Mariners in making presents? Of course it would not do for Charles Henry to give his Sarah Matilda Jane a pair of ear-rings and a gridiron, though Fanny A. Hyde accepted her gold locket, chest of tea and ballast, but he might give her a breast-pin, a pair of gaiters and a sewing machine without shocking her feelings.

Washington Hall, Woodland.

Before very long there will be a grand entertainment given at this fine hall, and gifts amounting to $100,000 will be distributed. Some lucky man will get $20,000 dollars, another $10,000; others $1,000, $800 and smaller sums for an investment of $2 50. A new school-house will be built out of the profits, and other Woodland institutions will be assisted.

Emblematic Memorial.

We have received a copy of this work from the publishers, Norton & Co, 540 Clay street. It is a beautifully etched sheet designed for a record of births, deaths and marriages, and is the work of Miss Annie Wylie, aged eighteen. Many will esteem it a pleasing ornament for the wall of their parlors.

Lick House Wine Rooms.

All have admired the magnificent Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, kept by Porter & Lewis, which is the resort of all our fashionable young men. In the Lick House up-stairs Porter & Lewis have a Wine Room in which a connoisseur of good and rare wines could spend a delightful afternoon. Arranged on shelves are the vintages of the most famous years, classified. Clarets, sauternes, champagnes, burgundies, sherries, ports and Rhine wines of numberless varieties can be found there. Verily the patrons of the Lick House and the habitues of Porter & Lewis' Saloon and Billiard Room fare well when their wants are provided for with such taste and discrimination.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. Hug & Schmidt, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 619 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

New Furnishing Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

The Academy of Sciences.

The Academy of Sciences met on Monday night—Professor Blunker in the Chair.

Professor Blunker read a paper on the article supposed to be a fishbone, contributed at the last meeting, setting forth that upon a careful examination he had come to the conclusion that it was not a fishbone at all, but a pecten corneum; though its remarkable resemblance, to the dorsal bone of a fish, was calculated to deceive any but a member of the California Academy of Sciences.

Dr. Stumper presented for the consideration of the meeting, a snake which he had found in his boot (great laughter) after returning from a bath in the sea, at Hunter's Point.

Dr. Stumper was not in the habit of seeing visionary snakes in his boots, and he hoped the meeting would confess this one was a reality.

Dr. Frump said he didn't see no pints about that snake no more'n about any snake; it was an ornery looking snake, and he couldn't see what Dr. Stumper wanted to bring it there for. There wasn't no science in snakes anyhow, and he moved that the pestry varmint be throwed outer the door.

Dr. Stumper called attention to the fact that this snake had spots arranged in four fives——

Dr. Frump interrupted—he had seen a snake with spots in four sixes, and that'd beat four fives anyhow.

Professor Doddle called Dr. Frump to order.

Dr. Stumper was requested to take his snake away and play with it home, as the Academy were unable to view it with a scientific eye.

Professor Diddops called attention to an important error in the last printed transactions of the society occurring in volume 4 part 3, where the word larboard instead of port, was used in speaking of one of the limbs of the moon. He also read a communication from the man in the moon requesting that the limbs of the moon might not in future form a subject of discussion by the California Academy of Sciences, as he had his feelings as well as any other man.

The subject of the gas bill coming up, Dr. Stumper suggested that glow worms or fire flies would fully serve the purpose of gas if they could be acclimatized.

Dr. Frump said that was all dod-rotted nonsense, he was for payin' the gas bill instead of importin' a lot of glow worms who'd crush the workin' man by shinin' for nothin' and there was his fifteen cents and he hoped the others would do as much.

Forty-five cents was collected and a committee of three appointed to deliver it to the gas man as a first installment, and there being no further business the society adjourned.

Very Popular.

Hollihan & Burbridge are crowded with orders for their Rustic Window Shade, the advantages of which are fully set forth in another column.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

Save Your Money.

The Land Mortgage Union is the best place to invest your savings. 50 cents per fortnight amounts, in about eight years, to $250. Investers can withdraw their funds after twelve months with withdrawal rate of interest. Call at the office, 123 Post street, for information.

Important to Strangers.

Abraham's, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. Abraham, 33 and 35 Second street.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "The" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "The" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

Euphrosyne's Enameline,

A delicate enamel, imparting an irresistible elegance and refinement to the face. Price 50 cents. Wilson & Co., southeast corner of Fifth and Mission streets.

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by James G. Steele & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

Denies the Soft Impeachment.

The Call speaking of the bear at Sauce lito hugging a little boy says:

Said bear is a personal friend of one of our reporters, and he vouches for Bruin's uniform good behavior when politely treated.

The bear denies this statement, says he doesn't know any Call Reporter and doesn't want to. If he does know the party in question, didn't know he was a reporter, and if he finds him out next time he visits Sancelito, he'd better be pretty careful how he indulges in any of his confounded familiarity. As to the little boy the bear justifies himself by saying that the child had been been so petted that it could not be spoiled any more, he therefore took the liberty of giving it a squeeze to teach it not to take liberties with strangers.

Go Slow.

The Chronicle says:

An unusual number of foreigners in this city have lately declared their intention to become citizens of the United States. The more the merrier.

Oh! yes, we are glad to have as many citizens as possible, but they must not be too merry. If they become Americans they must be merry "Melican fashion."

Mrs. Partington Outdone.

Mrs. Partington is really not half so funny in her misapplication of words as our own jovial Alta. Here is the last:

"Cuneo has been a bad boy for some time, stays from school and resorts with those even worse than himself."

Granny ought really to get the words in her vocabulary re-sorted.

A lady advertises herself as a teacher for persons of newly acquired wealth and a deficient education. This will meet a want long and widely felt, and we hope she will be well patronized.

The bloom of youth will fade away, the brightness of the eye will grow dim with age, but a miserable little corn will never pass away.

Gentlemen are wearing blue veils around their hats for traveling as they did last Summer—To veil their beauty.

To the Unfortunate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

Everbody Buys Them.

What The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line.

Cremo de Lis.

MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT CONSTITUENCY OF EASTERN VISITORS [illegible] Fund [illegible] Charity has come [illegible] a place [illegible] Comfortable Lodgings [illegible] and [illegible] Lodging House [illegible] San Francisco. [illegible] was supplied [illegible] and [illegible] nothing to be desired. Mr. S. J. Bowen, becoming [illegible] the progress [illegible] [illegible] in the [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] who the Droppers House [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] Here are [illegible] and well [illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] and [illegible] papers, [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible] a Model Lodging House [illegible] to make [illegible] home.

The Coso and the Branch.

[illegible] knows Mr. Bowen has hit upon the plan of [illegible] by which [illegible] lodgers every month and [illegible] him with $100. Of course this, with the other [illegible] [illegible] referred, [illegible] those houses to be [illegible] and [illegible] where found there a comfortable home were not [illegible] way to leave. This plan Mr. Bowen finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and [illegible] a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue.

Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June [illegible] his receipts as a gift to some one he [illegible] not mean to [illegible] it, but will give that amount to some one of the [illegible] charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for [illegible] same duly published. The $100 for this month (the [illegible] of which was under the original arrangement to [illegible] been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it.

Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso [illegible] man, while he is reveling snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has [illegible] full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless [illegible].

WEDNESDAY.....JULY 19, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

A large and fashionable audience was present at this little theatre last night. After a first part comprising many vocal gems, Vivian appeared and gained great applause for his new local song, one patriotic verse in particular insisting on the necessity of people when they become Americans burying their old country grudges, fairly bringing down the house. Emerson followed and the house rang again with the shouts of laughter caused by his "Blooming Pals" burlesque of Vivian's song. The entertainment terminated with the English version of "The Grand Duchess." In this Master Eugenia was very good in the title role singing all the airs in excellent style. S. S. Purdy was amusing as Fritz; Emerson very funny as Prince Paul, and General Baum capitally played by M. Ainsley Scott.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Last night another large audience assembled in this theatre to see the play of "Caste," with Miss Kate Newton as Esther, Joe Murphy as old Eccles and the other parts appropriately distributed. The Alta said yesterday: "Miss Sallie Hinckley "was a little out of her line as the Marquise de "St. Maur—she is too youthful for the mother of "Hon. George D'Alroy." The fact is that Miss Sallie Hinckley was entirely out of her line, and proved how good an actress she is by playing the character as well as if it were in her line. As to being too youthful, she did not look it; by careful make-up she admirably represented a well-preserved English matron with a son of some twenty years of age. Charley Backus repeated his representations of celebrated actors and actresses, and the little Irish opera of "Molly Bawn" went off very well. Pleasant as this entertainment is, such is the cry for "Help" that the management have been forced to comply with it, and will reproduce this very popular play this evening.

California Theatre.

To-night "Frou-Frou" will be produced with Miss Alice Dunning (Lingard) as Gilberte, Miss Dickie Lingard as Pauline, W. H. Lingard as the Baron de Cambri, John McCullough as Henri de Sartoris, Miss May Howard as Louise and the play strongly cast throughout. All know how excellent Miss Alice Dunning Lingard's impersonation of the volatile, careless, but good-natured Frou-Frou is, and the house will of course be crowded. The dresses in this piece are not the least attraction, Miss Alice Dunning engaging herself to appear on the occasion in some of the most magnificent costumes of the present day ever seen on the San Francisco stage.

Maguire's Opera House.

We are informed by the management, that the season of Opera Bouffe at this theatre is suspended for the present. The "La Grande Duchesse" can not be presented this evening, as was intended and its production must be postponed until further notice.

Bella Union Theatre.

Everyone is delighted with Miss Ella Wesner in her capital character songs, she is so lively, so neat and artistic that the public demand song after song until she must be wearied by complying with encores. Aline Le Favre shines resplendently in the pantomime part of the Dumb Boy, and gains much applause for her fencing. The Reynolds Brothers bring down the house every night by their performance of "The Two Gens D'Armes." The full programme of the entertainment at this favorite theatre, appears on our first page.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Jones the Lively Moke, Rosa Vincent, the popular dansense; E. M. Hall, the celebrated banjoist; John H. Campbell, the dancer; Lizzie Harmon, vocalist; Johnny Tuers, Jake Wallace and others too numerous to mention, all appear to-night in a programme of unrivalled excellence

Benefit to Billy Emerson.

On Friday evening, Billy Emerson to whom the public of San Francisco are indebted for so many pleasant evenings and hearty laughs, will take his benefit. If it is not a bumper, the public has no sense of gratitude, and Billy can't be blamed if he accepts one of the one hundred and one tempting offers he has received from different parts, and leaves us to melancholy and despair. There is however no fear about the matter tickets will be at a premium before Friday.

San Francisco Hussars.

A grand ball will be given by the San Francisco Hussars, Capt. J. Schreiber, at their new Hall corner of New Montgomery and Minnie streets, this evening. Many tickets have been sold for this affair, which promises to be well attended and a very pleasant one.

The Nathan Troupe.

This troupe with La petite Marian as star, will leave this morning per steamer for Portland where they are engaged for a short season. They will subsequently put in an appearance at Salem, Victoria, B. C., and other towns.

The Unknown.

This mysterious individual will continue to hold his levees (in full dress) at Pacific Hall, and relate the story of his life, every afternoon from two to five o'clock. Here is a chance for the curious to "unravel a mystery."

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard st., opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Italian Procession.

The procession by the Italians to celebrate the occupation of Rome as the Capital of Italy by Victor Emanuel, will take place on Sunday, August 6th. It was pretty hard on the Italians to have a country without a capital and their rejoicing is but natural. It is to be hoped however that while they signify their opinion that Victor Emanuel in Rome is the right man in the right place, they will confine their exultation to this alone and carefully refrain from carrying banners with inscriptions calculated to offend that large portion of the Christian Church who must view the curtailment of the temporal power of their great head and his being dispossessed of the Holy City, over which he and his predecessors have ruled for centuries, with bitter grief.

A correspondent of a Western newspaper speaks of the effects produced in his native village by Mrs. Bella French's lecture on "Corsets, Tobacco and Whisky." He says that the lecture produced such an excitement that most men in the village have given up wearing corsets, and most women have abandoned the use of whisky and tobacco.

A Short Bit.

A Mr. Shilling in this city, has two children who go to school, and an infant whom he reckons only as a short bit.

"Modesty" asks us "What is the best method of popping the question?" It is a good deal like champagne—if it don't pop itself, there is something wrong about it.

A school girl was recently asked at an examination by the clergyman to tell him what Adam lost by his fall, and when pressed she replied, "I suppose it was his hat."

It has just been discovered that nothing makes a woman so mad as loooking for her night cap when the lamp is out.

Gentlemen are wearing blue veils around their hats for traveling as they did last summer—To veil their beauty.

The youth who cut open the bellows to see where the wind is now trying his hand at fattening greyhounds.

All classes have their aristocracies. The Toads wear jewels in their heads. They are the aristocrats of the hoppists and creakers.

Announcing the cost of a $7000 bride's dress as $7. is called by the Lexington "Observer" a slight error.

The St. Louis Board of Health buys ready-made coffins in large lots, so as to get them for a dollar and a half a piece.

Some people say that dark haired women marry soonest? We differ; it is the light-headed ones.

Although living in a dense city, thousands of our ladies have their lawns.

A West Virginian in a buggy was chased miles by a rattlesnake.

Straw hats of awning proportions have made their appearance in the East.

Only 18 "thats" can be grammatically put put in one sentence.

"Where are you Going,

Mr. Guyser?" "I'm going to buy a pair of boots for my sweetheart to go to the Springs with." "Where at?" "Where? why, what a question. Why, where every body gets them, at F. X. East's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre."

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

The Rustic Window Shade

Is superior to any in market for cheapness, finish and durability, manufactured by Hollehan & Burbridge, 617 Mission, near corner of New Montgomery street.

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location.

The Best is the Cheapest.

J. W. Tucker & Co. have the finest assortment of Jewelry, diamonds, watches, watch-chains, onyx sets, lockets, opera chains, of the finest make, and medallions, of all kinds, ever offered for sale in this city, and their prices are low.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

The Saucelito Ferry.

Great complaints are made of the slowness of the Wilson G. Hunt, which runs to Saucelito, which wallows in the sea like a wounded porpoise, and makes about a knot an hour. Such a lively place as Saucelito ought to have a fast boat. Will the Herald see to it?

Breakfast time in Magdalena Bay.

Some of the Magdalena Bay emigrants published a card in the Bulletin, denying that Mr. Allen had left them waiting for their breakfast uncomfortably long. Four o'clock in the afternoon is the regular breakfast hour at Magdalena Bay.

A Great Convenience.

At the Industrial Depot, New Montgomery street, ladies who have no sewing machine, can get one for an hour or for a day. Sewing women can also do work there and have it sold for them.

Certainly.

Miss Rose Nathan was married last week to Mr. Mooser. The parental Nathans were willing that their daughter should be married to "a mooser," as she found single life dull.

Quick Time.

The steamer City of Brussels arrived at Liverpool on Monday last, nine days from New York.

Wyoming women won't vote now they have a chance.

Blonde hair and black moustache is the latest rage.

A Norwich serenade was mistaken for an alarm of fire.

It is not undertakers who carry the beer exclusively.

Ladies are beginning to wear Tyrolese felt hats for riding.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexcep ionable manner.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. SHABER & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding.

F. Kosmalski

Dealer in Wines, Liquors and Cigars, 609 Mission street.

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

What Cheer Laundry

Is the best laundry in San Francisco

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how rediculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night.

Silver Plating.

Articles from which the silver has been worn are received for re-plating by Haynes & Lawton, Market street, under the Grand Hotel.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

532 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

Below Montgomery Block.

THURSDAY.....JULY 20, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE C.A.L. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

Very Hard.

The reporter of the Chronicle relates how he tried to gain admittance to the "Great Unknown's" house. He says: "Punctually at 5 o'clock we started for his residence." He says he knocked three times, although the people were at home, they would not let him in. He wasn't abashed though. He continues:

"Again at 8 o'clock we made another attempt to gain admittance, but were unsuccessful, and compelled, although reluctantly, to allow the inside of the Great Unknown's house still to remain a mystery."

This is hard treatment, after having been invited. We suppose Mr. Frohm, after telling him he might call, made enquiries about him and discovered he was reporter for the Chronicle—or less than that might have made him refuse him admittance. Perhaps he'll be able to get in if he sits on the door step all night and waits till they take in the milk in the morning.

Pshaw!

An exchange publishes the following as something wonderful:

A Lond n jeweller has been five years at work upon a watch, and it will be worth $10,000 when finished.

We know a policeman in this city who was only three years at work on a watch and it was worth $20,000 to him before it was finished.

A Difference of Opinion.

The Alta calls the the militia sent up to Sutter Creek, "The Amador Veterans." Major General Cobb addressed them as "raw soldiers." We think they would have to stay a week longer to be entitled to be called veterans.

Lick House Wine Rooms.

All have admired the magnificent Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, kept by Porter & Lewis, which is the resort of all our fashionable young men. In the Lick House up-stairs Porter & Lewis have a Wine Room in which a connoisseur of good and rare wines could spend a delightful afternoon. Arranged on shelves are the vintages of the most famous years, classified. Clarets, sauternes, champagnes, burgundies, sherries, ports and Rhine wines of numberless varieties can be found there. Verily the patrons of the Lick House and the habitues of Porter & Lewis' Saloon and Billiard Room fare well when their wants are provided for with such taste and discrimination.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. Hug & Schmidt, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

New Furnishng Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

John G. Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

"The Canaille."

The Alta publishes a letter from a gentleman in Paris mourning over the Communists: He says:

They call the men of the Commune, canaille. My dear ——, the salt of this earth always has been and always will be the canaille.

If the canaille is the salt of the earth it has sadly lost its savor. The communistic salt of the earth has got Paris into a pretty pickle. The canaille! Faugh! There never was a more brutal, hideous idol set up for men to worship than the canaille. The canaille is filth, puterfaction, fermentation! Out of these elements bright essences may be eliminated, but no one can admire the operation while it is in process. Men of intellect, breed and culture, have been found to glorify the canaille—they did it because they could use this hideous monster to further their own ends, not because there was in it anything to admire, Every election day in every country, the canaille are esteemed as the salt of the earth—to use the old saying "one man is as good as another and a darned sight better." Election day is approaching. Now let us bow reverently before the canaille, the unwashed, the beery, the bloated, they are the salt of the earth. Let us idolize the monster as Titania did Bottom, "seat him on a flowery bed while we his amiable cheeks do coy, and stick moss roses in his sleek, smooth head." Did the prophetic Shakspeare draw the picture of Titania, the fairy queen in love with Bottom, the weaver, with an asses head for our own Columbia and her petted canaille? Perhaps.

Take Warning!

Of course California is the greatest country in the world, has the finest climate, grows the biggest pumpkins and the biggest heads, pays the biggest wages, and is altogether big. It is a paradise; the soil is half gold and half arable land that raises 1,000 bushels of wheat to the acre. They are going to send Louis Gunauld to Stockton Asylum because he is dissatisfied with California, and says he's going back to Auckland, New Zealand, if he has to swim there. We're not going to get into trouble on a similar account if we know ourselves.

Home Again.

Among the excursionists from Illinois who arrived last night, was Gustavus DeYoung, who has been absent for many years. Gus is a good boy, and many friends are glad to see him back. He was one of the starters of the Dramatic Chronicle, now swallowed up in FIGARO.

Woman's Rights.

The census of the population of Great Britain just completed, shows a preponderance of females over males of 718,568. If the principle of the majority ruling were carried out, women would at once have their rights in Great Britain.

What is a Soiree?

Sam Weller said a soiree was "a biled leg o' mutton and taimmins." The Chronicle's reporter says the "Unknown" held a soiree at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Which is right?

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

Industrial Depot, New Mont. street.

Orders received for sewing by the Magdalens. Machines rented by the day or week.

Save Your Money.

The Land Mortgage Union is the best place to invest your savings. 50 cents per fortnight amounts, in about eight years, to $250. Investors can withdraw their funds after twelve months with withdrawal rate of interest. Call at the office, 123 Post street, for information.

Important to Strangers.

ABRAHAM'S, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. ABRAHAMS, 33 and 35 Second street.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

Euphrosyne's Enameline,

A delicate ENAMEL, imparting an irresistible elegance and refinement to the face. Price 50 cents. Wilson & Co., southeast corner of Fifth and Mission streets.

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 621 Montgomery street.

Brutal.

A telegraphic dispatch in the Alta says:

The census taken at midnight on Sunday April 2d, 1871, throughout Great Britian, has just been announced.

We'd like to catch the Marshals trying to take a census at midnight in this free country. And yet these people who submitted to be routed out of their beds at midnight to answer questions while standing shivering in their shirt tails, will go on howling as lustily as ever "Britons never shall be slaves." We'll bet the Alta believes the census was taken exactly at midnight on Sunday, April 3d, and give it the above sentiments which can be diluted into an "editorial note."

LEA SILLY.

☞ In reference to a Card to the Public under the above name, I beg leave to say that on Monday night last, she, "Lea Silly," was the Directress of the Opera Bouffe, had engaged and promised to pay all Artists; her name was at the head of the bills as Directress, and I was employed as Treasurer, and as such received all moneys for sale of tickets, every dollar of which has been refunded by me to all who purchased seats, except two dollars, which I have waited two days to pay to any holder of the tickets. So far as "Lea Silly" not having received any money for the last two nights of the performances, the last but one of her performances she was paid $53, being the balance on hand due her. So much for her statement.

When she became Directress she went on the stage with her agent and employed every one, and assumed all responsibility.

J. WOODTHORPE, Treasurer.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

FIGARO

PUBLISHED EVERY DAY EXCEPT SUNDAY, BY

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

22 Merchant st. and 535 Washington st.

THURSDAY.....JULY 20, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

A fine audience was present at this theatre last night, the beauty and fashion of the city being well represented. Miss Alice Dunning Lingard as Gilberte was especially good in the scene with her sister Louise, in the third act, depicting the pangs of jealousy in a most natural manner, she was ably sustained by Miss May Howard as Louise, and in response to an enthusiastic call brought that lady before the curtain with her. In the succeeding act she was equally good, and the dying scene in the last act worked painfully on the feelings of the sympathetic audience. Wm. Horace Lingard gave some excellent little bits of acting in the character of the Baron de Cambri; John McCullough displayed much power in the fourth act and was much applauded and James Carden was very good in the rehearsal scene. Miss Dickie Lingard made a charmingly pert little ladies maid and acted well throughout. The dresses worn by Mrs. Lingard were gorgeous, one in particular of pale blue velvet and white satin gaining a round of applause. "Frou-Frou" will be repeated to-night and will of course draw another crowded house.

Alhambra Theatre.

The Emerson Minstrels will appear again this this evening in a great entertainment, comprising new songs and dances by Billy Emerson, new local hits by Vivian, sentimental ballads by Gustave Eideaux and Louis Braham, and "The Grand Duchess," with the original music arranged by Geo. T. Evans.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Help" was revived last night and the theatre was crowded in every part. As on former occasions the applause was loud and frequent. Charley Backus as John Chinaman in the Concert Room Scene made a still greater hit than in his imitations. The same bill will be presented to-night and "Help" will be played at the matinee on Saturday. To-morrow has been set aside for the benefit of Charley Backus. As Charley is a popular performer, and an old Californian withal, without doubt the benefit will be a bumper.

Bella Union Theatre.

Ella Wesner will sing new character songs to-night; Johnny Manning will perform on the trapeze; George and Charles Reynolds will appear in new dances; new acts will be performed, and the ever-popular Aline Le Favre will appear in the attractive play of "The Dumb Boy."

Theatre Comique.

A constellation of stars including Frank Jones, the Live y Moke; E. M. Hall, Rosa Vincent, Lizzie Harmon, Johnny Tuers and many others will appear to-night in an excellent programme. In addition to these, M'lle Zelmarie, the slack-wire performer, and W. Baxter, the popular tenor, will make their first appearance.

Italian Opera.

On Monday the season of Italian Opers with Madame Agatha States as prima donna, wil commence and the opera of "Ernani" will be produced with a strong cast, which appears on our first page. The sale of season tickets closed last evening. This morning the seats for single performances can be secured at Gray's Music Store, when the sale of seats will be continued until Monday next, when the box office will be opened for the opera season.

The Late Opera Bouffe.

We publish this morning a card from the treasurer of the French Opera company, lately playing at Maguire's Opera House, in reply to one published in some of the journals yesterday by the late directress. The card explains itself.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Onaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Not the Tragedian.

A report was very general about town yesterday that Forrest, the tragedian, had arrived in the city by the Overland train; and the two evening journals so announced it—one going so far as to say he would appear shortly at the California Theatre. The report originated from the arrival of a gentleman of the same name from the East, in the simple capacity of tourist; and a hotel boy in his innocence supposing there could be but one "E. Forrest" in the world, spread the report that the great American tragedian was "a-stoppin' at his house."

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

PLANCHETTE.

BY RICHARD EDWARD WHITE.

I told her of all my wandering;
As unto the tale she listened,
A flush o'r the cheek 'twould bring,
And tears of it her bright eyes glistened.

"'Twou'd break my heart while I was gone,"
Said I, "if time had change been making,
And you have changed, for you have grown
So beautiful, my heart is breaking."

About my love I did not say,
For well I knew that she had guessed it;
A planchette on the table lay,
And soon on it our fingers rested.

The pencil on the paper moved,
E'en at our touch it seemed to tremble,
And thus it wrote: "We long have loved;
Why should we then our love dissemble?"

"The toy has played us ill," cried she:
"Ah no," said I, "for I am thinking,
Two hearts in love's affinity
It has magnetic-like been linking."

Uprising with laugh-parted lips,
And eyes that mischief were betraying,
My darling's taper finger tips
Upon the planchette lightly laying—

Said, "Now you are not touching it,
Its falsity I ll quickly prove you."
It moved, and lo! the pencil writ
Upon the paper, "I do love you!"

—Golden Era.

As to Sharks.

There be land sharks and water sharks. There are many hungry sharks in San Francisco at present. Some of them profess to be runners for hotels, and lie in wait for and gobble up the worldly possessions of young men from the country. One of these sharks got a hook in his mouth yesterday, by biting too hungrily at a tempting bait. A gentleman who is by no means a young man from the country, and is anything but green, went to get a carpet-bag left by a friend of his, who is "a young man from the country," at a hotel on Pacific street, and was walking along Kearny street with it, when a shark nosed him and swam up alongside. Shark asked him if he hadn't just come from the country citizen told him yes, he'd come from the mines and he wanted to find the Mint, changing the carpet bag from hand to hand as if it were full of gold. Shark told him he'd show him a good hotel and when he'd secured a room he'd show him the way the way to the Mint, where he could get coin for his dust. He then volunteered to carry the carpet bag and thrust his arm through citizen's. Citizen gave him one, straight out from the shoulder, full on the nose, laying him on the sidewalk, and then taking him by the collar jerked him to his feet, and said "Now you can show me the way to the Mint." Shark not caring about pushing his acquaintance with the "countryman" any farther, turned tail and returned to Barbary Coast. This was unkind, but sharks must expect to be caught sometimes if they are too greedy.

Washington Hall, Woodland.

Before very long there will be a grand entertainment given at this fine hall, and gifts amounting to $100,000 will be distributed. Some lucky man will get $20 000 dollars, another $10,000; others $1,000, $800 and smaller sums for an investment of $2 50. A new school-house will be built out of the profits, and other Woodland institutions will be assisted.

Emb'ematic Memorial.

We have received a copy of this work from the publishers, Norton & Co, 540 Clay street. It is a beautifully etched sheet designed for a record of births, deaths and marriages, and is the work of Miss Annie Wylie, aged eighteen. Many will esteem it a pleasing ornament for the wall of their parlors.

Very Popular.

Hollihan & Burbridge are crowded with orders for their Rustic Window Shade, the advantages of which are fully set forth in another column.

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco. •

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained any where. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre. •

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner. •

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever. •

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how rediculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them. •

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that th former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is wel lighted and ventilated.

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

632 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

FRIDAY.....JULY 21, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

A Humorous Catalogue.

We have received the prospectus of "The Visitors Guide and Catalogue of the Mechanics' Institute Fair." It is headed, "A New Idea," and the prospective publisher goes on to show in what particular his idea is new. He does not attempt to claim the idea of publishing a catalogue as new, he knows there was a catalogue of the London World's Fair, another of the French Exposition, in fact numerous catalogues have been published, but never such an one as he intened to publish. We think the following paragraph from the prospectus will explain the publishers' new idea:

The publisher will endeavor to get up the description in a crisp, racy manner, with perhaps now and then a touch of humor, thus relieving it of the dulness of a mere catalogue, and making it a work of permanent interest and usefulness.

D'ye see, now? Humor! That's the thing. He's a funny dog, is this publisher, and he's going to be crisp and racy and humorous. There's an idea for you. He'll make you burst your sides with laughter over a description of a patent harrow, roll on the floor with cachinnatory convulsions at his jokes on a steam plow, and laugh until the the tears roll down your cheeks at a humorous account of the advantages posessed by a patent washing machine. Sermons in stones will be nothing to the jokes this funny fellow will find in improved anvils, patent pegging machines and turnip cutters. A new idea! It's a glorious idea. We long for this crisp, racy, humerous catalogue to appear, that we may have a hearty laugh at it, and those who advertise in it in preference to FIGARO, wherein they will find daily a description of the articles which have especially attracted our attention, as being worthy of notice, during each afternoon's tour of inspection through the Pavilion.

Industry will make a purse, and frugality will give strings to it. This purse will cost nothing. Draw the strings as frugality directs, and you will always find a useful penny at the bottom.

The road that ambition travels is too narrow for friendship; crooked for love; too rugged for honesty; and too dark for conscience.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 619 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

New Furnishing Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Downy Sleep,

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

John G. Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Governor Haight on Latin and Greek.

Governor Haight's oration delivered before the University of California yesterday was admirable and should gain him many votes among the cultivated classes at the coming election. The following should be written in letters of gold on the walls of every school in the country:

The time is not at hand when the language and literature of Greece and Rome will be regarded in the same light as, and entitled to no more prominent place, than the Hebrew or Sanscrit. It is true that in the expansion of science in our day, a far larger share of time is requisite to be spent in scientific study, if an educated man desires to avoid that superficiality which is a fashionable vice in this age of haste and quackery. But the truth remains that no means of æsthetical culture will ever replace the classics, and that no man can have a thorough knowledge of English without first acquiring a knowledge of the languages upon which, to so far an extent, the language is founded—by which it has been so much enriched, and from which it is in such a large measure derived. No American can be master of his native tongue without some knowledge of the Latin, and in all the learned professions this knowledge is equally essential and always will be.

It is impossible for a man to understand the English language thoroughly without a knowledge of Latin, even as it is impossible for one to acquire the science of anatomy without dissection. A man who does not understand Latin uses the words of our language parrot-fashion and is not aware of the exact degree of force which they possess. In the schools in England a child begins to study the Latin grammar first—at the age of six or seven years—and while he is acquiring that key to his language, his English education is carried on with ease. A child is fond of knowing the reason of everything, the source of everything and soon finds amusement in tracing the words of the English language to their Latin derivations No sooner has he learned to conjugate the first verb in the grammar, "amo," I love, than he is pleased with the discovery that "amiable" is loving or to be loved, being derived from amo. Teach a child Latin and he will if of even ordinary intelligence, soon take as much delight in searching for the roots of English words as in solving useless puzzles in "family papers." When all children who are intended to enter the learned professions are taught English through Latin, we may hope that the form of our language may be in some measure preserved from deteriorating into a brutal jargon of slang phrases, mutilated nouns, dislocated adverbs, outraged cases, and degraded adjectives, rudely crowded by demoralized interjections.

The French Mutual Provident Savings and Loan Society.

This institution has gained the confidence of citizens of all classes and all nationalities, by conducting its business in a manner perfectly open and above board, and making a public statement of its receipts expenditures and profits every year. The twenty-third annual statement has just appeared, and shows a large amount of money advantageously loaned out, and a considerable balance on hand. A dividend of ten per cent per annum has just been declared for the six months ending June 30th, 1871, and is now payable at the office of the Society 411 Bush street.

Compliment Acknowledged.

The New York Prompter, the prettiest of all the programme sheets, says:

The San Francisco FIGARO is a faithful exponent dramatic doings on the Pacific coast. Its theatrical and general items are terse, and pointed.

Coarse Criticism.

A friend of ours who takes more delight in a fast team than in going to the theatre, being asked his opinion of an actress noted for her taste in dress, gave it concisely thus: "splendid harness, too little action."

Thirty Dollars.

French china breakfast, dinner, and tea set $30, at P. Douglas & Co's, 131 Kearny street. Other goods at same low rates.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices.

Important to Strangers.

ABRAHAM'S, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. ABRAHAMS, 33 and 35 Second street.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

Euphrosyne's Enameline,

A delicate ENAMEL, imparting an irresistible elegance and refinement to the face. Price 50 cents. Wilson & Co., southeast corner of Fifth and Mission streets.

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

Very Unkind.

Muffington when he heard the doctor had found on examination that Mrs. Higby's head was a little cracked said "that might be so, but he didn't believe that the man with the umbrella was responsible for it."

Vanderbilt is said to be worth eighty-five millions of dollars, and should he live five years longer, it is believed his estate will be worth one hundred miltions.

Lick House Wine Rooms.

All have admired the magnificent Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, kept by Porter & Lewis, which is the resort of all our fashionable young men. In the Lick House up-stairs Porter & Lewis have a Wine Room in which a connoisseur of good and rare wines could spend a delightful afternoon. Arranged on shelves are the vintages of the most famous years, classified. Clarets, sauternes, champagnes, burgundies, sherries, ports and Rhine wines of numberless varieties can be found there. Verily the patrons of the Lick House and the habitues of Porter & Lewis' Saloon and Billiard Room fare well when their wants are provided for with such taste and discrimination.

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

FIGARO.

J. P. BOGARDUS
—AT—
22 Merchant st. and 535 Washington st.
Below Montgomery Block.

FRIDAY.....JULY 21, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

A great bill will be presented to-night, when Billy Emerson, the most popular of minstrels and character actors, will take his benefit. After a fine first part, ending with "Scenes on the Mississippi," with Billy Emerson as Uncle Ben, Vivian will appear in new songs. Billy Emerson's original act of "That Rascal Billy" will follow; Emerson will give some of his best Dutch impersonations, and the entertainment will conclude with the burlesque of "Help! Help!" Billy Emerson has worked hard to please the public, has fully succeeded, and will be rewarded with a bumper benefit. The usual matinee, full of fun for the little ones, will be given to-morrow.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Murphy is a veritable loadstone, and draws the precious metals freely. The theatre was crowded again last night. Charley Backus caused roars of laughter by his life-like impersonation of a Chinaman. To-night this old California favorite will take a benefit, and his friends will of course turn out in full force on that occasion. "Help" will be played at the matinee to-morrow, and on Sunday evening for the last time.

California Theatre.

The performance of "Frou-Frou" last night delighted another large and fashionable audience, and in accordance with very general request it will be repeated to-night. To-morrow night Boucicault's latest drama, "Elfie, or the Cherry Tree Inn," will be produced, with entirely new scenery from original drawings forwarded by Boucicault and painted by Mr. Porter, and a very strong cast. "Frou-Frou" matinee on Saturday.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Ella Wesner as she appears in her character songs is the best dressed young gentleman in town, and is absolutely charming. The Reynolds Brothers are inimitable in song and dance; the acts, songs and dances which follow the first part are all amusing. "Bill Jones's Cousin" has made a hit, and the dashing Aline Le Favre captivates the audience by her graceful poses in the play of "The Dumb Boy."

Theatre Comique.

M'lle Zelmarie, the slack wire performer, is the latest sensation at this place of amusement, where novelties follow each other so quickly that it is hard to keep pace with them. There is always something new here. Frank Jones has made a great hit as "The Lively Moke," and is encored again and again.

Woodward's Gardens.

Skating and an exhibition by Prof. Lovett every day, and Wednesday and Saturday evenings. On Saturday and Sunday the celebrated Lopez Family of five performers will make their first appearance, and the Iron Boy will perform. On Sunday the Tyrolean Warblers and Wetterman's Band will each give a concert.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Cnahlin Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The McGregor (Iowa) Times says that one hundred men passed through that city last week en route to a mountain of gold professed to have been discovered some years ago by a man named C. Robson while on his way home from California. Each man had paid Robson $200 in consideration of his piloting the company to the new El Dorado.

Ingenious and thrifty Chicago gamins make money by imitating the warble of the cat under the window of nervous people and selling the boots and boot-jacks that are thrown at them.

For the first time, perhaps, in her history, Boston had no city dinner and no Fourth of July procession this year.

Whatever Midas touched turned into gold. In these days, touch a man with gold and he'll turn into anything.

"Miss Jones,

Where are you going?" "I'm going to buy a pair of French Kid Boots." "Where?" "Why, Mr. Brown, what a question. Why, where everybody gets theirs, at F. X. East's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

The Rustic Window Shade

Is superior to any in market for cheapness, finish and durability, manufactured by Hollehan & Burbridge, 617 Mission, near corner of New Montgomery street.

Highly Important.

Under the heading of "Reunion of the Howe Family," the Bulletin of yesterday informed its numerous readers that a general reunion of members of the Howe family from all parts of the United States would be held at Harmony Grove, South Framington, Massachusetts, on August 31st, and that the San Francisco Howes intended to go. Who the dickens are the Howes? Are they more omnipresent than the Browns? more numerous than the Smiths? more lucky than the Dents? Have they money? if so, how much? We demand an answer to these questions from the Bulletin. The feelings of the public must not be trifled with in this manner; their curiosity must not be enraged after such a fashion without our knowing the reason why. How, why, what? Let us not burst in ignorance.

Flippancy.

Captain Jinks—Who is that benevolent-looking gentleman just coming in?

Mrs. Malapert—Mrs. Witherton Mildieu, the famous advocate for Women's Rights.

Captain Jinks—Ha, ha! Very good. But I mean the little man with the velvet collar.

Mrs. Malapert—O, I beg your pardon—that's her husband. He's a most lady-like person, and considered rather pretty.

Emblematic Memorial.

We have received a copy of this work from the publishers, Norton & Co, 540 Clay street. It is a beautifully etched sheet designed for a record of births, deaths and marriages, and is the work of Miss Annie Wylie, aged eighteen. Many will esteem it a pleasing ornament for the wall of their parlors.

Cruel Libel.

The Bulletin says one of the managers of the Pacific Theatre is in jail in Virginia City. There will be a libel suit sure—if he's in jail anywhere, it is in Hamilton, White Pine, where "the bloomin' doctor told him to take suthin, and he took a bloomin' 'orse and waggin."

The Higby Muddle.

The last little game to gain sympathy for Laura D. Fair, according to the morning papers is likely to be a losing one. Chief Crowley, with his two bowers, detectives Sellinger and Stone, appears to have won a straight euchre.

No Ambition.

The Call notes as a "veteran petty thief" being sent to jail for six months. Some men have no ambition and persist in petty thieving all their lives, never rising to the dignity of grand larceny.

Some brave Missouri sportsmen hunted down a yellow dog, under the impression that it was a panther.

The servants in the bathing establishments of Long Branch are spoken of as souse-maids.

Several Chicagoans have lately died of throat disease superinduced by razors.

In Connecticut they beat a drum to summon the people to a sheriff's sale.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

The Best is the Cheapest.

J. W. Tucker & Co. have the finest assortment of Jewelry, diamonds, watches, watch-chains, onyx sets, lockets, opera chains, of the finest make, and medallions, of all kinds, ever offered for sale in this city, and their prices are low.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that th former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough. Clothing has come down in price, but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and bid fair to be a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now to the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. EWELL has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

532 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St.

MONDAY.....JULY 24, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE C. P. RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

Reckless Reporting.

The Bulletin on Friday contained a paragraph which was decidedly unjust, it ran as follows:

In this Court to-day, in the case of Samuel Tetlow who was yesterday convicted of misdemeanor in keeping a low melodeon, the judgment rendered yesterday was set aside, and defendant was ordered to appear for judgment to-morrow.

This is an utter misrepresentation of the facts. Samuel Tetlow was not "convicted of misdemeanor in keeping a low melodeon," but of having, through a misunderstanding omitted to pay his license as manager of the Bella Union Theatre. The Bulletin should prevent its reporters from publishing such false and reckless statements.

Acknowledgment.

We have received two capital photographs of Joe Murphy, like as life and twice as good looking, for which Joe is indebted to the artist who finished them up in such a superior manner at the establishment of Bradley & Rulofson.

Well Preserved.

English ladies don't allow themselves to be put on the shelf quite as soon as ours. They are not supposed to reach the bloom of maturity—an age at which all true judges think their charms XL.

An attorney observed to a brother in court that he thought whiskers very unprofessional. "You are right," answered his friend; "no lawyer can be too barefaced."

"Where are you Going,

Mr. Guyser?" "I'm going to buy a pair of boots for my sweetheart to go to the Springs with." "Where at?" "Where? why, what a question. Why, where every body gets them, at F. X. East's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre."

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. Now establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 837 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEMY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexceptionable manner.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents.

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night.

New Furnishing Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

Edmund Kean.

Sheridan told us several stories of Kean, at the height of his fame. Some one made Kean a present of a fine horse, on which he was prancing along the strand. "Take care," said a friend; "you are a fine actor, but——" "But what?" asked Kean; "you don't know that I was paid thirty pounds for breaking three horses at Brighton last year." Another time a friend, hearing he was about to give readings of Milton between the acts at Drury Lane, said: "Kean, stick to Shakspeare; don't meddle with Milton." "Why not?" asked Kean. "I gave readings from Milton three times a week at Exmouth."

As a proof of the universality of his genius, it was mentioned that he had been a foncing-master and a dancing-master, and at Jersey had announced that he should quit the stage and set up a school. He told Mr. Sheridan that when a child he had been applied to in order to bring him out as a rival to Master Betty; but that Sheridan had interposed, saying, "No! one bubble at a time is enough; if you have two, they will knock against each other and burst."

Among my reminiscences of the year 1814, I find it recorded that Lord Byron, Thomas Moore and myself went to the orchestra at Drury Lane Theatre on the 19th of May, 1814, and saw Kean in "Othello." After the play we went to the green room and Byron and I were introduced to the great actor.

I became afterwards well acquainted with Kean, and heard something of his performances from his own mouth. On December 14, 1814, I dined at Mr. Kinnaird's in company with him and Lord Byron; and on that occasion he mentioned that at Stroud in Gloucestershire, on one night, he acted Shylock, danced on the tight-rope, sang a song then in vogue, called "Storm," sparred with Mendoza, and then acted "Three-fingerd Jack." Kean also told us that one night he forget his part and repeated the "Allegro" of Milton without being detected by the audience. He gave us admirable imitations of Incledon, of Kemble, of Sinclair, and Master Betty. He concluded the amusements by dressing up his hand with a napkin, painting it with cork so as to look like a man, and dancing hornpipe with two fingers, imitating at the same time a bassoon so wonderfully that we looked round to see if there was no one playing that instrument in the room with us. I should not think these matters worthy of record if Kean had not been by far the greatest actor I had ever seen.—Lord Brougham's Recollections of a Long Life.

Temper and Health.

Good temper with many people is dependent on good health; good health upon good digestion; good digestion upon wholesome, well-prepared food, eaten in peace and pleasantness. Ill-cooked, untidy meals are as great a cause of bad temper as many a moral wrong; and a person of sensitive physique may be nursed into settled hypocondria by living in close rooms where the sweet fresh air and sunshine are determinedly shut out, and the foul air as determinedly shut in.

THE DANGERS OF BASEBALL.

"I would not live allers,"
I heard a youth squall;
"Then go and be umpire
For a game of baseball."

The Count de Chambord is described as having a "diluted look in the eyes." Perhaps it's Thiers the Count has in his eyes.

Important to Strangers.

ABRAHAM'S, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. ABRAHAMS, 33 and 35 Second street.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

Purchase in the Army.

All the newspapers in America are loud in their praise of Gladstone's exertions to bring about the abolition of the purchase of commissions in the English army. The Alta says:

According to the canons of the war department the man who is possessed of £500 is alone entitled to have command in the English army.

It is not very likely even when the purchase system is abolished that many men who are possessed of less than £500 will long retain their commissions in the English army. There are very few army officers who can live on their pay and keep up their position in society. Uniforms cost money, mess expenses are heavy, regimental parties tax the incomes of the officers severely. If the officers have to live on soldiers' rations in order to accommodate the slender purses of those who have not £500, and enter the army to "make a living," those who have brought about this change will find that while they have spoiled the army for the wealthy classes, they have shorn the position of all its charms. There is a good deal of the dog in the manger principle about all these curtailments of the privileges of the rich; they make the rich uncomfortable, but do not tend to ameliorate the poor. The English communist who is about as stupid and quite as brutal as the Parisian when he gets a chance, is glad to to see "the bloomin' swells took down a peg, you know," and that is all it amounts to. It is easy enough for the mob to bring the army, the navy, the church and the law down nearer their level, but to raise the uneducated and low to a condition fit to occupy positions in either his labor, hoc opus est.

A humorous apothecary exposes a cake of soap in his shop-window, with the pertinent inscription, "Cheaper than dirt."

"Was the Roman matron whose sons were jewels, a mother of pearl?" "No, my child; the Gracchi were Cornelian."

Lick House Wine Rooms.

All have admired the magnificent Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, kept by Porter & Lewis, which is the resort of all our fashionable young men. In the Lick House up-stairs Porter & Lewis have a Wine Room in which a connoisseur of good and rare wines could spend a delightful afternoon. Arranged on shelves are the vintages of the most famous years, classified. Clarets, sauternes, champagnes, burgundies, sherries, ports and Rhine wines of numberless varieties can be found there. Verily the patrons of the Lick House and the habitues of Porter & Lewis' Saloon and Billiard Room fare well when their wants are provided for with such taste and discrimination.

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

A very large audience was present on Saturday night, when Boucicault's latest drama, "Elfie, or the Cherry Tree Inn," was produced for the first time in California. This drama is one of the best productions of Boucicault's pen; the plot is ingenious, the characters well drawn, and the dialogue is crisp and sparkling. The action runs as follows: The first scene is the interior of the village dispensary, in which appear Dr. Aircastle, a country surgeon, his daughter Rose, and Bob Evans, a young sailor. Bob Evans and Rose Aircastle are lovers, and on their fortunes the main action of the piece depends. The doctor, through neglect and weakness, has thrown himself in debt; and has moreover, placed himself in a position of danger, inasmuch as he is liable to be imprisoned by his chief creditor on a charge of felony. This creditor, Sam Filey, is a miser and proprietor of the Cherry tree Inn, and will listen to no entreaties to forego his intentions toward the doctor. Bob has himself no funds to relieve the old man; and while he is trying to raise means, another personage appears on the scene, one Sedley Deepcar, an adventurer, and also a lover of Rose. He, learning the straits in which the old man is placed, determines to rob the miser, Filey, and so pay off the debts, turning this circumstance to account in winning Rose, and supplanting Bob Evans. To further his designs, he procures the assistance of a confederate named Sadlove, a traveling waxwork exhibitor, and a plan is concocted by which the inn may be entered and suspicion may fall on Evans. Deepcar personates Evans with the aid of a wax mask, modeled after the features of the sailor, and as the latter is a lodger at the Cherry Tree Inn the entrance to the house is effected very easily. Whilst perpetrating the robbery in the bedroom of the miser he awakes, and in a struggle with Deepcar gets stabbed. This robbery and attempted murder the barmaid of the inn, Elfie, witnesses, and in the robber she believes she recognizes Bob Evans, enabling the real villain to escape for the time The scene where the robbery is committed is most effective. It is a quadruple set, and represents the bar-parlor and passage on the ground floor, with a staircase in the passage, and, above, the landing of the stair and the miser's bedrooom. To resume, every one believes in the guilt of poor Bob except a blind sailor named Joe Chirrup, and Elfie, who, in spite of her senses, feels convinced of his innocence. Even Rose thinks him guilty, and gives him up; but, after a train of circumstances, Elfie, with the assistance of Joe Chirrup, contrives to track the true criminals, whom she delivers up to justice, and thus establishes B.b's innocence. Filey, too, in the end, after having recovered from the wounds inflicted by Deepcar, find his whole nature changed, and turns out quite a pattern of charity, forgiving the Doctor his debts and acknowledging Elfie, who had officiated as the cook, house, maid, groom, barmaid, and boots, of the Cherry Tree Inn, to be his daughter. The whole of the dramatis personæ are brought together in the last scene; the villains in the hands of the constables, Rose and Evans in each other's arms, the villagers cheering, and Filey and the Doctor bestowing their blessings right and left, while Elfie, who has loved Bob, and been throughout the piece under a mistaken impression with regard to the state of his affections toward her, resolves to try and forget him: and Joe Chirrup, who loves Elfie, is left lamenting when the curtain falls. Miss Alice Dunning played the character of Elfie charming ly, being especially good in the last scene, where she constitutes herself a detective officer and brings Deepcar to justice. John McCullough was very good as the manly, true-hearted sailor, Bob Evans, playing the part in a refreshingly natural manner. W. H. Lingard gave a capital bit of character acting as Sadlove: Miss Walton played Rose excellently well, evincing by her acting careful study and intelligent appreciation of the part; a better representative of the character could not be found on any stage. W. H. Sedley Smith played the old Doctor in good style; J. T. Raymond was excellent as Filey; Jas. Carden filled the role of Deepcar satisfactorily; Henry Edwards was capital as Blind Joe, carefully avoiding making him a nuisance, as most stage blind men are, and the other characters were all competently filled. The scenery painted for this piece by Porter is very beautiful; the romantic woodland lane forming the second scene is so natural that one is transported to the country by gazing on it. The Cherry Tree Inn is one of the most beautiful scenes ever presented on any stage. A matter of-fact critic who knows all about cherry trees makes the following objections to that in which the inn is represented as embowered: first, that "a cherry tree cannot be trained so as to smother a house in the manner represented;" second, "there are too many cherries by a couple of thousand;" and thirdly, that "the cherries look far more like fuschia berries than fruit." While admitting that there is some justice in this criticism, we are willing to forget them while looking at the beautiful work of Mr. Porter. "Elfie" should and doubtless will draw crowded houses every night of its production, and we only regret that the Lingards' engagement closing so soon will compel its run to be prematurely stopped.

Prize Medals.

Messrs. Tuers & Brooks, managers of the Theatre Comique, offer three handsome medals as prizes for the best jig dancer, the best banjo player and the best clog dancer. The contest for the prize for dancing will take place at the Theatre Comique on Wednesday, the banjo trial on Thursday, and the clog dance on Friday evening. Numerous entries have already been made, and more are invited; all are free to enter. Applications can be made at the Theatre Comique. The medals will be on exhibition to-morrow, at Seaman's jewelry store, opposite Maguire's Opera House.

De Witt Tallmage.

This popular preacher and lecturer preached a powerful sermon at Calvary Church; every seat was occupied and the aisles were thronged. On Thursday evening he will deliver a lecture at Platt's Hall on the subject of "Grambler & Co."

Alhambra Theatre.

The Alhambra version of "The Grand Duchess" with the original music is very popular and draws large and fashionable audiences. A new finale to the attractive first part performance will be introduced to-night; it is entitled "The Darkey's Fright;" M. Ainsley Scott, S. S. Pardy and E. M. Hall take part in it. Vivian will to-night present some of his most popular characterizations and satirize in song the events of the day; the Sacramento Lottery, the Hoodlums, the Election, and many other matters which occupy the public mind; E. M. Hall will perform some of his best banjo solos and "The Grand Duchess" will conclude this capital evening's entertainment.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night will be the first of the Agatha States season of Italian Opera at the Metropolitan Theatre. Orchestra and chorus have been constantly rehearsing for weeks past and it is safe to prophesy that the opening opera, "Ernani," will be produced in a style which will leave but little to be desired. Mme. States as Elvira, Signor Cecchi Ernani, Signor Susini as Silva, Signor Orlandini as Charles the Fifth, Signor Carlos as Ricardo and Signor Roncovieri as Iago. The orchestra are under the direction of Signor P. Giorza. The Metropolitan Theatre will doubtless be crowded to-night by a large and fashionable audience.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Ella Wesner has an inexhaustible repertoire, and produces one after another in rapid succession the songs which are at present the rage in the London music halls, as sung by Lesbourne and Vance. George and Charles Reynolds excel in song and dance, and are very amusing in the sketch of "The Amador Band." The drama of "The Dumb Boy" draws much applause nightly. Aline Le Favre's pantomime is excellent; her fencing far surpasses Menken's, and she is ably supported by the company. R. G. Marsh being very good as the villain Malcour, Johnny Manning amusing as the Grand Vizier, R. H. Taylor a most impressive Boy, and the other members of the company well adapted to their respective parts.

Theatre Comique.

Miss Zelmar, the slack wire performer, is quite a card at this establishment; Frank Jones is an immense favorite and is encored again and again; "Carry the News to Mary," goes off capitally; Jimmy Murphy is the most popular of dancers, Lizzie Harmon, Rosa Vincent, Blanche, Clara Starr Eva Silva and the other lady members of the company are good in their respective lines of business and the programme is very attractive.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

A Western gentleman advertises for "a self-supporting wife."

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. NATURE'S DUALITY.

Whoever lives, lives not alone,
But by a procreative will;
Some kindred heart beats to his own,
And fills the void that one can fill.

The little songster of the wood
Sings not alone, nor sings in vain;
But in the cheerless solitude
Awakes a sweet companion strain.

And even in the sturdy tree
That has the storms of time defied,
There is a chord of sympathy
Awakened by its forest bride.

The streamlets to the river flow,
And rivers onward to the sea;
The dashing waves leap to and fro,
Embrace and kiss in ecstacy.

And thus by Nature's law designed,
Whatever is, is not alone;
Like flows to like, mind blends with mind,
And kindred spirits are as one.

We could not live, and live alone;
It matters not what we might will—
The heart congenial to our own
Must fill the void but one can fill.

Impertinent.

The San Jose Guide, speaking of Mrs. Stanton, says:

Mrs. Stanton's elocutionary powers are good; she is a learned woman; but her great mistake is—she doesn't curl her hair. She has a fine head of age-tinted hair, which could be made more beautiful if she would have it curled.

Mrs. Stanton looks quite well enough, and her mode of wearing her hair is most becoming. Is the editor of the San Jose Guide a barber?

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

The Rustic Window Shade

Is superior to any in market for cheapness, finish and durability, manufactured by Hollehan & Burbridge, 617 Mission, near corner of New Montgomery street.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that th former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

Silver Plating.

Articles from which the silver has been worn are received for re plating by Haynes & Lawton, Market street, under the Grand Hotel.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

The Champion and Pivot-action Braces.

THESE BRACES, IN THEIR PECULIAR construction, have all the advantages of Suspenders and Shoulder-Braces combined.

1st.—They do not disarrange the shirt-bosom.

2d.—They cannot slip off the shoulders.

3d.—They give no strain on the breast.

4th.—Each section of the pants can be adjusted independently.

5th.—By means of the adjustable back-strap, a gentle and powerful brace can be obtained.

6th.—Their ease and convenience commend them to everyone, and no person after using them will ever use the old-fashioned suspenders again.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort" Hotel in cheap enough. Charging low rates down to prove but Lodgings that is comfortable Lodgings are scarce and be had at a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco. But a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. Ewell has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and six rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of changing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who were found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. Ewell finds to an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

St. Joseph's Church Bazaar.

A bazaar for the benefit of St. Joseph's Church by the ladies of the congregation, is now being held in the new school building adjoining the church on 10th street. The Folsom or Howard street cars run close by. The bazaar is open every day and evening. The great attraction is the wonderful piece of tapestry, made by the ladies of the court of Louis XIV. This is a great curiosity in these days of sewing machines, and should be seen by every lady in San Francisco. The charge for admittance is only 50 cents to the fair, and 25 cents extra to the Art Gallery.

Fresh, Bright and Fashionable.

The grand annual clearing sale of Davidson & Co., at the White House will terminate to-morrow and the new stock will in a few days be displayed to the public. If the appearance of Miss Alice Dunning in three new dresses made a sensation, how much more will be caused by the gorgeous display of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of pomps and vanities at the White House.

What is the difference between an entrance to a barn and a loafer in a printing office?—One is a barn door and the other is a darn bore.

The Only Place

In this city for ladies' and gents' first-class boots and shoes is at F. X. Kast's, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite Alhambra Theatre.

A Popular Desideratum.

San Francisco as its population increases is being amply supplied with all the luxuries and elegancies of older cities. New establishments are springing up which are a credit and an ornament to the city. WINANT & Co. have just opened at No. 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and the Alhambra Theatres, the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON, where can be found oysters of every kind, cooked to order in every imaginable style. Delicious little suppers are there provided after the theatres, in beautifully furnished rooms for ladies and families, and altogether it bids fair to be the most popular institution in the city. The well-known reputation of Mr. WINANT, who has been a wholesale oyster dealer here for twenty years, and that of his partner, CHARLEY HAAKE, formerly of the "Antelope" and "Bay" oyster saloons, is sufficient to guarantee that the PACIFIC OYSTER SALOON will be conducted in every respect in a most unexcep ionable manner. *

Downy Sleep,

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest. *

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast. *

How the Boys Raided the Metropolitan Theatre Gallery.

The San Francisco boy, allowed to run wild in the streets, is not so witty as the gamin of Paris, and is certainly not so rude and insulting as the London vagabond; but from having more license allowed him than either of these two classes, he surpasses them both in daring and impudence. This was proved last week to the great amusement of everyone but those pecuniarily interested in the management of the Metropolitan Theatre. During the run of "Help," every night the attendance in the gallery increased until at last it became over-crowded, though there was found to be a remarkable discrepancy between the number of the gallery audience and the amount of the gallery receipts. The management had every confidence in the honesty of their treasurers and doorkeepers, but this increase in the gallery business and falling off in its cash receipts was most unaccountable. Orders were given that no free passes be issued to the gallery, and the gallery doorkeepers put their wits at work to discover the leak. On Friday night doorkeeper Rogers went up stairs and took a look. An immense sea of uncombed heads surged before him as he glanced over the gallery seats, and noisy and impatient demonstrations were being made to accelerate the rising of the curtain. The gallery was full, anxious and enthusiastic.

"A splendid gallery again to-night!" exclaimed Rogers, as he returned to the gallery office.

"There must be something wrong, then," said the frightened treasurer; "the sales are lighter than ever."

"We must find it out," said Rogers, who got a substitute ticket-taker and ascended on tip-toe the gallery stairs.

Just as his head reached above the level of the gallery floor he saw a young ragamuffin leap down from the north ventilating window, who gave the alarm and streaked it for th gallery seats. "Ha, ha! I have it!" exclaimed Rogers, as he made for the window just in time to see a pair of little legs disappear up a short ladder which led to an open ventilator in the roof. As he mounted the ladder to reconnoitre, he saw in the twilight a small army of boys of all sizes—boys in all conditions—boys in all kinds of clothes—clustering around the trap door in the roof of the United States Court building, which led by ladder to the hallway below. He gave a wild Camanche yell, and away they scampered over the flat roof, some taking refuge behind chimneys, others ran and threw themselves over the fire-wall of the adjoining building on Jackson street, while the few that remained disappeared down the trap door with the rapidity of chipmunks diving down a squirrel hole. In an instant there wasn't a boy to be seen on that roof. Officer Rogers removed that ladder—permanently removed that ladder—and returned to his post.

It would have done any old stager's heart good to have seen that gallery last Friday night. It was packed to its utmost capacity, and was the most enthusiastic gallery, too, ever known. They greeted everyody's appearance on the stage with the warmest demonstrations of pleasure, gave three cheers for FIGARO; called everybody out; applauded the musicians, and even welcomed the appearance of the theatre officer and the gallery doorkeepers at various times, with subdued applause. It was the most demonstrative, good-natured, most enthusiastic gallery we ever saw. On Saturday and Sunday the gallery boys were forced to resume their wonted channel of entrance, past the door keeper; and though the gallery was not as numerous and enthusiastic as it had been for several nights previous, yet, we are assured, it was more satisfactory and remunerative to the management.

We know not what incipient field engineer discovered this new passage whereby impecunious boys could enjoy the unspeakable delight of seeing "Help," Joe Murphy and Charley Backus in his imitations, without passing the treasurer and door-keepers, but his name deserves to be inscribed in letters of gold as a benefactor of the boy race. The time when the hole in the wall of the Metropolitan Theatre gallery was discovered will long live in boyish annals; the name of the youth who discovered it, is alas, unknown; the claimants to the honor are numerous, but proof is lacking of the right of anyone to the original discovery.

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry. *

Thirty Dollars.

French china breakfast, dinner, and tea set $30, at P. Douglas & Co's, 131 Kearny street. Other goods at same low rates. *

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. *

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street. *

Equal to the Task.

The Bible asks, "which of you by taking thought can add one cubit to his stature," the editor of the Golden City answers "I can," and proves that he thinks he can by giving an elaborate answer to a corroespondent who thus complains:

There is nothing as detrimental in my opinion to the personal appearance of a gentleman as that of being of small stature. I should like to be as tall as possible, and therefore beg you, who seem to know everything, to inform through your columns of some method conductive to growth. I am 18 years old, and only some 5 feet 3 inches high, and I have grown nothing for the past year and a half, which naturally makes me quite anxious.

The editor of the Golden City tells the correspondent to expand his lungs and then he'll grow. He complains that he "has grown nothing for the past year and a half." Let him grow whiskers next year and that will occupy his mind and divert his attention from his low stature.

The Sacramento Lottery.

Everyone heard with satisfaction that the prize of $15,000 had gone to a man in poor circumstances, and that a poor widow with a large family had won $10,000. Poor people are lucky sometimes. Tickets in the Omaha Gift Enterprise, at which $20,000, $15,000, and a number of other large prizes will be drawn, are going off rapidly. The Sacramento Lottery was first favorite and the Omaha now stands in its place as it will be the next to draw.

Important to Strangers.

ABRAHAM'S, 33 and 35 Second street, the place par excellence to procure fashionable clothing. Business suits made to order, $25; beaver suits to order, $40; pants to order, $8. All goods warranted to fit or no sale. Every reader must see that he can save from 25 to 35 per cent. by purchasing his clothes at the great cash clothing house of G. ABRAHAMS, 33 and 35 Second street.

What Cheer Laundry

Is the best laundry in San Francisco

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there. *

Lick House Wine Rooms.

All have admired the magnificent Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, kept by Porter & Lewis, which is the resort of all our fashionable young men. In the Lick House up-stairs Porter & Lewis have a Wine Room in which a connoisseur of good and rare wines could spend a delightful afternoon. Arranged on shelves are the vintages of the most famous years, classified. Clarets, sauternes, champagnes, burgundies, sherries, ports and Rhine wines of numberless varieties can be found there. Verily the patrons of the Lick House and the habitues of Porter & Lewis' Saloon and Billiard Room fare well when their wants are provided for with such taste and discrimination. *

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure. *

Everbody Buys Them.

What The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line. *

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The fashion, beauty and taste of San Francisco were well represented last night at the Metropolitan, dress circle and parquet being densely crowded and presenting a most brilliant appearance. A San Francisco opera audience is always cool, thinks enthusiasm is in "bad taste," and is afraid to make too much noise. Therefore Mme. Agatha States, our California prima donna, did not receive half the greeting she deserved on making her first appearance. The audience waited for "Ernani involami" before expressing any opinion; from Mme. States' performance of that they became aware that she who left us a mere singer had returned an artist: her method has been much improved by foreign study, and the chief fault that can be urged against her execution of the piece refer ed to was that it was lacking in passion. Cecchi, the tenor is unsatisfactory, we want the best tenor at half price and Cecchi is not the best. People who cannot afford to buy originals must be satisfied with chromos, and if the people of San Francisco are not willing to pay more for grand Italian Opera than they do for a circus, they can't get the best until a State appropriation is made for the encouragement of opera in California. Orlandini's voice is as fresh and beautiful as ever, and he sang splendidly: Susini's fine basso was heard to good advantage, and Signor Carlos, Signor Roncovieri and Mme. Yonkers all did well. To-night "Un Ballo in Maschera" will be given, with Miss Graziella Ridgway as Oscar the Page (her first appearance), Mme. States as Amelia, Signor Cecchi as Ricardo, Signor Orlandini as Renato, Signor Susini as Samuel, Signor Roncovicri as Tomaso, and Mrs. Julia Melville as Ulrica, the astrologer. This favorite opera will assuredly draw a crowded house.

Alhambra Theatre.

Last night, after a fine first part performance in which Louis Braham, Gustave Bidaux and others sang a fine selection of ballads, comic and sentimental, Vivian appeared in a new programme of character songs, including "Rolling Home in the Morning," and "I'm her Pa," in both of which he drew immense applause—the latter in particular making an immense hit. E. M. Hall followed in banjo solos, and the entertainment concluded with "The Grand Duchess." The same bill will be played to-night.

California Theatre.

Boucicault's drama of "Elfie; or, the Cherry-tree Inn" will be presented again to-night. We gave such a thorough description of plot, scenery and characters in yesterday's issue, that we have scarcely anything left to say, except that the play as a whole is the most enjoyable that has been produced in San Francisco for many months and should be seen by everyone.

Bella Union Theatre.

Ella Wesner, Aline Le Favre and the Reynolds Brothers have a repertoire sufficiently large to give an entertainment by themselves. At the Bella Union, besides these bright particular stars, a host of brilliant lights of the minstrel profession corruscate every evening.

Theatre Comique.

Variety is the spice of life, and variety is the spice of the entertainment given at the Theatre Comique. There is a little of everything in the programme—singing, dancing, acting, good music, gymnastic feats, and other entertainments.

A Circus at Last.

The people of San Francisco have had no cause to complain of a lack of amusements of late. We have had tragedy, comedy, French opera, Italian opera, concerts and lectures; but there is still a craving unsatisfied—we have had no circus this year. But we are to have one soon, and one that will satisfy everyone. The New York Circus is on its way hither; its advance agent, Mr. Thompson, is in town, making preliminary arrangements, and the tent will be pitched on the old circus lot early next week.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Cnailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Were "Figaro" Goes.

An edition of 1000 FIGAROS was distributed among the audience in the dress circle and parquet of the Metropolitan last night, and this is only one theatre out of five where FIGARO is distributed nightly as programme. A large edition goes every morning in all the hotels, saloons, stores and public places in the central portion of the city; other papers go off to the San Jose cars, the Oakland boats, the Vallejo boat, the Sacramento Boat; and still more to Marysville, to be circulated on the cars there. Our advertisers can judge for themselves, whether we may rightly boast that FIGARO is here there and everywhere.

Several Polish counts are on the way to America, and next Winter our restless belles will doubtless be flying from Pole to Pole.

Mere matter of form—Fitting a dress.

More About that "Humorous" Catalogue.

We can't let that thing alone. A "crisp, racy and humorous" catalogue! Indeed it is a new idea. But why can't we carry the idea still further and have a "crisp and racy" dictionary, or a side-splitting geography; or why can't the Y. M. C. Association publish a humorous tract entitled "The Comical Cannibal Catcher," or some equally expressive title? Why would it not be a good idea for our Methodist friends to publish a Comic Hymn Book adapting the words to such tunes as "Up in a Balloon, Boys," or "Pop Goes the Weasel." Indeed, the idea is capable of infinite expansion. We suggest titles for a few articles: "The Comical Side of Cholera;" "Funny Funerals;" "Diverting Deathbed Scenes," etc., etc. But here is another extract from the prospectus of the "Visitors' Guide," in which the publisher sinks the humorous for the practical, and estimates how many persons will read his Guide and Catalogue of the Mechanics' Fair:

According to the official report of the last exhibition, eighty thousand different persons visited it. It is, therefore, safe to presume that at least one hundred thousand persons will visit the ensuing Fair, and equally safe to say that seventy-five thousand of them will peruse to a greater or less extent this work. Therefore, it will be seen that as a vehicle for advertisements it rivals anything that has been published on this coast for years

He says he is going to sell them "dog cheap" or words to that effect, of course everybody will buy them and then picture the scene. The Pavilion in the evening: Ten thousand people present; all with a broad grin on their faces, reading the "Humorous Catalogue;" roars of laughter from the galleries; broad smiles in the Horticultural department—snickering in the picture gallery—haw-haws in the agricultural department; purple faces everywhere; buttons flying; handkerchiefs in requisition; hilarity rampant. We tremble for apoplectic persons. O spare them Mr. Publisher! don't be too funny.

In bed we laugh, in bed we cry,
Are born in bed, in bed we die;
How near approach a bed may show
Of human bliss to human woe!

Why is a very pretty, well-made, fashionable girl like a thrifty, housekeeper? Because she has made a great bustle about a very small waist.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

HEAVEN.

I have it in my heart to serve God so
That into Paradise I shall repair—
That holy place, through the which everywhere
I have heard say that joy and solace flow,
Without my lady I were loth to go—
She who has the bright face and the bright hair;
Because if she were absent, I being there,
My pleasure would be less than naught, I know.
Look you, I say not this to such intent
As that I there would deal in any sin;
I only would behold her gracious mien,
And beautiful soft eyes and lovely face
That so it should be my complete content
To see my lady joyful in that place.

Takes it Back.

The Bulletin yesterday took back its false assertion that Samuel Tetlow, the manager of the Bella Union Theatre was arrested for "misdemeanor in keeping a low melodeon," and tells the truth, viz., that he was by an oversight ten days behind hand in paying his license. We presume the reporter who invented the false story will be careful in future.

Why is your chamber-maid immortal? Ans.: She returns to dust every day without even shuffling off the mortal coil.

Why are pigs like fashionable women? Ans.: Because they each carry a curl behind.

The Amador war has broken out afresh.

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how rediculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever,

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough. Clothing has come down to price. But Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and bid fair to rule high. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. I. J. Ewell has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and fifty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House in order to make his two houses,

The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known. Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. Ewell finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a homeless visitor.

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

C. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

533 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

Below Montgomery Block.

WEDNESDAY.....JULY 26, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

New Music.

We have received from the publisher, M. Gray, copies of the popular songs sung by C. Vivian at the Alhambra, "Castles in the Air," "Ten Thousand Miles Away," "Wait for the Turn of the Tide," etc. The title-page of each is adorned with a capital photograph likeness of Charles Vivian, the most artistic character singer on this side of the Atlantic.

Tranquility.

Tranquility is the wish of all; the good, while pursuing the track of virtue; the great, while following the star of glory; and the little, while creeping in the eyes of dissipation, sigh for tranquility, and make it the great object which they ultimately hope to obtain.

Curran.

There never was a wit at the bar so ready as Curran. Upon one occasion, when he had laid down some points which did not find favor in the eyes of the presiding judge, Lord Claire said: "If that be law I may as well burn my books." "Better read them, my lord," replied Curran.

The following is from a valuable agricultural journal: "Don't let your cattle stray away; they wander to the most mysterious places; we once saw a cow hide in a shoemaker's shop."

A Wyoming woman complains that hundreds af her sex refuse to vote in that Territory unless coaxed to do se by the good-looking men.

"Say—did yer ever go the theatre and see Ned Forrest take off Othello? Gad! how mad he gets at his wife. It's as good as a play."

Punch gallantly says: "What in a woman is called curiosity, in a man is grandiloquently magnified into the spirit of inquiry."

To rise early requires quickness of decision; it is one of those subjects which admits of no turning over.

When was Richard the Third a violent teetotaller? When he stopped King Henry's bier.

Why should vessels be the envy of all singers. Because they can go to Sea (C) natural.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. Hug & Schmidt, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents.

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, en trance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night.

New Furnishing Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Downy Sleep.

We don't believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense, and will venture to say it is the finest on the Pacific Coast.

The Art of Snubbing.

How many people there are in the world who can be rendered endurable, and kept in their proper positions only by the most constant snubbing, and alas! how few there are in the world who understand the art of snubbing. The Graphic discoursing on the subject of snubbing, says: "Inartistic snubbing, crude, archaic, undigested snubbing of the sledge-hammer order, is a thing that comes by nature. You see it from the earliest age, when Jacky just four, snubs Jenny, just three, and tell her to hold her tongue; she is only a little girl, and don't know nothing about it.

"But artistic snubbing—the snubbing which is done with a purpose beyond the original instinct of self-assertion, and the expression of rivalry—the snubbing that is keen as a rapier, subtle as a flame, swift as a lightning flash; the snubbing that is offered with the most perfect good breeding and command of temper, but that stings and bites, and of which the smart remains—this is snubbing raised to the level of an æsthetic art, and one which takes ne mean gifts of mind and manner to render effective in substance and irreproachable in form. Polite society, and the more polite the better, is the parade ground where the art is exercised to perfection. Here all the rapiers have silver handles, but the blade is trenchant and strikes home. There is no brutal bludgeon work—no telling a man to his face that he lies, that he boasts, that he presumes, that he is a scoundrel, or an intruder, as would be in a ruder state of manners; but the expression of superb disdain is conveyed as daintily, as airily in the well-bred snub as the poison that once lurked in a perfumed glove. And if the victim winces at the pain, at least he cannot complain of its method of administration. Nor can he retaliate. For snubbing is not, like fencing, a game for two, but emphatically an art for one only. When it ceases to be singular, and becomes dual, it ceases to be snubbing and becomes a quarrel.

"People unused to snubbing, who go where the art is practiced, are amazed at the quietness which the patient receives impertinences which thrill them with indignation to hear. They expect some kind of protest, if only of the mildest kind, when the wife looking across the table, says in a clear voice, audible to a whole company: "John, you have told that story so often you seem to imagine it true; you know it never happened;" or when the husband cuts his wife short in her narration by setting her to rights, altering her dates, rearranging her facts, paring off her details, and so on, giving you to understand by the manner of his snub that she is a fool and he is the possessor of a superior wisdom, which makes you long to kick him on the spot. But the husband accepts the rebuke with the patience of a pachyderm tickled by a straw, and the wife subsides into her assigned position of insignificance and inaccuracy; and both display a sweetness under discipline, saintly if you will, but surely to the deeper insight, tragic on the one hand and slavish on the other.

An angry Western editor wrote to a poetical correspondent the other day: "If you don't stop sending to me your infernal poetry I'll print a piece of it some day with your name appended in full, and send a copy to your gal!" The poetry from that fountain was quietly dried up.

I don't know where that boy got his bad temper. I am sure not from me." "Certainly not, my dear; I am sure you haven't lost any."

"A splendid ear but a very poor voice," as the man said of the donkey.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

"The Lottery Fever Abating."

The Bulletin and Call persistently publish articles with the above heading, but they do not seem to have much effect on the sale of tickets in the various enterprises which the public are confident will shortly distribute prizes. One of the most popular of these is the gift concert of the Woodland Benevolent Association, which will take place at Washington Hall, in aid of the Public School, Fire Department and Benevolent Orders of Woodland. 1143 gifts will be distributed, ranging from $20,000 down to $20, and tickets are selling rapidly, at $2 50 each.

"The Daily Plebeian."

This is the title of a paper which made its appearance on Monday. It is published by the Plebeian Publishing Company. It denies being a campaign paper. it only intends to be a plebeian paper. That is the platform it stands on. It is a mean-looking little paper; a very mean, despicable-looking little plebeian paper. We don't think it will live; we don't think it ought to live.

"Is that Mr. Greeley's signature?" asked an innocent person, pointing to a little woodcut in Carleton's advertisment of "What I Know About Farming." "No, that's a picture of a new sub-soil plough."

A Philadelphia paper calls fast bookeepers "spotted adders."

Lick House Wine Rooms.

All have admired the magnificent Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, kept by Porter & Lewis, which is the resort of all our fashionable young men. In the Lick House up-stairs Porter & Lewis have a Wine Room in which a connoisseur of good and rare wines could spend a delightful afternoon. Arranged on shelves are the vintages of the most famous years, classified. Clarets, sauternes, champagnes, burgundies, sherries, ports and Rhine wines of numberless varieties can be found there. Verily the patrons of the Lick House and the habitues of Porter & Lewis' Saloon and Billiard Room fare well when their wants are provided for with such taste and discrimination.

WEDNESDAY.....JULY 26, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This fine theatre was crowded again last night and the dress circle was as pretty as a bed of flowers from the brilliancy of the toilettes of the ladies Verdi's charming opera of "Un Ballo in Maschera" was performed, Signor Cecchi was in better voice than on the preceding evening; Madame States sang the role of Amelia well and won much applause for "solo an detto," in Act III, which she rendered with much feeling; Signor Orlandini in the same scene fairly brought down the house and sang the part of Renato finely throughout. The part of Ulrica was committed to Mrs. Melville, and though not quite equal to it she did her best with it. Miss Graziella Ridgway, who made her debut before a San Francisco audience on this occasion and performed the part of Oscar, made a favorable impression at once by her youth, good looks and prettily-saucy bearing. She has a pleasant, bird-like voice and some good notes in the upper register. She received an enthusiastic encore for "Saper Vorreste" in the ball room scene and has succeeded in establishing herself as a favorite with our peculiar public. Those who appreciate good music enjoyed themselves last night and did not grumble because they were not listening to Nilsson and Mario for a dollar and a half ticket. The opera is pleasing and quite good enough for the money. The next opera night will be Thursday, when the ever-popular opera of "Crispino e la Comare" will be presented. On the following night "Faust" will be performed, and on Saturday there will be a matinee.

Since the above was written we learn that the equally popular "Barbiere," with Orlandini as Figaro, will be substituted for "Crispino" tomorrow night. We suppose this change is made by the management in compliment to us, the house programme of the opera, and shall duly appreciate it, Thanks.

Alhambra Theatre.

The first part, consisting of good music by the orchestra under the able directorship of George T. Evans, and singing by Louis Braham, Gustave Bidaux and others, is followed by Vivian in his characteristic sketches and hits at the follies of the day, local and foreign. "The Grand Duchess" concludes the evening's entertainment.

California Theatre.

The very attractive drama of "Elfie, or the Cherry Tree Inn," with its beautiful scenery, well drawn characters and thrilling situations, will be repeated this evening. On Thursday evening W. H. Lingard will take his farewell benefit, and present his sketches for the last time.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Ella Wesner continues to delight the patrons of the Bella Union Theatre with her clever character impersonations and dashing songs. Aline Le Favre is great in pantomime and fencing in "The Dumb Boy;" the Reynolds Brothers are as popular as ever, and the amusement is kept up without flagging. More novelties are in preparation.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Jones, Lizzie Harmon, Eva Silva, Rose Vincent, Rosa Durand, Miss Zelmar, Johnny Tuers, Jake Wallace, Blanche and half a score more favorite artistes will all appear in the capital programme published on our first page. Miss Maggie Knight, "the little wonder," is underlined to appear on Thursday.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

A Fair Proposition.

We are authorized to say that Pipifax Bitters will be given free of charge to those suffering from dyspepsia, biliousness, indigestion, inaction of the liver and loss of appetite, to convince them that they can find permanent relief by drinking that valuable tonic. Go and try it at Shaeffer, Walter & Co's, 302 Battery st. •

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location. •

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at a lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low •

Drs. Macbeth & Grattan's

Medical Institute, No. 322 Bush street, opposite Alhambra Theatre, San Francisco.—Specific and chronic diseases made a specialty, and cures guaranteed in every case according to agreement, or no charge. •

DeWitt Tallmage on Spectacles.

DeWitt Tallmage, who preached on Sunday at Calvary Church and will lecture on Thursday evening at Platt's Hall on "Grumbler & Co.," has a lecture entitled "Spectacles," from which we make the following extract:

Your neighbor's first great idea in life is a dollar; the second idea is a dollar—making in all two dollars. The smaller ideas are cents. Friendship is with him a mere question of loss and gain. He will want your name on his note. Every time he shakes hands he estimates the value of such greeting. He is down on Fourth of Julys and Christmas days, because on them you spend money instead of making it. He has reduced everything in life to vulgar fractions. He has been hunting all his life for the cow that had the golden calf. He has cut the Lord's Prayer on the back of a three cent piece, his only regret that he has spoiled the piece. He has calculated how much the interest would have been on the widow's "two mites," if she had only kept them till now. He thinks that the Celestial City with pavements of gold is a great waste of bullion. No steel or bone eye-glass would fit the bridge of his nose. Through what does he look? Gold spectacles, my dear, gold spectacles.

Good Nature.

One cannot imagine any quality of the mind whence greater advantages can arise to society than good nature, seeing that man is a social being, not made for solitude, but for conversation. Good nature not only lessens the sorrows of life, but increases its comforts. It is more agreeable than beauty, or even wit. It gives a pleasing expression to the countenance, and increases a multitude of the most amiable observations.

Across the Bay.

Many prefer to live across the Bay, and come to San Francisco to business every day, but in these hard times, half a dollar a day was a serious item. The establishment of the Creek Route, and the reduction of the fare on the pretty little steamer Chin du Wan, is a great accomodation to those living across the Bay.

Childhood.

Childhood is like the mirror, catching and reflecting images all around it. Remember that an impious or profane thought uttered by a parent's lips may operate upon a young heart like a careless spray of water thrown upon a polished steel, staining it with rust, which no after scouring can efface.

Memory.

Memory presides over the past; action over the present. The first lives in a temple hung with glorious trophies, and lined with tombs; the other has no shrine but duty, and it walks the earth like a spirit.

During the riots of 1780, most persons in London, in order to save their houses from being burnt or pulled down, wrote on their doors, "No Popery!" Old Grimaldi, to avoid all mistakes, wrote, "No religion!"

A cute young wife says: "When I want a nice snug day all to myself, I tell George mother is coming, and then I see nothing of him until one o'clock in the morning."

Correction does much, but encouragment will do more. Encouragement after censure is like the sun after a shower.

"Miss Jones.

Where are you going?" "I'm going to buy a pair of French Kid Boots." "Where?" "Why, Mr. Brown, what a question. Why, where everybody gets theirs, at F. X. Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre. •

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

The Rustic Window Shade

Save Your Money.

The Land Mortgage Union is the best place to invest your savings. 50 cents per fortnight amounts, in about eight years, to $250. Investers can withdraw their funds after twelve months with withdrawal rate of interest. Call at the office, 123 Post street, for information. •

The Best is the Cheapest.

J. W. Tucker & Co. have the finest assortment of Jewelry, diamonds, watches, watch-chains, onyx sets, lockets, opera chains, of the finest make, and medallions, of all kinds, ever offered for sale in this city, and their prices are low. •

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices. •

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco. •

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. SHAEBER & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding. x

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

MONEY.

Money borrowed is a foe
Veiled in kindly seeming;
Money wasted is a friend
Lost beyond redeeming.

Hoarded, it is like a guest
Won with anxious seeking,
Giving nothing for his board
Save the care of keeping.

Spent in good, it leaves a joy
Twice its worth behind it;
And who thus hath lost it here,
Shall hereafter find it.

Matrimony.

When bent on matrimony, look more than skin deep for beauty, dive further than the pocket for worth, and search for temper beyond the good humor of the moment, remembering it is not always the most agreeable partner at a ball who forms the most amiable partner for life. Virtue, like some flowers, blooms often fairest in the shade.

Wicked Insinuation.

Harry—Your dawg is wery thin, William.

William—He is wery bad, but when he dies I am goin' to stuff him, Harry.

Harry (insinuatingly)—Hadn't you better stuff him afore he dies?

It seems quite probable that the women in Washington will secure one point the coming session, viz: The equality of the sexes in pay and position in all branches of the civil service.

Brigham Young would "sooner send for the sexton than the doctor."

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how rediculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them. •

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit. •

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry. •

Industrial Depot, New Mont. street.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever. •

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

Silver Plating.

Articles from which the silver has been worn are received for re-plating by Haynes & Lawton, Market street, under the Grand Hotel. •

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House. •

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre. •

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

The Newspaper of To-Day.

Under this head the Springfield Republican has the following altogether sensible remarks: "Just now the newspaper press is in a transition stage. The editors of strong individuality, like James Gordon Bennett and Horace Greeley, who have come down to us like vast boulders on the glaciers of time, stand solitary and alone, and belong to a different age from our own. The men who are now taking the lead, and who will succeed to their places, have more culture and cleverness, and are better trained than their predecessors, while they are no less earnest and animated by lofty aims. The Bohemian class has been eliminated, and however we may admire their brilliant talent, their fate was well deserved. The representative editor is now a gentleman and a family man. He does not haunt saloons nor indulge in dissipation. He pays his way, asks no favors, 'is not puffed up,' neither does he puff up others; works regularly and not spasmodically, and has some idea of the dignity and responsibility as well as license of his calling. With this improved type of journalist has begun a new style of writing. Bombast, stilted rhetoric, alliteration, and constant straining for effect, are being replaced by simplicity and vigor of logic, genuine wit and humor, and courtesy of tone. We hear less personal abuse, invective and malicious satire, and more sound reasoning in discussion."

Transparent.

We present the following as a specimen of the "transparent local notice:" "We had the pleasure of a call yesterday from "Dew Drop" Peterson, the prince of bar keepers and affable gentlemen, and was glad to see him in the enjoyment of good health and usual flow of lively spirits. Peterson, we would be glad to try a demijohn of your best, like that you sent the Bulletin."

The table on which the Versailles peace preliminaries were signed has been presented to Prince Bismarck as a souvenir, and stands in his wife's room, a small silver plate recording its historic significance.

English ritualistic clergymen want to exclude female voices from the choirs of all the churches. They are unwilling to give women any chants.

The Only Place

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. Hug & Schmidt, Successors to P. J. Bailly, Agents.

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Grusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon at Cached. Open day and night.

Downy Sleep.

We do believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to assure a good night's rest.

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building, which is fitted up regardless of expense.

The Overland Monthly.

The Overland Monthly for August is just out. "An Early Hero of the Pacific," by Rev. T. Somerville, is a very well written account of Douglas, the naturalist on this coast. "Auctions and Auctioneers," by N. S. Dodge, is pleasant reading for those who have not seen the same matter in a different shape in English magazines. "The Disappearance of Robert Fairway, by John Armstrong, jr., is a thrilling romance founded on a game of bean poker, a young lawyer, a Spaniard and an account of a murder committed near Santa Cruz some three months ago as related in the Times of that place, the scene being changed to Placerville and the date set back many years—altogether too fresh a murder to use. "Two Pictures," by C. D. I., are prettily drawn in verse. "Some Suggestions for a Book," by Leonard Kip, is a pretentious paper, stiffly written, serving only as padding matter. "Bermuda," by M. L. H., is a very pleasant account of a delightful groups of islands, with some interesting historical facts neatly warmed up. "Vinnie Ream," by E. G. Waite, occupies seven pages—perhaps two or three pages more than necessary, but the writer succeeds in gaining the sympathy of the reader for the young sculptress, which is the chief design of the paper.

The solid, valuable contribution to this number of the Overland is "Mining on the Pacific Coast; its Dead Works and Dark Phases," by Henry Degroot. This is a sad history of labor and capital misspent, a journey through a Golgotha of dead mines, and contains a valuable lesson for the miner of the future. "The Darwinian Eden," by M. G. Upton, is a gay and sportive giggle at Darwin's philosophical essay. It is all about monkey's tails and big toes, and is pleasant reading for children who always think a monkey is funny, and would think Darwin dull reading. Mr. Upton will suit many more people than Darwin, he's so funny. "Beyond," by M. B. W., is a pleasing little poem (the poetry in this number averages well). "Ideal Womanhood," No. III., by Mrs. Sarah B. Cooper, is as good as the preceding numbers. "Harry Meiggs in Peru," by Chas. A. Wetmore, is a very interesting account of one of the most wonderfully energetic men of the present day. Anti-subsidy men will be shocked at the subsidies granted to Mr. Meiggs by the Peruvian Government; all who believe that one man is as good as another will be astonished at what one brain has accomplished in Peru. "How I Got the Pirate's Treasure," by J. J. Robins (who killed The Californian, the best literary paper ever published on this coast, if not on this continent) is a mild, meandering story about an old Spanish ghost and some jars of gold, filling seven pages of the Overland. To save our readers the trouble of reading the story, we will tell them how J. J. Robins got the Pirate's treasure—he dug it up. "In Adversity," by Ina D. Coolbrith, is a poem of a high order of merit, full of religious fervor and love. "The East at Yosemite," by Prentice Mulford, is a pleasantly satirical sketch of the Eastern visitors who come to see our sights. "Etc." has a good rebuke of newspaper correspondents who puff worthless books for pay, and "Current Literature" contains a notice of the poems of Joaquin Miller which gives one a fair idea of their beauties and their faults.

The August number of the Overland is not a brilliant one, but it is readable, and contains some valuable information.

The New Flash Phrase.

In New York, "You know how it is yourself" is getting out of date. The latest slang retort is, "He was always that way." That is the midsummer style.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

What is Glucolein?

German Emigration.

It was expected by German statesmen, and foretold by the German press, that the unification of their country would result in a cessation of emigration and the return of thousands already gone abroad. Both, however, are meeting with disappointment. Emigration is resumed with a vigor that bids fair to make up for lost time. Every outward-bound ship is crowded, and the emigration officers have more applications than they can possibly attend to.

During the height of the riot in New York, there was one ludicrous feature, suggestive of the Paris Commune, and that was the peripatetic photographers manipulating their instruments in the thick of the scrimmage, with all the coolness and lack of personal interest with which the veteran fisher handled his rod at the Anteuil bridge.

There is extant a small, badly-drawn sketch, which represents a ragged Irishman flourishing a shillelah, and near him a Scotch piper with his pibroch under his arm. The Irishman is supposed to be saying, "Play the 'Boyne Water' softly, jist to see how long I could stand it."

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge.

Lick House Wine Rooms.

All have admired the magnificent Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, kept by Porter & Lewis, which is the resort of all our fashionable young men. In the Lick House up-stairs Porter & Lewis have a Wine Room in which a connoisseur of good and rare wines could spend a delightful afternoon. Arranged on shelves are the vintages of the most famous years, classified. Clarets, sauternes, champagnes, burgundies, sherries, ports and Rhine wines of numberless varieties can be found there. Verily the patrons of the Lick House and the habitues of Porter & Lewis' Saloon and Billiard Room fare well when their wants are provided for with such taste and discrimination.

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, A hambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The beautiful drama of "The Cherry-tree Inn"—one of the best of Boucicault's productions—will be presented to-night and to-morrow night for the benefit of William Horace Lingard and Miss Alice Dunning. On Saturday night, John T. Raymond, the popular comedian of the California Theatre, will take his farewell benefit and positively make his last appearance in California, that is for a year or so! all will hope to see him and his charming wife back some of these days.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night 'Il Barbiere di Siviglia" will be presented, with Signor Orlandini as Figaro, Mme. Slates as Rosina, Signor Cecchi as Conte D'Almaviva, Signor Susini as Don Bartolo, Mons. Charles as Don Basilio and Mme. Demens as Bertha. This opera has always been a favorite with our public and will doubtless draw a large house.

Alhambra Theatre.

To-night a capital first part will be given ending with the very comical scene of "The Darkey's Fright;" Vivian will present new selections from his portfolio of Cosmopolitan photographs; E. M. Hall will execute some of his best banjo solos and the burnt cork version of "La Grand Duchess" will end the entertainment. An amusing burlesque of "Elfie; or, the Cherry-tree Inn," is in rehearsal and will be produced on Saturday.

Bella Union Theatre.

Those who have seen and admired C. Vivian and W. H. Lingard, should not fail to see Ella Wesner in her character songs at the Bella Union Theatre. "The Dumb Boy," with Aline Le Favre in the leading character is still running and the female army are becoming more experienced in their drill every night. Their is a report that the Bella Union army is to go to Amador, so that those who wish to see them should visit this theatre to-night.

Theatre Comique.

Miss Zelmarie, the slack wire performer; Frank Jones, the Lively Moke; Lizzie Harmon, the popular vocalist; Clara Starr, Rose Durand, Jimmy Murphy and many more will appear to-night in a rich and varied programme. In consequence of the professional jiggists, cloggists and banjoists not being able to contest in the evening for the medals awarded by the management of this theatre; the prize medal contest has been postponed until Sunday afternoon, when it will come off at Hayes Park. Medals on exhibition at Seaman's, opposite the Opera House.

Platt's Hall.

De Witt Tallmage, of whom Fame speaks highly as one of the most popular lecturers of the day, will deliver his first lecture in California at Platt's Hall to-night, choosing for his subject, "Grumbler & Co." As there are at present a few grumblers in San Francisco, if they will only send a fair sized delegation the hall will be filled. A humorous lecturer like Mr. Tallmage can always command a good house.

Woodward Gardens.

The skating assemblies are patronized very liberally by the visitors to the Gardens, some of them taking the position of spectators, and others going there for love of the exciting pastime.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

New Talent for the California Theatre.

Miss Helen Tracy, who will be remembered by all our theatre-goers as a member of Maguire's Opera House company several years ago, has returned to this city and will become a regular member of the California Theatre company next season. Mr. James Williamson and Mr. Owen Marlowe, also engaged for the coming season at the California, will make their first appearance next week. Mr. Williamson will make his bow on Monday evening in the farce of "The Irish Emigrant," and Mr. Marlowe on the evening following in "Cool as a Cucumber."

A Fair Proposition.

We are authorized to say that Pipifax Bitters will be given free of charge to those suffering from dyspepsia, biliousness, indigestion, inaction of the liver and loss of appetite, to convince them that they can find permanent relief by drinking that valuable tonic. Go and try it at Shaeffer, Walter & Co's, 302 Battery st.

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location.

The Best is the Cheapest.

J. W. T[illegible]er & Co. have the finest assortment of Jewelry, diamonds, watches, watch-chains, onyx sets, lockets, opera chains, of the finest make, and medallions, of all kinds, ever offered for sale in this city, and their prices are low.

Drs. Macbeth & Grattan's

Medical Institute, No. 322 Bush street, opposite Alhambra Theatre, San Francisco.—Specific and chronic diseases made a specialty, and cures guaranteed in every case according to agreement, or no charge.

Laying it on Thick.

Some critics are utterly devoid of conscience. If a girl is pretty and excites their admiration for her personal charms, they will unblushingly pronounce her an artiste of a high order, without caring at all for the falsehood of the assertion being evident to the public. They do not blush for their attempt to deceive the public, nor care for the injury they do a young and rising artist by absurd flattery. This is what the Chronicle says about Miss Ridgway, of the Agatha States' Troupe:

Excepting Adelaide Phillipps, we never have had such a contralto, and we venture to say that Miss Ridgway will, at the close of the season, excel in popularity even the famed Bostonian.

What is the use of this? Mis Ridgway is pretty, has a pleasing voice as yet undeveloped, an arch and piquante style, and it is well enough to say this in print; but to venture say that "Miss Ridgway will at the close of the season, excel in popularity the famed Bostonian," Adelaide Phillips! This is for the critic to venture to write himself down a donkey, or the public of San Francisco idiots; as far as appreciation of such an artiste as Adelaide Phillips is concerned.

Honor the Scissors.

The American Newspaper Reporter has some very sensible remarks under the above title, which we subjoin: "Some people, ignorant of what good editing is, imagine the getting up of selected matter to be the easiest work in the world to do, whereas it is the nicest work that is done on a paper. If they find the editor with scissors in hand they are sure to say, 'Eh! that's the way you get up original matter, eh!" accompanying their new and witty questions with an idiotic wink or smile. The facts are, that the interest, the morality, the variety and usefulness of a paper depend, in no small degree, upon its selected matter, and few men are capable of the position who would not themselves be able to write many of the articles they select. A sensible editor desires considerable selected matter, because he knows that one mind cannot make so good a paper as five or six.

One of the most important rules of the science of manners is an almost absolute silence in regard to yourself.

Oak and linden trees are being planted in all the German villages in honor of victory and peace.

At the Cape of Good Hope, diamonds which bring less than fifty dollars are considered "fault stones."

First-class Custom-made

Children's shoes are to be had at East's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street, open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

The Rustic Window Shade

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. SHABER & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding.

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

THE LOWLY LIFE.

BY GERALD MASSEY.

A little flower so lowly grew,
So lonely was it left,
That heaven looked like an eye of blue
Down its little cleft.

What could a little flower do
In such a darksome place,
But try to reach that eye of blue,
And climb to kiss heaven's face?

And there's no life so lone and low
But strength may still be given,
From the narrow'st lot on earth to grow
The straighter up to heaven.

"Clara, I love but thee alone!" thus sighed the tender youth; "O, hear me, then, my passion own with trembling lips and earnest tones. Indeed, I speak the truth." He paused—the blush o'erspread her cheek; she let him draw her near scarce for emotion could she speak, yet did she ask, in accents meek, "How much have you a year?"

In New York it is announced that the fashionable ornament for the centre of dinner tables just now is a large block of ice lying on a broad silver receiver, surrounded with flowers and green vines. It is one of the most eye-comforting things imaginable.

A Louisville editor regreted that Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony went to the Pacific Coast in June, as that was a little late in the season for Camanches and too early for Arapahoes.

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Industrial Depot, New Mont. street.

Orders received for sewing by the Magdalens. Machines rented by the day or week.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

Silver Plating.

Articles from which the silver has been worn are received for re-plating by Haynes & Lawton, Market street, under the Grand Hotel.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P. M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

The Way to Succeed.

Fortune, success, fame, position are never gained but but by piously, determinedly, bravely sticking, growing, living to a thing till it is fairly accomplished. In short you must carry a thing through if you want to be anybody or anything. No matter if it do cost you the pleasure, the society, the thousand pearly gratifications of life. No matter for these. Stick to the thing and carry it through. Believe you were made for the matter, and that no one else can do it. Put forth your own energies. Be awake, electrify yourself, and go forth to the task. Only once learn to carry a thing through in all its completeness and proportion, and you will become a hero. You will think better of yourself; others will think better of you. The world in its very heart admires the stern, determined doer. It sees in him its best sight, its brightest object, its richest treasure. Drive right along, then, in whatever you undertake. Consider yourself amply sufficient for the deed. You'll be successful.

Oak and linden trees are being planted in all the German villages in honor of victory and peace.

Great Britain spends as much in two days on liquors as she does in a year on foreign missions.

Downy Sleep.

We do believe a bed of roses would be very comfortable, but we are sure that beds at the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, are absolutely perfect, from the report of those who have tried them. Spring beds, elastic mattresses, blankets made of the finest California wool, and sheets of spotless whiteness all combine to insure a good night's rest.

John G Hayden

Has removed his old established hair dressing saloon to the new and spacious store, 218 Bush street, in the Mercantile Library Building.

How a Duel Originated.

Mayne Reid, the prolific author of wild stories for little and big children, was once a gallant soldier, and distinguished himself in the Mexican war. After the capture of the City of Mexico he was wont to empty his trunk in adorning his handsome person before calling on the fair Guadaloupe, and while so doing would stir up his enthusiasm by reciting poetry, much to the wrath and disgust of his fellow officers, who had no fine clothes and no loves. One day while dressing he roared out—

"At midnight in his guarded tent
The Turk lay dreaming of the hour
When Greece her knee——"

"I say, Reid," interrupted Ned Marshall "why did she grease her knees?" "What?" "You said 'grease her knees,' now the question that agitates the country is, why did she grease her knees?" The gay lieutenant gazed for a moment in blank amazement, and said sternly: "You're a fool." A duel was the consequence, in which Ned Marshall, with his usual luck, got the worst of it.

Ill Luck.

Some men make themselves miserable by indulging in a belief that they were born under an unlucky star, and that everything is bound to go wrong with them. Of this kind is our friend Simpkins. Simpkins says that he is the most unlucky fellow on earth. If he had a herd of gazelles they would all die, gold itself turns to base metal at his touch. He bought a ticket in the Sacramento Lottery, sold it three days before the drawing, and it won $50." "Just my luck!" exclaimed Simpkins. He came to us yesterday cursing his luck as usual; we asked him what was the matter." "Just my luck again," said Simpkins, "You know I ride a good deal on the Omnibus Railroad, well, the other day, I thought I might as well buy a supply of tickets, bought five dollars worth at the rate of six and a quarter cents a piece, next day, by Jove! Company reduced the price to four cents. Just my luck, lose two cents and a quarter a ticket!"

De Lunatico Inquirendo.

All will be grieved to learn that a commission in lunacy has been appointed in the case of R. G. Marsh. The unfortunate gentleman has been getting gradually worse for some time. Last night he asked "Why is San Francisco News Letter like the works of a favorite novelist?" While his friends were tearfully regarding him and mourning over the wreck of a noble intellect, he smiled sadly and answered himself thus: "Because it contains the naughty Call jokes of Marriott." Those who wish to see the unfortunate gentleman before his removal to the Insane Asylum, Stockton, will please call at the Bella Union Theatre to-night.

Thomas Devine.

By a notice in another column, it will be perceived that Thomas Devine has been expelled from the Council of Industrial Reformers.

Reduced Prices.

Guerin & Kelly, prize boot and shoe makers, 327 and 329 Bush street. Must sell $35,000 worth of boots and shoes within 60 days. Call and examine our stock.

Lick House Wine Rooms.

All have admired the magnificent Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, kept by Porter & Lewis, which is the resort of all our fashionable young men. In the Lick House up-stairs Porter & Lewis have a Wine Room in which a connoisseur of good and rare wines could spend a delightful afternoon. Arranged on shelves are the vintages of the most famous years, classified. Clarets, sauternes, champagnes, burgundies, sherries, ports and Rhine wines of numberless varieties can be found there. Verily the patrons of the Lick House and the habitues of Porter & Lewis' Saloon and Billiard Room fare well when their wants are provided for with such taste and discrimination.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

Euphrosyne's Enameline.

A delicate ENAMEL, imparting an irresistible elegance and refinement to the face. Price 50 cents. Wilson & Co., southeast corner of Fifth and Mission streets.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

☞ Industrial Reformers, Attention!—Grand Council Industrial Reformers, Tuesday, July 25th, 1871.—At a meeting of the Grand Council of the Industrial Reformers, held under this date, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted and ordered published in the public press:

Whereas, The fundamental principles of the Order of Industrial Reformers are based on the honesty and probity of each member; and whereas, THOMAS DEVINE, a member of the Order and also a member of the Grand Council, has under oath announced publicly that he has deviated from all rules governing a man of honor and honesty, as proclaimed in his testimony published in the daily papers; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Grand Council of Industrial Reformers, now assembled, do, in justification of the honor of the Order, expel the said THOMAS DEVINE from the Grand Council, and direct the branches of which he is a member to refuse him admittance or recognize him as a member of the Order.

By order of the Grand Council.

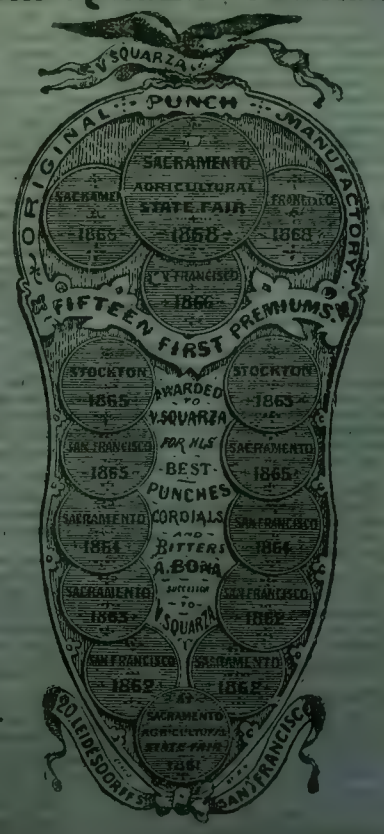
A MODEL LODGING HOUSE!

THE GREAT COMPLAINT OF EASTERN VISITORS to San Francisco is that there is no "comfort." Food is cheap enough; Clothing has come down in price; but Lodgings—that is, comfortable Lodgings—are scarce and let for a high rent. Comfortable Lodgings for men of limited means have long been a desideratum in San Francisco, but a man is now in the field who supplies this want and leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. L. J. EWELL has long been known as the proprietor of the Coso House, on the corner of Commercial and Sansome streets, and he has now made the Branch House, 424 Sansome street, no less famous for the excellence of its accommodations. Here are one hundred and sixty rooms, handsomely carpeted and fitted up with new furniture, spring beds and hair mattresses. There is a Reading room with files of city and State papers, and chess and checker-boards for the amusement of guests. The Branch House is altogether a Model Lodging House. In order to make his two houses,



The Coso and the Branch,

Widely known, Mr. Ewell has hit upon the plan of choosing by chance one of his lodgers every month and presenting him with $100. Of course this, with the other inducements offered, caused these houses to be crowded, and those who once found there a comfortable home were not in a hurry to leave. This plan Mr. EWELL finds is an infringement on the law against distributing gifts by chance, and being a law-abiding man he has determined to discontinue it. Having, however, set apart $100 for the month of June from his receipts as a gift to some one, he does not mean to reclaim it, but will give that amount to some one of the public charities of San Francisco and have the receipt for the same duly published. The $100 for this month (the recipient of which was under the original arrangement to have been chosen by the blind goddess Fortune) will be given to the Ladies' Protection and Relief Society of San Francisco—a society which will certainly make good use of it. Thus every one who patronizes the Branch or Coso House can, while he is resting snugly tucked up in his comfortable bed, enjoy the pleasing reflection that while he has the full value of his money, he has also in some measure assisted in providing a nights' lodging for many a houseless wanderer.

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

532 Merchant st. and 535 Washington st.

FRIDAY.....JULY 28, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Another large audience assembled at this theatre last night when "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" was produced with the following cast of characters: Mme. States as Rosina, Signor Cecchi as Conte D'Almaviva, Signor Susini as Don Bartolo, Mons. Charles as Don Basilio, Signor Orlandini as Figaro, and Mme. Demens as Bertha. Mme. States, as Rosina, rendered the part with her usual effective vocalization, and won much applause in the music lesson scene. Signor Cecchi appeared to better advantage as Conti D'Almavia than in anything he has done. Orlandini's Figaro was ably acted and sung, and was frequently applauded. Susini's Don Bartole was equally good and the whole opera proved very acceptable to the audience. To-night the popular "Crispino e la Comare" will be given, Miss Ridgway making her second appearance as Annetta, the jolly cobbler's jolly wife. "Ernani" will be sung at the matinee to-morrow. The next opera night will be on Monday, when a new opera will be presented.

California Theatre.

"Elfie, or the Cherry tree Inn," has a very short time to run, and all who have not yet witnessed it should do so at once, as it is a most attractive play. It will be repeated to night. To-morrow evening the favorite comedian, John T. Raymond will take his farewell benefit and make his last appearance in California; "Dot or, the Cricket on the Hearth," and the "Spectre Bridegroom," will constitute the bill.

Alhambra Theatre.

The "Grand Duchess" is still the great attraction at this house: Vivian appears nightly in new character songs; E. M. Hall, and his banjo are as popular as ever; and an evening spent at the Alhambra passes away pleasantly. The burlesque of "Elfie or the Cherry Tree Inn," will be produced on Saturday.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Ella Wesner will appear this evening in her lightning changes and sing new songs; Aline Le Favre will appear in the military drama of "The Dumb Boy;" The Reynolds Brothers will perform their inimitable song and dance "The Artful Dodgers," and Marie Zoel, Miss Josephine, Minnie Corbyn, Maggie Brewer and a host of others will appear in a varied programme of song and dance

Theatre Comique.

The rising juvenile star is decidedly Miss Maggie Knight, who made her first appearance last night at the Theatre Comique and at once established herself as a popular favorite. Both as singer and dancer she is a decided success; her songs and dances last night were all applauded to the echo. Miss Maggie Knight and a host of others enumerated on our first page will appear to-night.

Platt's Hall.

This hall was crowded last night when De Witt Tallmage delivered his lecture on "Grumble & Co." Mr. Tallmage's lecture resembles in some measure those of Gough's, which crowded the Pavilion nightly, but Mr. Tallmage is far superior to Gough in education and talent for descriptive composition. The chief point of resemblance between the two is that they both have an inexhaustible fund of amusing stories and tell them in capital style. While due space was devoted to "Grumble," "Co, consisting of social nuisances, formed the subject of the major portion of the lecture. Mr. Tallmage brought down the house again and again with finely drawn word pictures and drew shouts of laughter by cleverly introduced jokes. Instruction and amusement judiciously commingled, and we are sure that all present last night enjoyed the lecture heartily and went home more cheerful from having heard "Grumble & Co.," get such a raking down at the hands of one who was evidently well acquainted with them.

New Season of Opera Bouffe.

Mme. Silly has taken Maguire's Opera House and will inaugurate a new season of Opera Bouffe by the French Troupe, as will be seen by referring to the programme in to-day's FIGARO. Entire new operas will be produced with new costumes and appointments. FIGARO will of course be the programme of the season.

The New York Mammoth Circus.

This troupe, now en route to this city, will open on the old circus lot, on Jackson street, on Tuesday evening next. Carpenters were busy at work erecting seats this morning, and General Keyt has already covered the dead walls of the city with the magnificent mammoth lithographs of the institution, counterparts of the coming attractions.

Woodward Gardens.

The skating assemblies are patronized very liberally by the visitors to the Gardens, some of them taking the position of spectators, and others going there for love of the exciting pastime.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism: the De Chailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

A Fair Proposition.

We are authorized to say that Pipifax Bitters will be given free of charge to those suffering from dyspepsia, biliousness, indigestion, inaction of the liver and loss of appetite, to convince them that they can find permanent relief by drinking that valuable tonic. Go and try it at Sheffler, Walter & Co's 302 Battery st. •

LITTLE SALLY.

The peculiar class of poetry of which Bret Harte and John Hay are partially, and William M. Carleton particularly, the exponents, has spread like an epidemic not only over this country, where it originated, but to England, which has been hitherto a distant and pleased spectator of its growth. By the way, American poetry flourishes just now in England: Emerson is revered; Longfellow read with avidity; Browning admired; Bret Harte laughed at; and Carleton imitated and copied. And again, a poet of no ordinary merit, one whose name is new, and who is not yet old enough for fame—Joaquin Miller—has sprung into life in the midst of London fogs and smoke, and is making half the tongues of that English-speaking world wag with the praises of his songs of the Sierra—a California exotic blooming in an unexpected quarter. As an instance of what London has done with a "farm ballad" inspiration, we quote the following from the London Figaro:

LITTLE SALLY.

You've a-heard me tell o' my Sally, Joe,
My cute, little bit of a Sal—
Lor' bless me! what is it a chokin' me so?
She were but a shrimp of a gal—
And 'ere I'm hact'ally going to blub—
She's dead, that's all old pal.

I can mind the night that I picked her up,
'Twere in Limmerstone-lane, Shoreditch;
I hadn't had bit nor sup all day,
Nor narra a chance of sich;
For the fruit trade were mighty bad then Joe,
As yer knows the meanin' of which.

But I coudden have passed a dog that night,
For 'twas cold, and a snowin' quite thick;
So I takes the breathin' bundle up,
And hurries off home with it quick;
And sent Missis Hodges's 'Lizabeth out
For a 'apporth o' milk, on tick.

Well, Joe, yer may think it strange, old man,
What I tells yer about the kid;
But the baby she seemed jto take to me,
And she kicked and she crowed, she did;
And I relished my bit o' dry toke that night,
As tho' it had cost me a quid.

From that time forward Joe, hup she growed,
A-nussed, so to speak, by shares;
Lor' bless 'ee, man, they was nuts on her,
The women what lived up stairs,
And, God knows, they often had trouble enough
Lookin' arter their own affairs.

How purty she growd up—bless her, art!
Seeh eyes I never did see—
Talk?—why, she talked like a purnted book
Afore she were scarcely three;
She could read like a passon afore she was six;
She read Lloyd's regurlar to me.

There ain't much sun in my celler, Joe,
Nor light, for the matter of that;
'Twere really a sight more cherrier,
Along o' that little brat;
She seemed to hact like a sunbeam, Joe;
She were better nor gas, that's flat.

She called me "Daddy"—,twere just as well—
I christened her Sally, yer know;
I courted a gal with that very name,
Close on forty year ago;
She died—there don't look at me, pardner, don't
I'm a silly old duffer, Joe.

The luck she brought me were sum't strange,
I comed upon brighter days;
I'm certain she made me a better man,
With her purty, innocent ways;
I'd lay she'd do yer a lot more good
Than those blokes in black what prays.

I had the parish doctor, Joe,
And I think that he done his best;
But 'twere when I sat a-holdin' her hand,
That my darlin' were most at rest;
And she died, old pal, with her little head
A-leanin' upon my breast;

It's hard to think that she's gone right off,
And it's strange why she had to go;
She were doin' good in this wicked world,
She were wanted here below;
Why shouldn't we have some angels he e?
But there, we must leave it, Joe.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there. •

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices. •

Do You Know

High Living at Low Cost.

The Bulletin publishes a paragraph about the cheap fare served at the "Holly Tree Inn," on Cambridge street, Boston, where working men are supplied with dinners at a low cost per plate, but it neglects to add that John Regan's California Restaurant, on Montgomery street, San Francisco, within twenty paces of the Bulletin office, serves better fare at lower cost every day in the year. What would the Bostonians think of a dinner composed of the following: Big bowl of green turtle soup, large plate of salmon, roast goose, duck or meat, and a glass of ice cream, all for 25 cents? A half bottle of California wine with it will cost ten cents more. These are the regular bill of fare charges at the California Restaurant. In fare how is that for high? In price, how is that for low •

Everbody Buys Them.

What The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line. •

Contortion Mirrors

Are all the rage in the saloons in the East at present. It is so funny to march a friend up to them, and let him see how ridiculous his reflection looks in them. There is sure to be a laugh, and then everybody will smile. Buckman of the Capital saloon, opposite the Russ House has five of them, the only ones on the coast, and the transmogrifications they make in a man's appearance are very grotesque. Every one should see them. •

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXI Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit. •

Washing Returned in One Day

The Elixir of Youth.

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever. •

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

Silver Plating.

Articles from which the silver has been worn are received for re-plating by Haynes & Lawton, Market street, under the Grand Hotel. •

EIGHTH INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION

... OF THE ...

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE

WILL BE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

AT 11 A. M., TUESDAY, AUGUST 8

HON. MILTON S. LATHAM

Has consented to deliver the OPENING ADDRESS

THE EXHIBITION BUILDING IS SITUATED on Union Square, in the heart of the city of San Francisco, and on the line of three street railroads. The building covers a ground area of 95,200 feet, and is complete in all its appointments. Steam power and water supply furnished free to exhibitors.

All goods competing for premiums, or to be catalogued, must be receipted for by the entry clerk before August 12th.

Rules and Regulations can be obtained from any of the officers at the Institue or Pavilion.

In conjunction with the Industrial Exhibition, the BAY DISTRICT HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY will hold its first Exhibition of the Flowers and Fruits of California, occupying a space of 320x50 feet.

William Horace Lingard.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellance," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre. •

We, the undersigned, physicians, practicing in the city of San Francisco, have examined the result of the analysis made by Dr Lanzweert, Practical Chemist, of the water from the Napa Soda Springs of Napa. The water, according to this examination, possesses Aperient Antacid and Tonic properties, which cannot fail to be very beneficial in the treatment of Chronic Diseases, and affording a pleasant, healthful and invigorating beverage: H. FIGARO

Published every morning, except Sunday, by

P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

532 Montgomery St. and 535 Washington St

(Below Montgomery Block.)

MONDAY..... JULY 31, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

300 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

300 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

John Woodard.

A message from John Woodard to a friend in this city requests that apartments in the County Jail be put in readiness for his occupancy upon his return to this city, Monday next. He will be rejoiced to learn that the cook of the establishment is to be changed and the bill of fare improved by order of the Prison Commission.

Cheek.

We complimented a young lady artiste on her dancing the other evening, and said she would become a bright star. She replied "No I shan't, I haven't cheek enough. That's what makes people stars—cheek. If you've got cheek it doesn't matter if you do turn in your toes."

Query.

Is it fair to take a lawyer's opinion as to whether a man is veracious or not? Would not his being believed or not believed under oath depend very much on whether he was testifying for or against the attorney's client?

Lost Pleasure.

A gentleman at the Round Lake camp-meeting said he had been married 25 years, and had never given his wife a cross word. Alas! never to know the joys of "making up."

A Very Simple Reason.

A little boy three years old, who has a brother of three months, gave a reason for the latter's good conduct—"Baby doesn't cry tears because he doesn't drink any water and he can't cry milk."

Says the World funny man: Mr. Crow is called on to show caws for deserting his wife, who is a ravin' in Indianapolis.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices. •

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco. •

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge. •

What Cheer Laundry,

321 Leidesdorff street, near Sacramento. •

Creme de Lis.

Beautiful is the finish developed by the use of DICKEY'S celebrated CREME DE LIS, a pure transparent complexion being imparted. No poison enters its composition. •

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents. •

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Gnsti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night, •

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street, open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock. •

The Spirit of Crittenden Called.

The Territorial Enterprise is responsible for the following:

A gentleman who arrived in this city yesterday from San Francisco gives the following account of the result of inquiries made in that city in regard to a matter of much interest, during the session of a select circle of Spiritualists and strong-minded women, a few days since. After calling up and "interviewing" the spirits of men and women of all ages upon all manner of subjects and knotty questions, the spirit of A. P. Crittenden the victim of Mrs. Laura D. Fair, was called for. After satisfying themselves the spirit they desired to interview was present, they proceeded with their questions. They ascertained that he was in a sphere at no great distance from the earth, and that he could visit any portion of the earth at will, then they came to the point, thus:

Question—"Do you know all that has happened on earth since you were set free from mortal clay?"

Answer—"Yes"

Q.—"You know all about the trial of dear Mrs. Fair, then?"

A.—"Yes. I have watched every move throughout with intense interest."

Q.—"Knowing all you now do, and seeing things with spirit eyes, do you think she ought to be hanged?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—"But you surely do not wish her to be hanged?"

A.—"Yes: hang her, by—! I can't do without her!"

The circle hereupon broke up in a row. Some declaring that a bad spirit was present and others that the spirit that answered was the one they had desired to interview.

A Future Member of Parliament.

A Brighton, (English) paper has received this fine art contribution to its columns:

Honnored Sir, I as a Work of Art which I hope you will announce I intend to make a Presentation of the Town which shows the "Scrubbing of the Blacky More by the Old Wimmen," and I trust it will be naled up were the Works Comittee meets to labur. Yours truly, A EDUCATED ARTISANN.

It is a pity that "educated artisann" can't be elected to Parliament. He might be the means of preventing some other artisans who are in future to compose that body if the radicals have their way, from selling the pictures in the National Gallery and turning the building into a bath house.

ONE REASON.—The True Woman gives as one reason why woman should not vote that the tongues of women are very nimble and very sharp; the temptation to use them at every family meal during election would be great. They would often be very saucy, at times very witty or very sarcastic, and often, too, very silly. But where, adds the True Woman, would be the feast of family love?

LEARNED LADY.—A gentleman asked a lady known to be utterly ignorant of languages, "How did you get along when abroad to make yourself understood?" "Oh, my dear sir," replied she, with quite a French air, "we had an interrupter with us." The same lady, having arranged some statues in an adjoining room, requested the same gentleman to step into the next "impartment and see her antics."

Picnics—Callstoga—Seaside.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there. •

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Hascke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone. •

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. •

To the Unfortunate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure. •

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street. •

The War of the Noses.

During the investigation of matters in the County Jail on Wednesday, a war of noses arose between Alec Badlam and Judge Sawyer. Badlam said the jail smelled bad, Judge Sawyer declared it didn't. Badlam maintained that his nose told him the jail didn't smell nice; Judge Sawyer said Badlam's nose was prejudiced and was not to be believed under oath; Badlam said Sawyer's nose was no account and couldn't smell anything. Attacks on the organ in question were luckily confined to words; had the differing parties allowed their angry passions to rise too high, the judicial nose of Sawyer and the supervisorial nose of Badlam might both have been incapacitated from receiving and analyzing the perfumes of the city jail.

What's the Use of Lying?

In a recent issue of the New York Tribune we find the following:—"Liars present a problem which continually perplexes us. Why they should lie as they do, when no obvious end is to be achieved by their fabrications, even if credited, we shall never be able to understand." Other people besides the editor of the Tribune, and living in other places than New York, are similary puzzled.

AN IMPROVEMENT.—Some men show their wisdom in making blunders. A Western journalist seems to have been wiser than he knew, when, drawing upon his memory for poetical quotations about women, he delivered himself in his newspaper as follows:

O, woman, in thine hours of ease,
Uncertain, coy, and hard to please;
But seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace.

It is doubtful if Scott and Pope, so essentially unlike, could with the greatest care, be again so happily combined to present an old subject in a new light.

HER FAITH.—Mrs. Cady Stanton says: "It is strange that material things should be perverse when one is in a hurry; but in such emergencies breast-pins invariably hide, cuff pins fall under the bed, buttons fall off by their own weight, the fan is caught in the net, and the new kid glove splits down the back. At such times my faith is strong in the devil."

A TOAST.—Here's to the Three Ages—Engage, Marri-age and Dot-age.

A FANCY.—An Iowa man insists that he is a patent hayfork, and goes about pitching into people.

PERMANENT HEAD QUARTERS—The shoulders.

A Fair Proposition.

We are authorized to say that Pipifax Bitters will be given free of charge to those suffering from dyspepsia, biliousness, indigestion, inaction of the liver and loss of appetite, to convince them that they can find permanent relief by drinking that valuable tonic. Go and try it at Shaeffer, Walter & Co's, 302 Battery st. •

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location. •

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. SHABER & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding. x

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

New Furnishng Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

A good entertainment will be given here this evening. The programme will be a vocal first part, Vivian in his popular sketches; Purdy, Scott and Eugenia in a farce; Hall in his songs and banjo solos; Charley Backus in his original Black Comicalities—for this night only; Cogill and Cooper in a plantation dance; the whole winding up with the burlesque of "Under the Oil Lamp" in which Backus, Purdy, Foster, Braham, Robinson, Fostelle and DeAngelis will appear. The entertainment will be for the benefit of W. H. Smith. To-morrow evening the new burlesque on "Elfie" entitled "Ill-Fed, or the Crabtree Inn," in which the whole company will appear; will be brought out with new music and new scenery.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Il Trovatore" will be sung to-night with the following distribution: Mme. States as Leonora; Mrs. John Melville as Azucena, Madame Yonker, as Inez, Signor Cecchi as Manrico, Signor Orlandini as Conte di Luna, Signor Roncovieri as Ferrando, Mons. Charles as Ruiz. This season of Italian opera, has been very successful so far; and bids fair to be a decided financial, as well as musical success. There will be no opera to-morrow night; it being devoted to rehearsal of "Faust," which will be brought out on Wednesday evening.

Bella Union Theatre.

The vivacious Miss Ella Wesner is encored five and six times nightly, and looks perfectly charming in her natty costumes. To-night she will sing more new songs from her seemingly inexhaustible repertoire. The versatile and piquante Aline La Favre will to-night, appear in the character of Jennie Leatherlungs in the musical farce of "Jennie Lind," and sing operatic airs; George Reynolds will appear in the burlesque song and dance "Rhine Wine Charley;" Miss Josephine will give a song and dance; Misses Minnie Corbyn and Lottie Leder will sing a duet; new acts will be performed, Johnny Manning will appear on the flying rings, and many other entertainments particularized on our first page will be given.

Theatre Comique.

Miss Knight who made her appearance last week at the Theatre Comique has at once established herself as a popular favorite. Both as a singer and dancer she is a decided success; her songs and fancy dances are all applauded to the echo Miss Maggie Knight, Johnny Touts, Frank Jones Jake Wallace, the champion banjoist; Jimmy Murphy, the champion clogdist, and a host of others enumerated on our first page will appear to-night.

New York Mammoth Circus.

This great equestrian show will open to the public to-morrow evening on the circus lot, on Jackson street, between Montgomery and Kearny. The managers present a brilliant programme of ring artists, numbering over 30 performers, constituting altogether the professional talent of three [illegible]

New Season of Opera Bouffe.

Mme. Silly has taken Maguire's Opera House and will inaugurate a new season of Opera Bouffe by the French Troupe, as will be seen by referring to the programme in to-day's FIGARO. Entire new operas will be produced with new costumes and appointments. FIGARO will of course be the programme of the season.

Billy Emerson.

The Golden City has "heard that Billy Emerson has severed his connection with the Alhambra," and is "sorry for it." Don't waste any more tears about it, please don't, for it isn't true. The report was originated by some joker merely to catch gudgeons, and if the City had inquired at the box office, it would have saved itself its anguish of mind all this time and guarded it self from the odium of being caught by it. There has not been nor is there likely to be any change in the firm of Maguire & Emerson. Mr. Emerson is at present at the Springs, where he went as quietly as possible to rest and recruit for ten days or so, after nine months as hard professional work as any man in the country has done; and he will make his reappearance at the Alhambra on Monday next, all the better we trust after his short respite from his arduous professional duties.

New Talent For the Alhambra.

Mr. Charles Howard, the best delineator of plantation darkies in the United States, and Sheridan and Mack, the best double song and dance men on the stage, are now en route, overland, under engagement to Maguire and Emerson for the Alhambra; where they will make their appearance on Monday evening next. Howard, Sheridan and Mack have long been prominent attractions at the various leading minstrel halls in New York and other Eastern cities, and really rank as the first in the profession in their lines of business. We suppose their trip here will be merely a flying one. Doubtless they will make a sensation in the minstrel line while they are here.

Hayes Park.

There was a very large attendance at these gardens yesterday when the contests for the three prize medals offered for the best jig dance, banjo solo and clog dance, came off. The champion jig medal was awarded so the talented little Maggie Knight, who presented it to Tommy McLaughlin, as she danced an Irish jig. Jake Wallace carried off the honors of the banjo contest, and Jimmy Murphy, who is hard to beat, won the prize for clog dancing.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Cranilin Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

California Theatre.

The farewell benefit of John T. Raymond on Saturday night was a flattering testimonial of the favor in which the public hold him. After the play of "The Cricket on the Hearth," in which Mr. Raymond gave a very effective impersonation of Caleb Plummer, he was called out and made a speech in which he bid his friends farewell. Mr. Raymond was the recipient of a purse of $300, a Shakspeare cameo ring, and a beautiful silver goblet. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond left yesterday morning for the East, bearing with them the good wishes of the entire community. The third dramatic season at this theatre commences this evening, when Mrs F. W. Lander will make her appearance in the play of "Medea." Mrs. Lander's first engagement was a brilliant success and when it terminated the public had not yet seen enough enough of this accomplished tragedienne. In addition to the ataraction above mentioned, James Williamson, the new comedian from Wallacks, will make his first appearance in the drama of "The Irish Emigrant," playing the character of Tom O'Brien. Owen Marlowe, the eccentric comedian will appear to-morrow night in "Cool as a Cucumber."

A Lady, Alone, Ascends Four Miles in a Balloon.

The Utica (N. Y.) Herald says: Professor Squire returned Monday from Poughkeepsie, and gives a thrilling account of the ascension made there on the Fourth. Professor Squire went up in the Atlantic. A Miss Thurston went up in another balloon at the same time. The two started together from Poughkeepsie. Squire ascended early to the clouds. Then seeing that Miss Thurston was not following him very fast, he descended, intending to tell her to throw out ballast. Before he could get near enough to give any directions, she cast overboard the contents of one sand-bag; this was immediately followed by the contents of another. She then went into the clouds and out of sight of her fellow aeronaut, and out of sight of those on earth, of course. Professor Squire says: "She went up like a rocket, and out of sight almost instantly." Squire allowed the Atlantic to drift under the clouds, and in sight of the earth, until over Hyde Park, four miles above Poughkeepsie. Then he threw out sand and went up through the clouds into the clear sunlight. He says that he must have ascended nearly half a mile above the clouds before he caught sight of Miss Thurston's balloon. This balloon was then far above him, and looked "no larger than a gentleman's hat." Of course he could not see the lady at all that distance. He is of opinion that the lady was at least four miles from earth. She says that the air was so cold and rare, that the pain in her ears and eyes was almost beyond endurance, and she could only pull the valve cord by winding it round her arm and throwing her weight upon it. Miss Thurston, who, by the way, has another name in society, is 19 years of age, well educated, and a student at a prominent institution of learning. None of her friends save her mother, knew that she was to try to manage a balloon on that day. She is the niece of a late balloonist, in his day the most daring in the country, and has made about twenty ascensions with him during his life. This was her first trip alone. She has been long acquainted with Professor Squire, and it is more than probable will again make another ascension under his direction during the season.

JEM MACE'S CHALLENGE.

How He Brought Coburn to Time—He Throws Down the Gauntlet.

LONG BRANCH, July 17, 1871.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—With your permission I would like to say a few words to the public regarding my match with Mr. Coburn. The referee has given his decision in my late match with that gentleman, and has awarded me the stakes; but as it is not so much the stakes I want as a fight, I am still willing to meet Mr. Coburn and fight for the money. If Mr. Coburn should desire, as he stated the other evening, I am willing to increase the amount as conveniently high as he would wish—from five to ten thousand dollars a side—and the fight to come off within one hundred miles of New Orleans, where we can have a fair fight without being interfered with by the authorities or partisan friends. This is my first letter to the press, and if it is successful in bringing about a settlement of this dispute I shall not regret it, and it will be the last on matters connected with the prize-ring. I am as anxious to fight Mr. Coburn as to get the money after it has been won in a fair fight, rather than take it, even though it has been awarded me by the referee. Mr. Coburn will have every chance to meet me, and also the priority of call. But if he should still remain silent I shall then claim the stakes, and make arrangements to accommodate the friends of Mr. Ned O'Baldwin, who appear to be anxious to get on a match, but I prefer Mr. Coburn first. Hoping that he will either fight like a man, or hold his tongue and no longer lay claim to a mythical championship, I remain yours, respectfully,

JAMES MACE.

The Republicans held a grand pow-wow Saturday night, on the corner of Montgomery and Market streets. Attendance large; speaking poor.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

THE MANGO TREE.

BY CHARLES KINGSLEY.

He wiled me through the furzy croft,
He wiled me down the sandy lane,
He told his boy's love, soft and oft,
Until I told him mine again.

We married and we sailed the main—
A soldier and a soldier's wife;
We marched through many a burning plain;
We sighed for many a gallant life.

But his God kept it safe from harm,
He toiled, and dared, and earned command;
And these three stripes upon his arm
Were more to me than gold or land.

Sure he would win some great renown,
Our lives were strong, our hearts were high;
One night the fever struck him down—
I sat, and stared, and saw him die.

I had his children, one, two, three,
One week I had them, blithe and sound;
The next—beneath this mango tree,
By him in barrack burying ground.

I sit beneath the mango shade—
I live my five years' life all o'er;
Round yonder stem his children played,
He mounted guard at yonder door.

'Tis I, not they, am gone and dead,
They live, they know, they feel, they see;
Their spirits light the golden shade
Beneath the giant mango tree.

All things, save I, are full of life—
The minas, pluming velvet breasts;
The monkeys, in their foolish strife;
The swooping hawks, the swinging nests;

The lizards, basking on the soil;
The butterflies, who sun their wings;
The bees, about their peaceful toil—
They live, they love, the blissful things!

Each tender, purple mango shoot
That folds and droops so bashful down—
It lives: it sucks some hidden root;
It rears at last a broad green crown.

It blossoms and the children cry;
"Watch when the mango apples fall!"
It lives; but rootless, fruitless, I—
I breathe and dream, and that is all.

Thus am I dead, but cannot die;
But still within my foolish brain
There hangs a pale blue evening sky,
A fursy croft, a sandy lane.

Names of the Big Trees.

A correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune writes from California, as follows:

The big trees of Calaveras and Mariposa are wonderful montrosities, but the groves of which they form a conspicuous part would be sufficiently wonderful and beautiful without them to attract the attention of all lovers of nature. There is an excellent hotel beautifully situated and splendidly kept, at the grove; and the twenty-four hours, more or less, spent here are among the most enjoyable of the trip. We visit the monarchs in detail, and feel like quoting from the Queen of Sheba, but are disgusted with the senseless vandalism which has converted this wonderful forest into a dead-wall advertisement of eminent and obscure Americans. Upon the trunk of each great tree is fastened a conspicuous tablet in marble or wood, containing, generally, the name of some politician, soldier, or patent medicine vendor, who is supposed to have friends or money enough to procure the cheap notoriety. Thus is pre-empted the present and future glory of U. S. Grant, W. T. Sherman, J. B. McPherson, Asa Gray, W. C. Bryant, Wm. H. Seward, Henry Ward Beecher, Dr. John Torrey, Starr King, Edward Everett, Dr. Kane, G. Washington, A. Jackson, Uncle Tom's Cabin, G. F. Train, H. T. Helmbold, and Jeems Pipes of Pipesville. The last three names we did not have time to look up, but they are there without doubt. If there can be any possible atonement for this outrage on common sense and decency, it must come through the very appropriate designation which by supernal interposition has been given to a few of the trees. Thus we have the Father of the Forest, the Mother of the Forest, the Two Sentinels, the Three Graces, the Pride of the Forest, the Miner's Cabin, the Mother and Son, the Siamese Twins, the Eagle, Hercules, the Maids of Honor, etc. I was quite prepared to see upon the dead rocks of Echo and Weber Canons the conspicuous trade marks of Buchu and Bitters, but I did not expect to find in this living forest of giant trees such evidence of imbecility. But one thing pleased me much, that among all the enemies of whom Mr. Greeley can boast, not one has been dastardly enough to nail his name to a big tree of Calaveras.

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

532 Merchant st. and 535 Washington st.

Below Montgomery Block.

TUESDAY.....AUGUST 1, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Mrs. F. W. Lander commenced her engagement at this theatre on the first night of the new season, and played "Medea" in excellent style. She was ably supported by John McCullough, James Carden and other members of the Company, and was much applauded. After the tragedy, the comic drama of the "Irish Emigrant" was presented, and Mr. Williamson made his first appearance, playing the character of Tim O'Brian. The hearty Californian greeting which Mr. Williamson received on coming on the stage, must have done his heart good, and he speedily showed that he was worthy of it. He is bound to become a favorite. His make-up was excellent; his acting was quiet and genuine; he never once appealed to the audience for applause or laughter, but gave his whole attention to faithfully portraying the character which he assumed. Mrs. Sophie Edwin was warmly welcomed, proving that our public never let auld acquaintance be forgot, even if they do not often see them. Mrs. Judah was excellent as the "Woman of Few Words," and Henry Edwards gave a splendid bit of acting in the character of Tom Bobolink. To-night "Medea" will be presented again, and the afterpiece will consist of "Cool as a Cucumber," in which Owen Marlowe will come before a California audience for a verdict which we hope will be as favorable as that pronounced unanimously last night on Mr. Williamson.

Alhambra Theatre.

This very popular theatre, the home of mirth music and minstrelsy was crowded last night. Charley Backus received a hearty welcome on taking his seat at the end in the first part. Everyone was glad to see him back and it may seem unkind to criticise him but it is nevertheless true that prosperity has made Charley fat and lazy and that he certainly has not learned anything since he left. If we had him back here for a time how we would take his fat down! How we'd brighten him up! But he is going back to New York and we have th bright and versatile Emerson and dryly humorous Purdy, who have new jokes every night and have to work harder than any New York minstrel ever dreamed of to keep the fun alive. Last night Purdy kept his end up nobly and gained his full share of the applause and laughter. Vivian's sketches were highly relished by the immense audience and his new songs took well. The burlesque of "Under the Oil Lamp" was received with shouts of applause and laughter. In consequence of the new scenery necessary for the production of the new burlesque of "Ill-Fed of the Crab-tree Inn" not being finished, the production of this piece is postponed until Monday next when, after much preparation we may be sure it will be presented in excellent style.

Metropolitan Theatre.

A stranger seeing the immense audience present in the Metropolitan Theatre would give our public credit for an immense love for Italian Opera. "Il Trovatore" was performed in a manner which drew frequent applause. Madame States' beautiful voice was heard to advantage in the role of Leonora; Signor Cecchi, whose voice is gradually improving, sang better in the role of Conte di Luna, than in any preceeding one, and his singing of "Mal reggendo" was much applauded. The next opera will be Faust, which has been rehearsed daily, and every effort is being made to produce it in a style as nearly approaching perfection as possible.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new bill at the Bella Union Theatre has proved a grand success throughout, and delighted large audiences. Miss Ella Wesner has several new songs, all of which are bound to become popular. Geo. Reynolds has made a hit in Rhine Wine Charley; and the concluding piece, "Jenny Lind," drew shouts of applause and laughter. Alice Le Favre pleasing all by her songs, and fairly bringing down the house with the little bit of can-can introduced in the play. The same excellent bill will be played to-night.

Theatre Comique.

Miss Maggie Knight has made a great sensation at this house, and crowds flock nightly to see her. She can do more than Lotta was capable of at her age; has a more artistic style and is fully as attractive. Frank Jones, the Lively Moke, Miss Eva Clayton in Par Excellence, Jimmy Murphy in his wonderful dances, Johnny Tuers and Jake Wallace in acts and solos, Ned Ward and Rosa and many more, help to keep the fun alive till midnight.

New York Mammoth Circus.

There is nothing like a circus, no kind of entertainment that pleases some people so much. To-night the New York Mammoth Circus will give its first exhibition in this city, and though the tent is an immense one, we prophecy that hundreds will be unable to obtain admittance. An army of horsemen, a large troupe of gymnasts, a constellation of stars and three clowns, will assist at the initial performance of horse opera to-night. Everyone is going—but everyone will not be able to get in so an early attendance is necessary.

Woodward's Gardens.

The usual skating assemblies to-day, for which no extra charge is made, except for the use of skates. A stroll through these grounds yields a better return for the investment of twenty-five cents than anything that can be purchased with that fractional part of a dollar.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism: the De Chaillin Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Died of Thirst.

[From the San Bernardino Guardian, July 22d.]

Sunday last, a Mexican passing through Swarthout Canyon, near the "Lone Pine," some thirty miles from town, observed a man lying on the side of the road in a position as if asleep, and supposing he was asleep, passed on. On returning Tuesday morning he found him still there, in the same position, then thinking all was not right, he went up and examined him, and found that he was dead. Immediately he returned and reported the facts to Mr. J. Glenn, who then came to town and gave the information to Justice E. W. Pugh. As there was no possible chance to summon a Coroner's Jury up in that neighborhood, and on account of the distance to take one from town, Mr. Pugh appointed and authorized Messrs. N. Kavanaugh, James Banks and Carlos Ames to proceed immediately to where the dead body was said to be, and act in the premises as best they might in the examination of the body, and to ascertain the cause that led to his death, and, if possible, his identity. Leaving town Tuesday night, they reached the place next morning, and found, as stated, the dead body of a man, which, on examination, proved to be the remains of Patrick Vass, who, it seems, was well-known in this place. Mr. Kavanaugh informs us, as his report will show, that the deceased had evidently perished for water, after having resorted to the severest means known to allay his dying thirst. When found he was in a short distance of water. How sad to think of the terrible sufferings of the poor creature who thus perished from thirst, and not aware of the fact that he was only a few hundred yards from water. A grave was dug and his remains buried where found.

Siberian Delusions Dispelled.

Mr. Barry's new book tells a different story about Siberia from the ordinary accounts of travelers. Part of the enormous area of that country is almost uninhabitable, it is true, but in the regions through which Mr. Barry traveled the climate was "everywhere temperate and endurable," while a great part of it could boast of "a fine agricultural soil, a rich, deep black loam," in which anything would flourish. The roads are "as good as those in any other part of the Empire," and "plenty of pretty scenery, hill, wood, and water," and the posting-houses are "much better, than those of many parts of the centre of Russia." The peasants are far more civilized and better educated than those of the other parts of the Empire—a result of which the cause may be that "the churches are fewer in number, and of course the number of priests is also proportionately smaller." And there "woman takes her proper place, looking after her household and her children," instead of being left, as she is in central Russia, "to do the hard work and slave at field labor," while her lord and master drinks and sleeps. As to the mineral wealth of Siberia, it is something of which but a very small number of people have any idea, for at present only a few spots are worked, and those "most unsatisfactory, and under the worst possible management." It seems that "there is plenty of fine society to be met with in all Siberian towns, and the time of one's sojourn there always glides away pleasantly; the regularity and evenness of its climate being an addition to the enjoyment of life."

A Remembrance of Andrew Jackson.

[From the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph]

We dined at Jonesborough, the seat of justice of Washington county, one of the very oldest towns in Tennessee. At that place, seventy-five years ago, Old Hickory Jackson, then a Judge of the Circuit Court at that place, when holding a court, ordered the sheriff of the county to arrest a notorious desperado named Bean, a celebrated outlaw in the early history of that region. The officer soon re-appeared in the court room and reported his inability to make the arrest. "Summon a posse," thundered Old Hickory. "I have," said the sheriff, "but still we cannot make the arrest." "Summon me," ejaculated the wrathful Jackson. The sheriff gladly obeyed, and the man of iron will strode towards the culprit, the crowd eagerly following. Approaching Bean with bent brow, and gaze beneath which every human being that ever encountered it quailed, Bean's upraised arm dropped to his side, and he was led resistlessly to the prison. The railway passes over the precise spot of the arrest.

CHILDISH INNOCENCE.—Jennie Jones was a very pretty little girl, and it was the first time she had ever been visiting by herself. She was spending the afternoon with one of her schoolmates, and when it came tea time Jennie was invited to stay to tea. "No, I thank you ma'am," she said, shyly, in answer to the request. "I guess you'd better," said her little friend's mother, good, hospitable Mrs. Morse; "sit right up to the table along with Sairy, won't you now?" Jennie fidgetted, twisted her apron, put her fingers in her mouth, and finally electrified the company by remarking: "Well, I don't know; my said I was to say no, thank you, the first time I was asked, but—if you urged me I could stay!" It is scarcely necessary to add she stayed.

MUSICAL CATECHISM.—What is a rest? Going out of the choir for a rest during sermon time. What is called singing with an "understanding?" Marking time on the floor with your foot. What is a staccato movement? Leaving the choir in a huff because one is dissatisfied with the leader. What is a swell? A professor of music who pretends to know everything about the science, while he cannot conceal his ignorance.

IN EARNEST.—A determined young lady says if she can get no other she will have a rainbow.

Dei Gratia,

I went to the opera last night or I should have felt grieved beyond the possibility of expressing myself, as I could not have witnessed the eight wonder of this progressive age, e'est a dire, the unexampled improvement in mechanical genius displayed in the home manufacture of the ladies' shoes purchased at F. X. Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite Alhambra Theatre.

Ladies And Gentlemen.

Guerin & Kelly prize boot and shoe makers are rapidly clearing out their immense stock of stylish boots and shoes, at low prices. Call to day and save your money, 327 and 329 Bush street.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

HIS INTENTION.—An Alabama editor having read Dr. Hall's lecture advising that husband and wife should sleep in separate apartments, says that Dr. Hall can sleep where he chooses, but for himself he intends to sleep where he can defend his wife against rats and all other nocturnal foes, as long as he has got one to defend.

MIGHT AS WELL.—A Virginia editor has come to the conclusion that a man might as well undertake to hold himself at arm's length and turn a double somersault over a meeting-house steeple, as to attempt to publish a paper that will suit everybody.

CHILDISH.—If small girls are waifs, are large ones wafers? "Certainly," says sweet sixteen; "at least the boys have the habit of applying them to their lips in sealing their vows."

THE MODE.—Not on squeezing terms any more, is the way a Prairie du Chien young lady describes the relations between herself and her late lover.

DOES HE?—When a person says "he wouldn't give a fig for a thing," does he speak figuratively.

WHAT THEY DO.—Malicious New Orleans colored ladies spread lard on one another's door-steps o' nights.

ADVICE.—The first point of gain in the boot and shoe trade is to get the people to put their foot in it.

HOT.—An umbrella at New Orleans burst into flames on being exposed to the direct rays of the sun.

GENERALLY.—Sailors generally regulate their watches by the ship's bells.

WANTED TO KNOW—How many roads are contained in a wiseacre.

THE BEST.—An honest employment is the best inheritance that can fall to any one.

ALMOST.—There are almost as many suicides just now as defalcations.

A CONSOLATION FOR THE LADIES.—This world abounds in him-perfections.

The Best is the Cheapest.

J. W. Tucker & Co. have the finest assortment of Jewelry, diamonds, watches, watch-chains, onyx sets, lockets, opera chains, of the finest make, and medallions, of all kinds, ever offered for sale in this city, and their prices are low.

The number of different characters which this artiste impersonates is wonderful. The California Theatre is crowded, and between the plays a great many people go across the street where the red light marks the Figaro Saloon, where they find whisky good enough for "a Major in the Ninth"—a good thing to take before "a drive to the Cliff House," soothing for "a poor little orphan," "par excellence," the best to be obtained anywhere. Hermann is also also famed for his "bitter beer," which is just the thing for "the upper ten thousand" who patronize the snug little Figaro Saloon opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre.

FIGARO.

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

533 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St.

Below Montgomery Block.

TUESDAY.....AUGUST 1, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

In Demand.

The following is one of score of letters we receive weekly:

MERIDIAN, Saratoga Cal. July 26, 1871.

EDITOR FIGARO:—I keep a little dispensary of medicine, (vulgarly called a saloon,) on the Saratoga and Santa Clara road, and want you to send me FIGARO. It would be read by not less than 100 persons a day. Persons when they come in to drink like to pick up something that is short, sweet and spicy. Yours truly. P. P.

Direct your paper to Meridian, Saratoga. The hotels are already supplied, and we are sending the FIGAROS which we receive back after the performance at the the theatre, far and wide to saloons and other places of public resort all over the State. FIGARO is here, there and everywhere."

Just So.

The Rev. Samuel Osgood, who recently left the Unitarian for the Episcopal Church, has a country seat on the shores of Long Island Sound, at which he has banished advertisements from the trees, rocks and stones, and placed thereon instead, proverbs and texts from the Bible.—Exchange.

The reverend gentleman is determined that the trees and rocks shall be disfigured by advertisements of no other article save that particular one in which he deals.

Sensible Ghost.

Marysville had last week a sensation in the form of a ghost, who haunted an ice-house. This was a sensible ghost. An ice-house at night would be a paradise for a ghost who was, "for the day, confined to fast in fires." Unfortunately the ghost turned out to be a tobacconist's sign stored away for safe keeping.

The crop of female Borgias, is unusually prolific this year.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 102 Post street.

Free Love.

The New York Tribune and Woodhull & Claflin's Weekly, are having a tilt on the subject of "Free Love." The last-named paper closes its answer to the Tribune's last blast in the following manner:

If a person is held to a disagreeable union it may be compelled by the force of public opinion to continue; but do any suppose that a person so held is likely to remain constant to such a union if a love is contracted outside thereof? It is natural for every soul to love. If people bound in distasteful marri ge find love elsewhere, how many are there who would not entertain it? There is a vast field opened by this question of the sexual relations, which cannot be considered now. We have said sufficient to show the futility of relying upon law to compel love. Love being higher than law, will always gain the mastery, and we could give a hundred reasons why it should have the mastery, at least why its subjects should have the mastery, when the sense of duty and honor are stronger than love. There is no halting-place between the divine right of kings and the divine right of the individual. Can the Tribune comprehend the proposition?

Woodhull & Claflin's Weekly makes its strong points by stating facts as they are and saying that all the law in the world cannot prevent the existing state of things. The Tribune does not deny the fact, but says things ought to be different, that love and marriage should go together and that if they don't, it is best not to talk about it. We prefer Emelia'a little disquisition on marriage in "Othello" to either the Tribune or Woodhull & Claflin's Weekly.

But I do think it is their husbands' faults,
If wives do fall. Say they do slack their duties.
And pour our treasures into foreign laps;
Or else break out in peevish jealousies,
Throwing restraint upon us, or say they strike
Or scant our former having in despite:
Why, we have galls; and though we have some grace
Yet we have some some revenge. Let husbands know
Their wive have sense like them. they see and smell,
And have their palates both for sweet and sour
As husbands have. What is that they do,
When they change us for others? Is it sport?
I think it is: And doth affection breed it?
I think it doth? Is't frailty that thus errs?
It is so too: And have we not affections?
Desires for sport? And frailty as men have?
Then let them use us well; else let them know.
The ills we do their ills instruct us to.

It's Naughty, but it's Nice.

Nearly everyone says that lotteries are demoralizing but they don't like to miss the chance of making a pile all of a sudden. The drawing of the Sacramento Lottery has given an impetus to the business and tickets in all the gift enterprises in which the public have confidence, are being bought up rapidly. Chief among these stands the Omaha, which will be drawn next month.

Hotel for Invalids.

M. A. Bonda, late Superintendent of the French Hospital, is trying to start an American Hotel for Invalids in this city on the plan of the Paris "Maisons de Sante." No place in the world requires an institution of this sort more than San Francisco, and it would pay a handsome profit on the amount invested.

Picnics—Calistoga—Seaside

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

Buy A Pair

Of gent's $5 French calf pegged boots, at East's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

Euphrosyne's Enameline.

A delicate ENAMEL, imparting an irresistible elegance and refinement to the face. Price 50 cents. Wilson & Co., southeast corner of Fifth and Mission streets.

What Cheer Laundry,

321 Leidesdorff street, near Sacramento.

Thirty Dollars.

French china breakfast, dinner, and tea set $30, at P. Douglas & Co's, 131 Kearny street. Other goods at same low rates.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices.

To the Unfortunate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521

An exchange says:

A fish dealer in Bangor has "a tame clam which he has taught to come at his whistle, and follow him all over the house. The clam will stand on his hind legs and beg, or lie down at the command of his master, and will sing, whistle and count as high as thirteen."

Emerson Corville has at his Saddle Rock House, an oyster that will do all this and more. It will not only sing, count, and whistle "Champagne Charlie," but aspires to higher poetic sentiment. Corville assures us it sings "Sweet Spirit, Hear my Prayer," very audibly, and with much sweetness, every night before going to bed.

It is the fashion in New Haven, for young ladies to learn to play the fiddle. All the beaux now carry rosin in their pockets.

A Fair Proposition.

We are authorized to say that Pipifax Bitters will be given free of charge to those suffering from dyspepsia, biliousness, indigestion, inaction of the liver and loss of appetite, to convince them that they can find permanent relief by drinking that valuable tonic. Go and try it at Shaeffer, Walter & Co's, 302 Battery st.

The Howe Sewing Machine

And Butterick's Pattern Agencies, have been removed to the splendid new store, 113 Kearny street, a few doors below the old location.

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. SHABER & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding.

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patranized by everybody.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that th former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

"FIGARO"

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

532 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

Below Montgomery Block.

WEDNESDAY.....AUGUST 2, 1871

TO HOTEL KEEPERS.

"Figaro," is mailed every morning to all the hotels on the Pacific Coast. Proprietors of new hotels who have not yet received it will have it forwarded free of charge on sending us their address.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M

"Figaro" is circulated every day at the Skating Rink.

Too Bad.

The Golden Age, in a description of Mrs. Cady Stanton, said:

Elizabeth Cady Stanton, or, as she is sometimes called, Susan B. Anthony, is a celebrated lady with snow-white and auburn hair, plump and slender figure, Grecian and Roman nose, and lives simultaneously in two houses—one at Tenafly, N. Y., and the other at Rochester, N. Y.

A country paper complains that while it does not mind Mrs. Cady Stanton having two houses and two noses, it wishes she would refrain from poking them—the noses—into politics.

An Astonished Bostonian.

A liberal-minded Boston tourist handed a half dollar to rough-looking Nevada miner, who had politely shown him through a shaft. "Stranger, how much are you worth? inquired Nevada. "Well, about twenty-five thousand dollars," replied Boston. "Then I guess I won't take your half dollar. I made two hundred and fifty-thousand dollars here myself last month." Boston retired in a demoralized condition.

Rockaway, once one of the most popular watering places, has sadly fallen into decline as a sea-side resort. It is said that not more than 200 visitors have come this season—

To listen to the breaker's roar,
As they wash the beach at Rockaway.

Long Branch, and particularly Newport, Martha's Vineyard and other watering-places on the New England coast, have almost totally eclipsed Rockaway.

Australian Theatrical News.

We received by the "City of Adelaide," a letter from our regular Melbourne correspondent, "Call Boy," which will appear in to-morraw's FIGARO.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices. *

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco. *

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge. *

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry. *

Creme de Lis.

Beautiful is the finish developed by the use of DICKEY'S celebrated CREME DE LIS, a pure transparent complexion being imparted. No poison enters its composition. *

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hugo Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUGO & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents. *

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Gusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night. *

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or

The Police.

Some of the people of London think it would be good fun to play at being Communists, but the English Government very naturally disapproves of their little game. On the 31st, the members of pot-house political clubs, to the number of a thousand or so, assembled in Trafalgar Square, and drew together a crowd of some 5,000 people. The government made a silly blunder, and nearly caused trouble, by ordering out a few companies of soldiers to support the police, if necessary. John Bull resembles his name-sake in this, that nothing enrages him so much as a piece of red cloth shaken in his face, and when they saw the soldiers, the people in Trafalgar Square became very angry. The soldiers were sent back to their barracks, and the police dispersed the crowd of 5,000 people, no further damage being done than a few black eyes and ensanguined noses. If the soldiers had remained, there would certainly have been a row. The proper mode to deal with the London Communists when they become too noisy, is to disperse them by the power of the police alone, or in very extreme cases, call out the fire engines and play upon them. A good fire engine, discreetly handled, will be more effective in dispersing an English mob than a regiment of soldiers.

An Expensive Head of Hair.

The Unknown has left us. Abont ten days ago his furniture, discarded wardrobe and personal effects were sold at auction. Among the wardrobe were five hats, which all being of different size, suggested the idea that the Unknown was in the habit of changing hats with other people. A person of thoughtful mind solved this mystery of the Unknown—When his hair began to grow out, after it had fallen off from the effects of the small-pox, it flourished so luxuriantly that new hats had to be made constantly to fit, the shape of the head continually changing. This accounts for five plug hats "nearly so goot ash new," of different sizes being found among the effects of the Unknown.

A Home in the Country.

People who live in the country are happier than the dwellers in great cities. There are few prettier little country towns than Woodland, but Woodland has a few wants: it wants a new school house, a fire department and other improvements. In order to find funds, a gift concert will be given at Washington Hall in the course of a few weeks, and $20,000 will fall to the holder of a lucky ticket; $10,000, $5,000 and other prizes, 1,143 in all, will be distributed.

A Landlord's Joke.

At a certain hotel in Ohio, a contortion mirror is placed at the entrance of the dining hall, in which you see yourself a thin, cadaverous, hungry person; but when you come out from the table you are confronted by another mirror and your body is distended into the extremity of corpulence.

A Critic Dead.

Professor John W. S. Hows died in New York on the 21st of pleuro-pneumonia. He was born in London, in 1795, and had been in this country over 50 years. He was for some time dramatic critic of The Golden Rule, FIGARO, Mirror and Albion newspapers.

The latest things in jewelry at the East are lockets made out of $10 gold pieces which are split in the middle and made to slide open. They are arranged to hold likenesses.

The Thousand Islands are spotted all over with tourists. To do the St. Lawrence and the Canadas, is the thing at the East this Summer.

"Solid beer" is the last condensation for travelers.

The four seasons—Mustard, salt, pepper and vinegar.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

Euphrosyne's Enameline,

A delicate ENAMEL, imparting an irresistible elegance and refinement to the face. Price 50 cents. Wilson & Co., southeast corner of Fifth and Mission streets. *

What Cheer Laundry,

321 Leidesdorff street, near Sacramento. *

Thirty Dollars.

French china breakfast, dinner, and tea set $30, at P. Douglas & Co's, 131 Kearny street. Other goods at same low rates. *

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. *

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure. *

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and

New Kind of Bricks.

We know there are house bricks, gold bricks, bricks one sometimes carries in one's hat, Fenian bricks, for circulation amongst Orangemen, and several other kinds of bricks; but we never heard of ice cream bricks 'till now. An Eastern paper says:

"The latest fashionable novelty at Long Branch is ice cream bricks, which are put up in boxes and carried in the pocket. We see ladies daily on the road in their carriages eating ice cream with a small silver-plated spoon which is given to the purchasers. Several hotel proprietors have it served to the lady guests in the parlors of the hotels during the warm evenings."

Imagine a tender gallant ordering "two ice cream bricks, one trowel, and two spoons,' for himself and his dulcinea.

A Nuisance.

Too many loungers stand in front of the Metropolitan on opera nights. They are generally poor devils who have got nothing else to do.

A Fair Proposition.

We are authorized to say that Pipifax Bitters will be given free of charge to those suffering from dyspepsia, biliousness, indigestion, inaction of the liver and loss of appetite, to convince them that they can find permanent relief by drinking that valuable tonic. Go and try it at Shaefer, Walter & Co's, 302 Battery st. *

Good Motto.

Buy for cash; sell for cash; small profits; no bad debts. Adopted by J. A. SHABER & Co., 707 Market street, near Third—the best place in town to buy furniture and bedding. x

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry. *

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

FIGARO.

Published every day, except Sunday, by

532 Merchant st. and 535 Washington st.

Below Montgomery Block.

WEDNESDAY.....AUGUST 2, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

A capital first part, new character songs by Vivian, amusing acts by S. P. Purdy, M. Ainsley Scott, J. DeAngelis and others, and a variety of other entertainments will be given to-night. The performance will conclude with the amusing burlesque entitled "Under the Oil Lamp."

California Theatre.

Mr. Owen Marlowe made his debut here last evening as Plumper, in "Cool as a Cucumber," and succeeded in making a very favorable impression. He has a good stage presence, a quiet, self-possessed air, a good voice, and, coming as he does from Wallack's Theatre, must be a finished and gentlemanly actor, and will doubtless be a valuable acquisition to the California boards. This evening the fine historical play of "Elizabeth" will be revived, with Mrs. Lander in her great role of the imperious Queen, supported by Mr. McCullough and the full strength of the company. The bill should draw a crowded house.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night "Faust" will be produced by the Italian opera company This opera has been carefully rehearsed, and a full brass band will appear on the stage and play the famous march. Every seat in the dress circle and many seats in the parquette have been taken.

French Opera Bouffe.

This troupe are very busy getting ready for their new season at Maguire's Opera House. New costumes, scenery and appointments are being prepared under the experienced management of Mme. Lea. Silly.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Ella Wesner will appear to-night in her lightning changes and very neat and artistic character representations; Aline Le Favre, always esblind original, will sing and dance in the character of Jennie Leatherlungs in the musical farce of "Jenny Lind," and a variety of other performances enumerated on our first page, will be given.

Theatre Comique.

Maggie Knight is a perfect little jewel and already shines brilliantly among the artistes whom we have raised in California. Frank Jones is a decidedly original genius; Lizzie Harmon's songs are always encored, and the comicalities of Johnny Tuers and Jake Wallace are always laughed at. A great bill will be presented to-night.

New York Mammoth Circus.

This exhibition opened last night and as we prophesied the spacious tent was thronged. The interior is prettily fitted up with crimson carpeting, which gives it a warm and pleasant appearance, and two immense chandeliers brilliantly illuminate the entire space The entertainment commenced with a grand entree of ladies and gentlemen of the company on beautiful steeds which performed graceful evolutions; Mr. Kingsley next introduced his wonderful trained horse "Figaro," who does the most extraordinary things and understands every word that is said to him. "Figaro" is a star of the first magnitude and his equal in sagacity can scarcely be found. Master Ducrow, a very skilful and graceful rider, threw somersaults on horseback and through baloons; Messrs. Samwells and Montague did an original act with the flying globes which was loudly applauded Master Gonzalez did a dashing equestrian act on his beautiful little ponies; a wonderfully clever performance on the horizontal bars was given by Master Ducrow and two others; the wonderful Zoyara appeared in a graceful equestrian act; Cooke, the most popular of jesters, kept the audience continually laughing at his pithy sayings; the flying leaps over seven horses was a great sensation; the trick ponies were clever and amusing; from the commencement until the end, the performance did not drag for one minute; act followed action in rapid succession, and we have not enumerated half of what is to be seen at the New York Mammoth Circus. Those who wish to obtain seats must go early to-night.

Platt's Hall.

De Witt Talmage will give his lecture entitled "Slices of European Travel Cooked for an American Audience," on Thursday evening. Mr Talmage has a very pleasant mode of conveying instruction and amusement at the same time, and though some of his stories are very old, they never fail to raise a laugh.

Woodward's Gardens.

The usual skating assemblies to-day, for which no extra charge is made, except for the use of skates. A stroll through these grounds yields a better return for the investment of twenty-five cents than anything that can be purchased with that fractional part of a dollar.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Who Don't Know

That to achieve the greatest desideratum in business "patronage" a person must be liberal in his outlay, by purchasing the best material, employing the best workmen, and seeing that his patrons are attentively and courteously waited on, and in a style compatible with the dignity of the establishment he pretends to manage. Such is the golden rule practiced at KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, as is verified by the bon ton seen there daily. Who are likewise to be seen at the Opera and all

French Plays.

The Boston Courier says:

The Lord Chamberlain of England seems to have grown suddenly virtuous. He has allowed the performance of all of Offenbach's and Herve's operas-bouffes, and we know what they are, even if we have missed such an interpreter of their indelicacies as M'lle Schneider. But now that the company of the Theatre Francais has appeared in London, the dramatic censor has been aroused from his inactivity, and his veto has been put upon some of the greatest triumphs of this world famous company of artists. "Le Supplice d'une Femme," "Julie," "Paul Forestier" and "Delilah" have been suppressed on the ground of immorality in plot or situation—and Mr. and Mrs. Bull once more breathe free, knowing that Master and Miss Bull are in no danger of moral contamination."

"Le Supplice d'une Femme" is founded on a breach of the Seventh Commandment—but apart from the impropriety of alluding to such an offence, the play is intensely moral. The Britishers, however, will not stand anything of this kind on the stage, unless the additional crime of bigamy has been committed. They have to acknowledge that bigamy is known in England; but the other thing never exists. "Le Supplice d'une Femme" is not in our opinion nearly so "immoral" as "East Lynne" or "Frou-Frou," while compared to "Camille" it is puritanically chaste.

European vs. Chinese Immigration.

While the Chinese continue to do certain things better and at less wages than white men, capitalists will continue to employ them. Thus unless something is done to prevent it, the business of the manufacture of silk and wines will soon pass entirely into the hands of the Mongolians. It was in order to check this evil that the Emigrant Aid Society of California was started. They intend to bring from France working men expert in the management of silk and wine, who will in a short time displace the Chinese, and give instruction in these industries to the generation now growing up. Money is wanted to enable the society to carry out their designs and to obtain it they intend to give a grand concert in Sacramento next month at which gifts of $50,000, $25,000, and smaller sums will be distributed. The walls of this city are adorned with large posters to this effect. However immoral the means, the end is decidedly good, and every ticket bought does something towards giving a white man a chance to earn a living, and sending a Chinaman back to China. Coupons are a dollar a piece and admit one to the concert and a chance in the distribution of prizes.

The Philadelphians have grown so lazy that it is proposed to have elevators in the churches to take the people into the galleries.

This is the champion Tornado season in the East.

The average pay for writing a dime novel, is $25.

Mrs. Lander, the Tragedienne.

We have never seen an audience exactly "drowned in tears," but Mrs. Lander does make some people weep. The question arises, is grief a provocative of thirst? It seems so, for HEIMANN, of the cosy little FIGARO SALOON, where the RED LIGHT shines brilliantly opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre, assures us that more people flock over there for liquid comfort in the shape of prime old Bourbon, English ale, brandy punches, etc., on a tragedy night than when burlesque or farce is played. Strangers in town must be told that the FIGARO is the place to go to.

"The Thing."

This is a very expressive phrase. A gentleman's gloves ought to be "just the thing," his boots should be "just the thing," and above all his hat should be "just the thing." He can be sure that it is so by buying it at "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. Here the most fashionable hats are sold at the most wonderfully small prices. By all means go to "THE" Hat Store, and your hat will be emphatically "the thing."

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and h[illegible] will [illegible] but Laudable Ambition.

They are having a funny contest in Peoria, Ill. A young man recently smoked a cigar to within about an inch of the tip without the ashes falling off. A rival smoked another half an inch shorter than his, and triumphantly labeled the ashes. And now all the young smokers in Peoria are trying to smoke a cigar shorter than anyone else without breaking the ashes. Business must be rather stagnant in Peoria in the plow line just at present; and the young Peoria gents must be hard up for amusement we should judge.

Napa soda with Otard, Bourbon, Schnapps and Rye Syrups, is becoming the fashionable drink. "Some of the same for me."

M. KANE,

DEALER IN WINES, LIQUORS AND CI[illegible]

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

LETTER FROM AUSTRALIA.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

MELBOURNE, June 28th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—Since my last communication to you theatrical events in this city have thickened to a most astonishing extent. Complications have arisen—have been explained away—and the upshot of all is that George Coppin is now the sole lessee and manager of the Theatre Royal. And this is how it came about: Mr. Coppin (through his agent, Mr. Burrill, of your city,) engaged the Zavistowski Sisters for a professional tour through the Australian Colonies, and having made arrangements for their first "show" at the Opera House in Sydney, put himself in communication with his partners, Messrs. Harwood, Stewart & Hennings as to their Melbourne appearance at the Theatre Royal. No agreement, however, could be arrived at, even to recoup Mr. Coppin his original terms with those artistes. But Coppin was not to be "done;" he determined to go into management—to engage the Sydney company to support the Zavistowskis, and open the Princess' Theatre against his partners. This course of action seems to have brought them to their senses, as after several consultations it eventuated in Coppin buying out his partners and becoming sole lessee. I can assure you that the new management has been received with every satisfaction by all, both before and behind the curtain, and the advent of Mr. Coppin to the reigns of government of the Theatre Royal, Melbourne, is and has been the subject of universal congratulation, as it at once and forever extinguished one of the most gross and contemptible monopolies with which this city was ever cursed in the way of amusements. The retiring partners took their farewell benefits to good houses, and on Saturday, June 17th, was inaugurated before a crammed house the first night of

MR. COPPIN'S SEASON,

on which occasion, in a lengthy and well-considered speech, he made public his future policy. He clearly showed that Shakspeare is now no draw in this city, not even when rendered by the best of talent, but that Boucicault was the trump card, and that he intended to play him to a winning game. Adverting to admirers of Shakspeare, Mr. Coppin thus speaks:

Some correspondent remarked that Shakspeare was attractive when supported by poor Brooke. The observation seemed to me very like putting the cart before the horse, for he ought to have said that Booth was attractive when illustrating the works of Shakspeare. These Shakspeare-mania writers will be startled to learn that Mr. Brooke's largest receipt in one night was to the performance of "The Serious Family"—not for a benefit, either. His next best house was to "His Last Legs," which I think clearly proves that it was the attraction of the star and not the author. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kean represented "The Wife's Secret" and "The Jealous Wife" more frequently and to better houses than any Shakspearian play in their repertoire. I am told that "The Pilot" was more profitable to the treasury of Barry Sullivan than any of his Shakspearian revivals; and with the single exception of "Hamlet," Walter Montgomery's most attractive piece was "Still Waters Run Deep."

After defending himself for being compelled to shelve Shakspeare for Boucicault Mr. Coppin informed his audience as to his present arrangements. First comes Mr. Boucicault's "Elfie," which has been specially dedicated to the Australian public, and in which Mr. Shafto Robertson, (brother of the late T. W. Robertson, author of "Caste," etc.,) who arrived on Saturday last from England, is to make his first appearance before a Melbourne audience, on Saturday evening next. Mr. Morton Travares, a West Indian tragedian of some repute is also under engagement to arrive shortly, and will inaugurate a short season of legitimate drama, but the trump card that Mr. Coppin relies on for his great draw, is the Zavistowski Sisters, and with these talented ladies he expects to reach Christmas, when of course he will produce a grand pantomime, after the run of which he will reorganize his company to support Miss Glynn who is positively to visit us in the early part of next year. This week the benefits have been on, to very good houses.

THE GRAND OPERA.

To Mr. William Saurin Lyster is certainly due the heartfelt thanks of the music loving portion of this community for his energetic endeavors in the cause of the lyric drama in this hemisphere. From his first arrival in this city in 1861 with the Squires-Escott Troupe to the present time he has been unremitting in his exertions, untiring in his energies, and sparing no expense to procure the best available talent for opera in Australia, until at last he has introduced in the Cagli and Pompei Italian Opera Company, the largest and most complete troupe of artistes we have ever had in this part of the world. Tragic opera we have had equal but comic opera has never been produced with such finish as it is given with the present artistes. The great card of the season however was Mozart's "Don Giovanni" which was first played on the 20th inst, with the greatest cast ever heard in this city, as follows: Don Giovanni, Signor Felippo Coliva; Don Ottavio, Signor Orlando Coy; Il Commandatore, Signor Enrico Dondi; Leporello, Signor Simone Grandi; Masetto, Signor F. Tourneri: Donna Anna, Signor Margherita Zenoni; Donna Elvira, Signora Clothilde Rosavalle; Zerlina, Signora Tamburni Coy. The season has been most successful and at its close the company will leave to open a season at the Opera House in Sydney.

MRS. MARY GLADSTANE, has certainly been one of the most attractive stars we have had from your part of the world. Since my last letter she has concluded her provincial tour of Bendigo, Castlemain, Ballarat and Geelong. Her success has been only paralleled by that of Mr Walter Montgomery. Mrs. Gladstane's performances have been universally praised by the provincial press, as displaying histrionic talents of the highest order. In company with her agent and manager, Mr. L. M. Bayless and a good stock company, she left last week for South Australia to open an eight week's season at the Theatre Royal, Adelaide.

NEGRO MINSTRELSY.

I am sorry to say that plucky Frank Weston is dead broke. He has fought a hard battle, and has been obliged at last to "cave in." And I still further regret to say that his health is very queer and giving some slight concern to his multifarious friends. He intends to lie by for a bit to recruit himself, previous to recommencing the "battle of life."

FRANK HUSSEY,

however, has come to the fore—got together a tol-erab'y good company, and is trying to pull through a season at Weston's Opera House. Miss Blanche Clifton (Mrs. Hussey) is appearing nightly with great success in Ethiopian farces.

THE COLOSSEUM

is, I regret to say, still allowed to open its filthy doors to the scum of the city. Charley Wright is still its congenial proprietor.

THE PROVINCES.

There is an idea started to rebuild the Lyceum Theatre at Sandhurst, and as the locality is the most prosperous out of Melbourne, it is possible the idea will eventuate. The Ballarat Theatre is to open Saturday next, under the management of Messrs. Lawrence and G. W. Collier, who have lately returned from New Zealand. Miss Carrie George (Mrs. Lawrence), Miss Lizzie Hoshe (Mrs. Collier), and Messrs. Metcalfe and George Leopold will be in the company. Chas. Lascelles and Miss Lambert are at Daylesford, doing scenes from the "Grand Duchess." Mr. Lyster is reorganizing his English opera troupe for the country districts—Miss Alice May (Mrs. G. B. Allen) is to be prima donna; Miss Lambert, Mrs. H. J. Fox and Miss and Rainford will be in the troupe, of which Mr G. B. Allen will be the conductor and composer.

OBITUARY.

During the past few weeks the hand of death has snatched away three of our old favorites. First, I have to chronicle the death of Mrs. Harry Jackson, at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Walter Hill, Auckland (N. Z.), on the 23d of May. Her decease was expected, as for months she has been suffering from that "fell destroyer," consumption. Her end was very peaceable. Mr. Thomas Reed, a very eminent violoncello player in this city, and one of the mainstays of the Philharmonic Society, "went home" on Sunday, June 16th last, at his residence at Fitzroy, Victoria, at the ripe old age of seventy six. The old gentleman, who was the father of Mr. German Reed, of London, was a musician of the highest culture, and was for years, until lately, connected with the Melbourne Theatre. Lastly, poor Tom Leopold departed for another and we hope a better world on the same Sunday—the 16th. His illness has been a long and severe one, and his sufferings have been very great for months past; now "poor Tom's a-cold." Peace to his manes!

THE ZAVISTOWSKI SISTERS

commenced their first Australian engagement at the Opera House, Sydney, on the 15th inst., and were from the alpha to the omega of their performances a complete success. The Sydney Morning Herald which very seldom enters fully into theatrical matters, has the following in its issue of June 19th:

Burlesque acting has been for many years a favorite form of amusement in England and has become so more recently in America. It has also its votaries amongst a large section of Australian playgoers, but the only opportunity they have had of seeing a first-class artist was during Lady Don's visit to these colonies, which proved so remunerative that it is not surprising that Mr. Coppin, with his usual business ability, took the earliest opportunity to secure the services of other stars in that line. These are the sisters Zavistowski, who arrived here recently, after a tour through America, where the press has accorded them the highest position in their profession. On Saturday night they made their debut here before one of the largest audiences ever seen in the Opera House, and had a highly flattering welcome. The burlesque selected for the occasion is founded on the well-known mythological story of Ixion, in which Miss Emmeline sustained the role of the Thessalian monarch, Miss Obristine that of Jupiter, and Alice, Mercury. Their personal appearance, their brilliant acting, singing, and dancing, took the house by storm, and there seemed to be but one opinion, which was that they have hitherto had no rivals in Australia. Plaudits of the most enthusiastic character frequently interrupted the action of the piece, and numerous bouquets were showered upon the stage from the occupants of the dress circle.

It is a source of satisfaction to us Melbournetites that the first engagement we have had since the opening of the new route between California and Australia should have met with success so pronounced, and it may be an inducement to other novelties to pay us a professional visit; but I consider I am only doing my duty as a conscientious chronicler in warning second or third-rate artistes against coming amongst us, as they will not only disappoint us, but meet with much disappointment and discouragement themselves.

CALL BOY.

Memorabilia:

There can be no more evidential proof of where the most modern style of Opera Shoe now in vogue, is to be obtained than to ask any "abonada" in the dress circle of the Metropolitan Theatre where she calceates. She will answer at East's fashionable Shoe Store, No. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

FIGARO

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

532 Merchant st. and 535 Washington st.

Below Montgomery Block.

THURSDAY.....AUGUST 3, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical Managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, Alhambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The triumph of the present season of Italian Opera was 'Faust" as performed last night. Mme. Agatha States astonished even her most enthusiastic admirers by her admirable acting and singing in the role of Marguerite, into which she infused more soul than any other in which she has appeared. The spinning wheel song was beautifully rendered and the jewel song was no less a success. Each successive role undertaken by Signor Cecchi is an improvement on the preceding one, and if this continues long enough he may yet be the most popular tenor we have ever had. He sang Faust throughout with much feeling and good taste and frequently drew applause from the audience; Signor Susini sang the the part of Mephistopheles very well; Miss Ridgway made a charming Siebel and sang beautifully. The chorus, orchestra and brass band performed their respective duties well and the tableau at the finale was very effective. The audience were spared the pain of seeing Faust going down to the lower region as he is supposed to do, and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure they experienced in witnessing the much-wronged Marguerite going up to the realms of bliss. We hope this opera will be repeated at an early date; the immense audience present testified to its popularity, and the applause to their satisfaction with the manner in which it was performed. To-morrow evening the beautiful opera of "Lucia di Lammermoor" will be produced. There will be a matinee on Saturday when "Ernani" will be presented.

Alhambra Theatre.

Lonis Braham, S. S. Purdy, Gustave Bidaux and Johnny De Angelis, all appear in the first part, and sing sentimental ballads and comic ditties. Vivian appears in an entirely new repertoire of character songs, but is nightly called on for the Treadmill song. The roaring farce of "Distinguished Arrivals" is very popular; Gustave Bidaux sings Geo. Evans' charming song, "Those Chiming Bells," very finely; Cogill and Cooper gain much applause for their double song and dance, and the burlesque, "Under the Oil Lamp," concludes the entertainment.

California Theatre.

"Elizabeth" was played last night with Mrs. F. W. Lander in the title role; how well it was played, it is needless to mention, as the public are familiar with Mrs. Lander's powerful impersonation of the character. She was ably supported by the company. Miss Imogene Vandyke played the part of Lady Sarah Howard well, and proved that she is a good addition to the stock company. The same play will be performed to-night.

Bella Union Theatre.

Everything is bright from first to last at this popular place of amusement. In the first part Mat Kelly, R. G. Marsh and Geo. Reynolds cause much fun and the songs and choruses please all. Sallie Henry sings the "Song of Birds" very pleasingly; George Reynolds is much applauded for his Celestial hymn "Ching-ching, Chow-chow," and the nursery rhymes are a popular feature. Miss Ella Wesner appears nightly in the interlude and delights all by her neat characterizations of the men and boys of the day; Aline Le Favre is dashing and brilliant in the farce of "Jenny Lind," and all do their parts well.

Platt's Hall.

To-night De Witt Tallmage, who is certainly one of the most popular lecturers of the day, will deliver a lecture entitled "Slices of European Travel Cooked Down for an American Audience." Some people think a lecture must be dull and when they want a laugh, go to listen to Purdy's droll sayings or Cooke's jokes at the circus. De Witt Tallmage is as funny as either of these albeit he does not to suit the public taste black his face or wear a cap and bells. A burnt cork lecture would draw, but we cannot persade Mr. Tallmage to try the experiment.

New York Mammoth Circus.

This Circus has achieved an immense success, the spacious pavilion last night again presenting the view of a dense sea of heads. Every act performed is of such sterling merit that no flaw can be picked in the programme. Everything is rattled through with lightning speed, and the spectators have scarcely done applauding one brilliant act before another claims their attention. All the artists are first-class in their various specialties, and the quadrupedal stock includes some of the most intelligent animals we have ever seen. San Francisco has the circus fever severely, and it will be some time before it abates. Every possible arrangement for the comfort of visitors has been made, and all who visit the New York Mammoth Circus this evening are sure to enjoy themselves.

Theatre Comique.

Maggie Knight is a perfect little jewel and already shines brilliantly among the artistes whom we have raised in California. Frank Jones is a decidedly original genius; Lizzie Harmon's songs are always encored, and the comicalities of Johnny Tuers and Jake Wallace are always laughed at. A great bill will be presented to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

The usual skating assemblies to-day, for which no extra charge is made, except for the use of skates. A stroll through these grounds yields a better return for the investment of twenty-five cents than anything that can be purchased with that fractional part of a dollar,

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities

Ladies' Bazaar.

The Ladies' Bazaar for the benefit of St. Joseph's Church on Tenth street has proved a great success. To-night at 11 o'clock the friends of four of the most popular young ladies in the parish will compete together in the purchase of a fine gold watch, to be presented to the young lady receiving the greatest number of votes, each vote to cost 25 cents. Other amusements to-day and this evening, after which the Fair will close.

Guerin & Kelly, prize boot and shoe makers, 317 and 329 Bush street. Must sell $35,000 worth of boots and shoes within 60 days. Call and examine our stock.

Mrs. Lander, the Tragedienne.

We have never seen an audience exactly "drowned in tears," but Mrs. Lander does make some people weep. The question arises, is grief a provocative of thirst? It seems so, for HERMANN, of the cosy little FIGARO SALOON, where the RED LIGHT shines brilliantly opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre, assures us that more people flock over there for liquid comfort in the shape of prime old Bourbon, English ale, brandy punches, etc., on a tragedy night than when burlesque or farce is played. Strangers in town must be told that the FIGARO is the place to go to. *

"The Thing."

This is a very expressive phrase. A gentleman's gloves ought to be "just the thing," his boots should be "just the thing," and above all his hat should be "just the thing." He can be sure that it is so by buying it at "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. Here the most fashionable hats are sold at the most wonderfully small prices. By all means go to "THE" Hat Store, and your hat will be emphatically "the thing." *

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

The new Summer styles of hats are very numerous, and "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, is daily visited by the fashionable men of San Francisco. It is only at "THE" Hat Store that one can be sure of seeing all the various styles. Of course, everyone knows that "THE" Hat Store is the second hat store below Kearny street. The new styles are all sold at very moderate prices at this well-known establishment, and money can be saved by dealing there. *

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. *

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone. *

Editorial Notices.

Acquainted with the manufacture of the articles advertised in these columns, we can recommend them to the public as being made of the best materials and by skilled workmen. Any complaints of unfair dealing on the part of advertisers will receive our attention, and if sufficiently proved will cause the offenders to be excluded from these columns. Mr. Hawley, Lessee of the Theatre Comique, is a gentleman of the highest character, and we can recommend him to the public as such. The Opera and Drama are the best means of education, and we hope to see the Theatres well patronized. Mr. Lander and Mme. Lea Silly are artists of the highest order, and we hope to see them crowded nightly. Mr. Lander's engagement is for twelve nights only. Mme. Lea Silly's Troupe is the best Opera Bouffe Troupe that has ever appeared on our boards. Miss Ella Wesner is a favorite with the public, and deserves a crowded house. Miss Aline Le Favre is a Pantomimist and Broadsword Combatant that has never appeared on our boards before.

A Mystery.

The following paragraph appeared among the local items of the Bulletin the evening before last:

If the managers of the State Agricultural Fair have made any proposition looking to the exhibition of this thing at Sacramento, the sooner that proposition is withdrawn the better. At present, our local crop of humbugs is deemed inexhaustible.

Perceiving that the above was evidently a fragment of an article misplaced by the printer, we diligently searched to find what "thing" was to be exhibited at Sacramento, or what particular local humbug was referred to. It could'nt be the "Unknown," for he is in Salt Lake. There is a paragraph headed "Woman Suffrage;" perhaps that's it. "James Lick," no he isn't a local humbug; he has just given the Pioneers the lot on which their building stands—no humbug about that. "Federal Payment"—custom house employees kept waiting two days for their green backs; that can't be it. Ah! here we have it: "New Educational Institution," to be called the Washington College Association; if it isn't that, perhaps it is "The Scott Centennary" or, the "Independent Order of White Men." It might have reference to the paragraph headed "Admitted to Citizenship;" there's a good deal of humbug about that; two thirds of those foreigners know they're lying when they say they renounce all the ties that bind them to the land of their birth, and don't intend to become really American citizens. We have gone all through the local column, and can't find a head for that paragraph, though as the Bulletin justly observes, "our local crop of humbugs is deemed inexhaustible." After mature deliberation, we have come to the conclusion that the paragraph is not altogether unconnected with a proposition to send the Cardiff Giant here for exhibition.

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patranized by everybody.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices. •

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge. •

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry. •

Cremo de Lis.

Beautiful is the finish developed by the use of DICKEY'S celebrated CREME DE LIS, a pure transparent complexion being imparted. No poison enters its composition. •

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Beilly, Agents. •

Oysters and Chowder.

Try J. Gusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night. •

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street, open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock. •

Work in California.

The report of the Secretary of the Labor Exchange proves that there is plenty of work in California for those who want it. The following extract should be circulated as widely as possible:

By comparing the orders enumerated above with those engaged, it will be seen the cry of no work is utterly without foundation, my orders being in excess of places filled, by several hundred. The truth seems to be that most applicants do not want work, but picked places.

The fact is that the laborer in California has been terribly spoiled by prosperity. It is possible that in course of time the man in California who is capable of no finer work than digging potatoes or shoveling sand will learn that to wear a silk hat and broadcloth suit on Sundays is not absolutely necessary to his existence; he will find that he must be content with domestic cigars made by the Heathen Chinee, or even a low pipe, in place of prime Havanas. We grieve that the dignity of labor should be thus degraded and leveled in the sand. Mrs. Bridget can no longer wear her sable cape on Sundays; it has had to be left with mine uncle as security for a loan. Pat can't go to the Cliff House now with a spanking team; he has to take the cars. Sad! The Secretary says:

The majority of applicants, city, prefer idleness here, and lament to uniformed sympthizers that they cannot obtain employment. In proof of this it can be shown daily at the Exchange that places as laborers at $20 per month and found, or as potato-diggers at $25 per month, are scornfully rejected.

These gentlemen aver that they would starve before they'd work for Chinaman's wages and expect all who believe in the dignity of labor to uphold them in this noble resolve. Let us then if our potatoes rise in price, eat them with a relish, having for a delicious sauce the reflection that they were dug by a white man. For ourselves we protest that even the potatoes are disgraced by being dug by a Chinaman. To expect a man to work for his board and lodging and only $25 a month for clothing and spending money, is an outrage that will, we are sure shock everyone who considers it in the right light. There is no work in California; it is no place for a white man.

Rome the Capital of Italy.

On Sunday next the Italian residents of this city and thousands who sympathize with them, will celebrate the completion of Italian Unity with Rome as its capital. Such a rejoicing is but natural, and high holiday will be held; there will be a procession, speeches, and a general jollification. While the Italians will rejoice, they will carefully avoid giving offence by word, deed or written sentiment to those who deplore the loss of the city of Rome to the church whose seat of government it has been so long.

How to Choose a Wife.

Dr Franklin recommended a young man, in the choice of a wife, to select her from a bunch, giving as his reason that when there are many daughters they improve each other, and from emulation acquire more, and do more, than a single child spoiled by parental fondness.

Big buckles and rosettes on ladies shoes are in vogue again at the East. Has East any of them yet?

The Plebeian is said to be reduced to poor living—Custom House pap.

"The Thing."

This is a very expressive phrase. A gentleman's gloves ought to be "just the thing," his boots should be "just the th ng," and above all his hat should be "just the thing." He can be sure that it is so by buying it at "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. Here the most fashionable hats are sold at the most wonderfully small prices. By all means go to "THE" Hat Store, and your hat will be emphatically "the thing." •

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones. from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

A Fair Proposition.

We are authorized to say that Pipifax Bitters will be given free of charge to those suffering from dyspepsia, biliousness, indigestion, inaction of the liver and loss of appetite, to convince them that they can find permanent relief by drinking that valuable tonic. Go and try it at Shaeffer, Walter & Co's, 302 Battery st. •

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure. •

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street. •

Dull Times and Advertising.

The Washington Star has the following pithy remark concerning dull times and advertising:

Shrewd business men keep up their trade in dull times by advertising. In such times purchasers appreciate the value of every dime they expend, and scan the papers to see where they can buy to the best advantage.

How very few business men there are who understand the art of advertising! Many make dull times a reason for not advertising, when in fact advertising will do them as much good proportionately when times are dull as when they are good. There is always some business doing in the dullest times and the object a man has in advertising, is to get a larger share of it than his non-advertising neighbor. An umbrella man will not of course advertise the superiority of his umbrellas during the Summer season, but he will not stop advertising; he will keep the fact that he is in business before the public by calling attention to his parasols and canes, and when the rainy weather comes he will reap the benefit of the seed sown in the Summer time. When business is dull, it can be brightened up wonderfully by judicious advertising. We hear some few business men in this city say that they don't mean to exhibit their goods at the Mechanics' Fair this year because it costs too much money and they can't afford it. If they look at the matter rightly they cannot afford not to exhibit. The amount of advertising their goods get by being displayed in the Pavilon and having the public attention called to them by judicious notices in the newspapers, is worth a considerable sum. Those of our business men who are not represented at the coming Fair the public will be apt to set down as very slow coaches, and not worthy of patronage in a go-ahead city like this. Advertise largely when you have an opportunity to make a decided effect on the public mind, and you will thus build up your business and do well when many are complaining of dull times.

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

532 Merchant st. and 535 Washington st.

Below Montgomery Block.

FRIDAY.....AUGUST 4, 1871

FIGARO will be much obliged if theatrical managers in all parts of the United States, particularly in California, will send to this office programmes of their performances. Brief letters from members of the theatrical profession will also be acceptable. FIGARO will mailed free of charge to all desiring it.

"Figaro" is used every night as House Programme for Maguire's Opera House, Metropolitan Theatre, California Theatre, A hambra Theatre, Bella Union Theatre, Theatre Comique, and all places of amusement in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

To-night Vivian will present some of his best character songs; the farce of "Distinguished Arrivals" will be performed by S. S Purdy, M. Ainsley Scott and Master Eugenia; Gustave Bidaux, Louis Braham and others will sing ballads; Coghill and Cooper will appear in song and dance, and the performance will conclude with the popular burlesque of "Under the Coal Oil Lamp." The regular matinee will be given to-morrow. Billy Emerson, the ever-popular minstrel, is home again, having returned from the Springs last night greatly improved in health and spirits, and will appear on Monday evening.

California Theatre.

Mrs. Lander repeated her wonderful performance of Elizabeth last night and gave much pleasure to all present. To-night "Masks and Faces," will be performed with Mrs. Lander as Peg Woffington. "Masks and Faces" at the matinee to-morrow.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night is an opera night. The opera of "Lucia di Lammermoor" will be presented with Madame States as Lucia, Signor Cecchi as Edgardo, Signor Orlandini as Ashton, Signor Susini as Raimondo, Mons. Charles as Norman, and Madame Yunker as Alice. "Ernani" will be performed at the matinee to-morrow.

Maguire's Opera House.

The season of French Opera Bouffe, under the experienced management of Madame Lea Silly; will commence on Monday evening, with "La Grande Duchesse."

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Ella Wesner will to-night present more gems from her repertoire; Aline Le Fevre will repeat her impersonation of Jenny Leatherlungs with operatic airs and a can-can; Mat Kelly, Geo. Reynolds and Harry Thompson will appear in amusing negro acts and altogether a capital performance will be given.

Theatre Comique.

Miss Maggie Knight, the charming little character singer; Frank Jones, the Lively Moke; Johnny Tuers, Lizzie Harmon, Eva Clayton and a host of others will appear to-night in a very diversified entertainment, the programme of which may be found on our first page.

New York Mammoth Circus.

The Pavilion on Jackson street, was crowded again last night, and the performance gave general satisfaction. A more lively evening's entertainment cannot be imagined, and it suits the public taste exactly. To night there will be more novelties introduced in the programme, and to-morrow there will be a grand matinee for ladies and children.

DeWitt Talmage.

De Witt Talmage gave another of his amusing and instructive lectures last night to a well pleased audience. The title was "Slices of American Travel Cooked for an American Audience." Mr. Talmage's next lecture will be given on Saturday evening, under the title of "Rocks on which people split."

Platt's Hall.

The thirteenth reunion of McCarthy and Sister's juvenile pupils will take place to-night at Platt's Hall. Hundreds of children prettily costumed, engaging in the pleasures of the dance, form the most pleasing scenes imaginable.

New Skating Rink.

A new skating rink will be opened on the corner of Post and Stockton streets, opposite the Pavilion, as soon as the workmen have completed the necessary improvements. The dimensions of the skating floor are 60x147 feet: the floor is an elegant double. The building will be illuminated with sun burners, and the entire establishment will be first-class throughout.

Woodward's Gardens.

The usual skating assemblies to-day, for which no extra charge is made, except for the use of skates. A stroll through these grounds yields a better return for the investment of twenty-five cents than anything that can be purchased with that fractional part of a dollar.

Howard Street Skating Rink.

This rink will be open on Sundays hereafter. Afternoon and morning levees every day. The new floor is perfection itself in its way. New beginners will receive particular attention. Howard street, opposite New Montgomery, between Second and Third streets.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Onaillie Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Big Minstrel Guns Coming.

Charley Howard, the best plantation darkey on the stage, and Sheridan and Mack, the best double song and dance men, will arrive here to-morrow night, and will appear at the Alhambra on Monday.

There is Nothing

Which attracts public attention more than a genteel gait in either sex, to acquire which it is necessary that children's shoes should be made to fit well—which may be accomplished by going to EAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, where our scions of respectability are daily to be seen emerging with their purchases.

Good Motto.

Another Insane Women.

Mrs. Elizaboth Cady Stanton and Miss B. Anthony have been to the Stockton jail to see poor Mrs. Savier, who became insane in consequence of sickness peculiar to the female sex, and murdered Mrs. Julia Lake. Mrs. Higby will of course now have a divided duty, and will be constantly traveling backward and forward between the prison of Laura D. Fair and that of Mrs. Savier. It has not yet been ascertained whether Mrs. Savier has any money. We wish to hear from Mrs. Stanton and Miss Anthony, whether it is one of woman's rights to shoot down a man or woman when the fancy takes her without running the danger of having to swing for it. "We only want to know, you know."

The Detroit papers were indignant bec use Nilsson did not buy any corner lots there, and a Chicago paper retorts by saying Detroit was too slow a place for Nilsson to invest in.

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf.

Mrs. C. Cook,

First Premium Hair Jewelry, 519 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

Mrs. Lander, the Tragedienne.

We have never seen an audience exactly "drowned in tears," but Mrs. Lander does make some people weep. The question arises, is grief a provocative of thirst? It seems so, for HERMANN, of the cosy little FIGARO SALOON, where the RED LIGHT shines brilliantly opposite the stage entrance of the California Theatre, assures us that more people flock over there for liquid comfort in the shape of prime old Bourbon, English ale, brandy punches, etc., on a tragedy night than when burlesque or farce is played. Strangers in town must be told that the FIGARO is the place to go to.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

The Best is the Cheapest.

J. W. Tucker & Co. have the finest assortment of Jewelry, diamonds, watches, watch-chains, onyx sets, lockets, opera chains, of the finest make, and medallions, of all kinds, ever offered for sale in this city, and their prices are low.

Squarza's.

Frequent attempts have been made to imitate Squarza's famous liqueurs, but the secret of his ingredients and method of mixture has never been discovered. One difference between Squarza's Punches and the imitations is, that the former retain their smoothness and flavor for years, while the latter spoil if not immediately used. The Egg-nog Punch, if kept from one Christmas to another, opens as rich and delicious as if freshly made. It is an article especially suitable for the holidays. The Morning comfort, Appetizer and Anti-Dyspeptic Punches are excellent at all seasons.

Reading Matter for All.

Loomis, at his stationery store at the S. E. corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the Post Office, does almost as rushing a business as the Post Office itself. All the New York papers and English magazines are there.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

GIVE US BACK THE TAILS.

If we, as Mr. Darwin says,
From monkeys are descended,
Old Time, in changing things, hath not
As yet the matter mended.
Descendants of our ancestors
Have no such times as they,
Who had no rent of house or tax
Of government to pay.
No tailor bills came in—Dame Nature
Clothing gave—
And freaks of fashion did not make
Of monkey girls a slave.
So the olden way's the happiest way;
The new condition fails;
And, Darwin, if you can, my boy,
Just give us back the tails.

No hurrying out of bed had they,
No bolting breakfast down,
No hasty walk to shop in fear
Of some old boss's frown.
The lady monkey sat not up
Till day the night did rout,
In waiting for the lodge to close,
And let her husband out.
They had no votes, 'tis true, but they'd
No officers to keep,
And o'er defaulter's cash account
They never had to weep.
So the olden way's the happiest way;
The new condition fails;
And, Darwin, if you can, my boy,
Just give us back the tails.

They had no fashion's promenade,
Where beauty's feet could stray;
But then the old boss-monkey had
No milliner to pay.
They had no wine, the monkeys young,
Through night to keep a-storming;
They saved thereby (you know yourself)
A headache in the morning.
A peaceful race were they, who ne'er
To war's appeal did fly;
They saved thereby occasion for
A Joint Commission High,
A smarter race were they than that
Which from them hath descended,
And Time, by changing things, hath not
As yet the matter mended.
For the olden way's the happiest way;
The new condition fails;
So, Darwin, if you can, my boy,
Please give us back us the tails.

M. KANE,

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.
